The Social Wanderer

Dear Roamer:

About all one has heard about this past week has been the Flower Mart which was staged most successfully, Thursday and Friday at the Armory, the proceeds of which, will go to the local hospital. All those who worked so hard, in addition to the chairman, Mrs. Jesse Maxwell, deserve no end of credit for it was truly a beautiful sight.

Colorful booths, bowls and sprays were arranged on all sides of the State Armory for the show. These were model exhibits of garden furniture and a special group of bird houses. Music was furnished by a band of Rock Hall and Chestertown boys directed by J. P. Adams, of Dover, Del.

A pretty feature of the program was the doll show, in which a hundred little girls were entered. Miss Peggy Metcalfe, of Chestertown, won first prize for the most attractive doll. Page Wilmer was judged the most attractively dressed and Jane Kibler and her doll were judged the most interesting pair.

The trophy for the best booth was won by Mr. and Mrs. William Darlington, of Philadelphia. The scheme was an outdoor living room.

Judging in the flower show proper began yesterday, Friday.

Winners in other features Thursday were:

Furniture Display—Rumsey Anthony.

Bird Houses—Frederick Livingood, Chestertown, first; Raymond Sutton, Chestertown, second; Gerald Bigelow, Chestertown, third.

Knitted Articles—Ellen Bordley, Chestertown, first; Miriam Newcomb, Chestertown, second; Margaret Crawford, Galena, third.

Crocheted Articles—Frances Vickers, Chestertown, first; Margaret Turner, Chestertown, second; Virginia Moore, Galena, third.

And while we are still near the subject of flowers, I want to tell you of an interesting meeting of the Garden Club held on Tuesday of this week, which I attended as a guest. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Morris K. Barroll, whose gardens are a joy through which to roam. An interesting sight near the gardens was an old tree which has been covered with wistaria from its base to the topmost peak. After viewing the flowers, etc., the meeting was continued indoors, where after a short business session, Mrs. William T. Dixon gave a delightful talk on the gardens of the South Carolina Low Country. Three of those are within a radius of 20 miles of Charleston. If ever you are near that section it will surely behoove you to take advantage of the fact and see them. (Namely, they are the Cypress Gardens, the Middleton Gardens, which incidentally were an original grant from King Charles I to Arthur Middleton, and lastly the lovely Magnolia Gardens, upon which, Mrs. Dixon principally dwelt. The avenue of Live Oaks, which is typical of Southern plantations, leads one into a fairy land of beauty. The camellias, were imported 160 years ago from France where they were brought originally from the coast of Southern China by the Spanish and French monks, who found them growing in hedges. The climate of Charleston, by the way, is practically the same as that on the South-eastern coast of China. Of course there was so much more of interest told, but these little notes seemed to me outstanding. Following this talk, a delicious collation of tea, coffee and cake was served.

Another sign of mid-Spring is on us; our 'city residents' are not missing a week end to visit their summer homes, and guests are generally accompanying them. Mr. and Mrs. Norris Harrison, of Philadelphia, who come most every week now, were down last week end and had as their guests Commander and Mrs. I. Coyle, of Cynwyd, Philadelphia. Other of their guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison, who came via their new yacht. Mr. and Mrs. W. Dorsey Hines entertained at luncheon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison and their guests on Sunday.

Mr. Robert Adkinson and his sister, Miss Margaret Adkinson, their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lamborn, of Montclair, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Hope Barroll, Jr., of Baltimore, were all week end visitors at Piney Grove, the home of Capt. Ned Emory and the Misses Emory.

Mrs. Staunton Brown, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Brown, III, of New York, accompanied Col., Brown, to Godlington Manor for the week end. So here's the proof of my above statement. Q. E. D.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Moyer entertained at dinner last Sunday following the christening of their little daughter, Sarah Catherine. Among those present were the little girl's, two grandmothers, two grandfathers, and her great-grandmother.

Mrs. William Gardner, of Baltimore, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Edward Loud for the past several days. Mrs. William G. Usilton, another sister left on Thursday for a few days visit to Baltimore.

Mrs. Lewin W. Wickes left on Friday for a week's visit in Philadelphia with her son in law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Atherton.

Mrs. William T. Dixon had as her guests from Wednesday until Saturday, today, Mrs. William M. Darlington, of Torresdale, Pa., and Mrs. Eleanor Dulin. Her son, William T. Dixon, a student at Gilman's Country School, will spend the week end with his mother.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank B. Hines left on Wednesday for a trip to Old Hickory, Tenn., where they will visit their son, Frank B. Hines, Jr.

