FARMERS TO VOTE ON WHEAT CONTROL

WILL ESTABLISH VOTING PLACES IN EACH DISTRICT

Wheat growers of Kent County will be given an opportunity to participate in a nation-wide referendum, which is to be held on May 25 under the auspices of Agricultural Adjustment authorities in Washington, it is announced by J. D. McVean, County Agent. The present contracts under which farmers have received benefit payments for reducing their production of wheat, expire with the harvesting of this year's crop. The purpose of the referendum is to find out whether wheat growers want a similar wheat control program carried out in future years. This is the question on which they will vote: 'Do you favor continuing a wheat-adjustment program to follow the present one, which expires with the 1935 crop year?'

Mr. McVean states that all farmers who signed contracts under the present wheat program, and also all who were eligible to sign such contracts, whether they have done so or not, are entitled to vote on the question. He says that there are 508 signers of wheat contracts in Kent County, and that the total number eligible for voting is in the neighborhood of 508.

The proposed future program, it is stated, would follow in general outlines the present program. It would be based upon voluntary contracts for the four years 1936, 1937, 1938 and 1939, with optional provision for cancelation at the end of two years. Acreage and production base periods would remain the same, thus avoiding working out new allotments. Adjustment payments and processing taxes would be determined as in the present program.

The voting will be similar to a regular general election and voting places will be set up in each district. The voting will be secret and a vote for the plan will not obligate a farmer to sign up if the plan continuation should be approved.

There will be one vote for each farm although it has not been determined who will vote in case of a disagreement on the question between landlord and tenant. The polls will be open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Present signers will vote a different color ticket from those who have not signed contracts. The election will be conducted by wheat control committees in each District.

Last year Kent County farmers received $130,000 in checks from the U. S. Department of Agriculture for cooperation in reducing wheat acreage.
