The Social Wanderer

Dear Roamer:

Have you had a lot of fun unpacking all your winter coats, galoshes, snow shoes, etc., which you thought you were so smart in getting put away and off your mind for the summer? Well, it's just too bad if you did, so pick up your moth-balls that rolled out, and MAYBE you can be using them soon again on your re-packing. The weather man certainly pulled a trick on efficient housewives this time.

Needless to say, we've all kept pretty close to home and in the house this week, but I certainly have been yearning to get up to Wilmington. You know it's Art Week there, from April 7 to 14th. I might make it yet, and if you can possibly go? I think it would surely be worth your while. It is sponsored by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, in an effort to create greater interest in art in all its forms, and includes in its program of events exhibitions and lectures all open to the public. The galleries are full of interesting drawings, paintings and sketches, and the high light, today, Saturday, will be the Beaux Arts Costume Ball (a scene from the Quartier Latin of Paris) with 2 ten piece orchestras at the Hotel Du Pont. On Sunday, Firmin Swinnin will give an organ recital in the afternoon at the Longwood Conservatory out at the Longwood Gardens. There will be a slight charge for this for the benefit of the Hospital Fund. Can you think of a finer way to spend Palm Sunday? I could go to the Longwood Gardens any day and surely hope to go Sunday.

Last week end, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gilpin Brown, of Philadelphia, were guests of Mrs. H. Clay Brown, who has as her guest Mrs. L. M. DeMerrit, of Baltimore, Mrs. DeMerritt has been entertained many times, informally, during her visit here.

Mrs. Charles Humphreys and her little girls have closed their apartment at the Riverside, and are staying with Mrs. Humphrey's father out in the country, while Mrs. Humphrey's mother, Mrs. Albert Kenly, is in Baltimore, where she has gone for an extended visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Massey Hines and family have moved into the Riverside Apartments while Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Russell became occupants on Thursday of their new home on Water St. which has just been vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Hines.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Laidman, of Georgetown, have been enjoying a visit to Syracuse, N. Y. I hope they did not take spring coats.

Mrs. R. H. Collins, Sr., and Mrs. Claude Truslow and children, answered the call of the cherry blossoms in Washington and were week end guests of Mrs. Collins' sister, Mrs. Annie Stam, last week. Others who saw the cherry blossoms last Sunday were Mrs. Hiram Brown and Miss Margaret Adkinson who remained in Washington until Monday. They were accompanied to that city by Col. H. S. Brown.

Mrs. Rolph Townshend and son have returned from a visit to Howard County and Baltimore.

Mrs. C. Beck Jones will visit friends in Alexandria, Va., this week end.

Miss Margaret E. Jefferson paid an unexpected call to Baltimore this week, when she was rushed to the Church Home Hospital on Monday for an apepdicitus operation. Miss Jefferson is getting along nicely and we hope soon to see her in our midst again. She was visited, by her mother, Mrs. Harry F. Jefferson on Tuesday.

The many friends here of Mrs. Dudley Roe, of Sudlersville, will be glad to know that she returned last Sunday to her home from Baltimore where she underwent an operation.

Mr. Foster S. Brown, we are sorry to hear was transferred from the Easton Hospital to the University of Maryland, Baltimore, for observation and treatment. Here's hoping to see his bright, smiling face anon.

Mr. James G. Beck whose condition has improved in the past week, was expecting to undergo an operation on Friday, but I haven't heard at this writing.

But now I must run, and be hunting an Easter outfit.

Ever thine,

THE WANDERER.

Mrs. Bartus Trew, Sr., of Baltimore, has been visiting her sister in law, Miss Katie Trew this week.

Mrs. Charles McClary has entered the Easton Hospital for observation and treatment.

A little girl, Mary Lou, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Pippin at the Kent and Queen Anne's Hospital last Monday congratulations to the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Plant, of Betterton, have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. James Plant from England. Mr. James Plant is the brother of the former and they are considering the advisability of living here.

Mrs. W. Ringgold Strong returned from the Easton Hospital where she under went an operaton and is very improved.
