COUNTY HEADS IN SESSION HERE MONDAY

Eastern Shore Association Hears Bay Bridge Attacked And Supported

The proposed Chesapeake Bay Bridge came in for more than its share of attention as the semi-annual meeting of the Eastern Shore County Commissioners' Association was held here on Monday. Not an issue and not brought to a vote the bay span was brought to the floor by former State Senator J. H. C. Legg who made a bitter attack upon the proposed span and intimated that his group might even file a protest with the Federal government should Governor Nice sign the bill.

Frank Lane, of Denton, was elected president of the association and John Baker, of Cambridge, was named vice-president. The secretary-treasurer will be appointed by the president.

The next semi-annual session will be held at Salisbury on the third Monday in October while a special pleasure jaunt will be held at Ocean City on August 3.

Approximately thirty-five commissioners from eleven Eastern Shore counties, together with their attorneys and roads engineers, heard Mr. Legg voice his protest. Walter E. Buck, president of the association, acted as chairman of the meeting.

"There is one thing I don't want Kent county to get and that is the bay bridge," Mr. Legg said. "But I wouldn't be surprised if you get that, too. However, the Governor hasn't signed the bill yet, and there is a great deal of opposition to the proposed span all along the Eastern Shore."

Mr. Legg's remarks precipitated quick and unexpected debate. Harrison W. Vickers, former State Conservation Commissioner, attorney to the Kent County Board of Commissioners, took up the gauntlet with the assertion:

"Senator Legg's remarks should not go unchallenged. Kent county is for the bridge, and believes it would be not only a monument to the State's progress, but would do more for the Eastern Shore than any other one project ever proposed.

"The fact is the site has been definitely fixed upon; the Federal Government is ready to hand out the money. The State of Maryland will never appropriate the money to build the bridge either at the point decided upon or at any other place.

"We are faced with the question of whether the bridge will be built now and at the place selected—or never."

Vickers said he "did not believe any of you are going to be so selfish" as to oppose "a progressive step like this for no good reason."

Wheat, lambs and farm produce, he asserted, at present go to Philadelphia and Wilmington.

"The majority of trading done by your families is done in those cities," he declared, "and not in Baltimore. The Eastern Shore is drawing away from the Maryland metropolis and going to Northern cities.

"Why not take advantage of the opportunity to link the western and eastern shore once and for all with a permanent link?"

Mr. Legg stepped back into the fight with the comment that he had "heard rumors" that Kent county was divided on the bridge question, and more rumors that additional objection had been registered farther down the Shore.

Shore agricultural trade, he asserted, would not go to Baltimore because prices there were lower than in the Northern cities mentioned.

"Produce will continue to go north, bridge or no bridge," the former Senator said.

The erection of the bridge, he added, might result in a "deterioration of Eastern Shore trade."

Injecting a new angle into the controversy, the Talbot county delegation announced it was not opposed to the bridge, but was opposed "to paying the Annapolis-Claiborne Ferry Company to build it." A resolution, spokesmen said, had been sent to Governor Nice to that effect.

Mr. Legg ended his attack with the statement:

"Chestertown and Centreville are drying up now, while Easton and Salisbury and Lower Shore towns are thriving because people there are buying at home."

A discussion of delinquent taxes in the various counties revealed only eight per cent. of taxes in Cecil county remained uncollected as compared with 66 2-3 per cent. uncollected in Queen Anne's county. Kent county, it was said, has $43,000 outstanding.

H. Burdette Messenger, Republican Congressional candidate last fall, spoke and asked that the spotlight of publicity be turned on the abuse of relief roles. He said that a similar practice in Pennsylvania had resulted in removing from the roles many who were there illegal.

Only Somerset and Wicomico counties were not represented at the meeting.

LOCAL KENNELS WIN IN DOG SHOWS

Hawthorne Kennel's new stud dog, Hagerty's Bantam Speed King, was shown and placed winners in three classes at the National Capital Kennel club show in Washington. This little fellow was placed reserve to the best Boston in the show. Hawthorne Kennels are located at Betterton.

Lacking only six points to make him a champion, he went on to Baltimore where he went reserve to Jim N. E. Whiz who completed his championship at this show.

Mrs. Loud expects to finish this little dog's championship at the coming show on June 2 at Easton.

W. C. WINS 5TH GAME

DEFEATED WEST CHESTER TEACHERS HERE WEDNESDAY

WON OVER DELAWARE LAST SATURDAY

Washington College scored its fifth victory of a thus far undefeated season on Wednesday by defeating Westchester Teacher's College, of Westchester Teacher's College, of Westchester, Pa., here 11 to 2.

Evans, making his debut on the mound for the local nine, allowed only three scattered hits while his teammates sent two of the visitor's moundsmen to the showers with 11 hits including for the Kent County mauler Billy Nicholson.

Evans' work on the mound for Washington was very gratifying, particularly in the fact that his showing materially strengthened the pitching staff which has been carried on the shoulders of Fountain during the past four games.

Defeats Delaware In Close Game Saturday

Washington College out slugged Delaware last Saturday and gave them their first defeat of the season 10 to 8. The game was a hit and run affair and Washington hit the ball harder and oftener to gain the 2 run margin. Washington's 17 hits included 4 home runs, 2 triples and 2 two base hits, the heavy slugging being lead by Billy Nicholson who got four hits out of five trips to the bat.