Mr. Herbert Hartman, his sisters, Miss Fannie Hartman and Mrs. Ivis Leonard, and her daughter, Ruth, have returned from Florida where they spent the winter months. Mr. Hartman enroute home, was taken sick at Eastville, Va., where he was compelled to remain over until Tuesday when he was brought home by Dr. W. H. Moyer. At this writing he is getting along nicely at his home across the river.

Last week end, quite a crowd disappeared from town for one reason or another. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stam spent Sunday and Monday visiting Mr. Stam's mother, Mrs. Annie Stam in Washington. Another group saw Baltimore, and all the attractions that that noble city held. Among those who went there were Miss Dorothy Woodall, Mr. W. Skirven Startt, Messrs. Irvin and Ridgely Brown, William S. Collins, James G. Metcalfe, S. S. Beck and Scott Beck, Jr., Charles E. Eshman, and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Usilton, III, who, I believe, were chaperones, if any were needed.

Today I heard of another romance which is soon to culminate with wedding bells. Was I surprised? Oh me, oh my, YES. No, can't tell you yet.

Yours for secrecy,
THE WANDERER

Now an Eastern Shore lady is suffering from the disease. Copied from the Wednesday evening Baltimore News.

Annapolis, May 15.—The abolishment of small county units and the combining of three counties into one unit of local government was advocated today by Miss Florence E. Monk, of Greensboro, president of the Eastern Shore district of women's clubs, at the annual convention of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs at Carvel Hall today.

More than four hundred women, including one hundred and ninety-five delegates from all parts of the State were present. Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen of College Park, president, presided. Miss Monk said:

REDUCE TAXES

'By combining three counties into one unit our taxes could be reduced to less than one-third of the present rates. Efficiency of Government could also be increased with tremendous reduction costs by electing officers who will do the actual work of the position they seek, thus eliminating the necessity and expense of the many deputy offices that encumber our county and State payrolls.

'These economies would make it unnecessary to cut appropriations for educational and welfare work, as has been done in recent years.

This plan of consolidation counties is not a new one and is not as simple to do as it sounds, nor is it as economical.

The plan must have originated in the cities and it would certainly work to their advantage. Let us come right home here to Maryland.

Baltimore City has a population of about 900,000. The Eastern Shore has a population of about 186,000.

The Eastern Shore has nine votes in the State Senate, more than Baltimore City. Consolidation would either cut down our representation to three votes or else the cost of the squabble would cost us considerable in taxes.

The city would cut out all gas tax for themselves and then how could we get nine foot roads down in the necks. The counties get a lot more for their taxes than the city ever thought of getting. And then with only three Eastern Shore votes in the Senate the W. C. T. U. and Women's Club would be completely sunk.

Try and consolidate, Cecil, Kent and Queen Annes or any part of them, Cecil and Kent have big road bond issue and Queen Annes has none. Think how much settling all this would cost in taxes.

Baltimore has been advocating this consolidation plan for quite awhile. Another one of their proposals is to have one congressman for the Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland and let Baltimore City have another.

If the people in Cecil County complain about the distance they have to ride to see a judge, think how they would complain about the ride to get to the Court House.

The consolidation plan would run into a lot of difficulties and the savings in taxes would be doubtful. Women stick to making the homes beautiful.

At the women's meeting in Millington two weeks ago, gambling and lotteries were frowned on as a means of raising revenue.

At the Flower Show last night, yours truly had to spend $1.20 in botteries and games of chance to support, clubs, churches, etc. How do you go straight anyhow?

Did somebody say 'short sports.' Between 4 and 5 hundred attended the baseball game last Sunday at Hopewell. The total collection was only $13.50.

W. C. AND W. AND L. TIE

The game between Washington College and Washington and Lee University here last Saturday ended in a tie 8 to 8 at the end of the ninth inning when the latter had to leave to catch a train. The game was marked with errors and loose playing on the part of both teams until the seventh inning when both teams settled down.

The visitors scored in the first inning with a three base hit and an error. Four more were scored in the third inning due to a walk, single, two bad pitches and a sacrifice. One more were added in the fourth and one in the eighth.

Washington scored in the first when Tignor stretched a hit and error into a 3 bagger and scored on a wild pitch. In the third Berry's walked and was advanced to third on Tignor's hit; Berry scored on Nicholson's grounder. In the fifth Fountain started a rally with a 2 base hit, Berry and Evans walked filling bases; two runs scored on Tignor's 2 base hit. An error and a 2 base hit by Rinehart scored three more, giving Washington a two run lead at this point of the game.
