JAMESTOWN

Jamestown, beautiful Jamestown! one exclaims as he stands on the well kept tree shaded enclosure that marks the first permanent English settlement in this fair land of America.

The broad sweep of the James River, about thirty two miles above its mouth made a fine harbor for the wave tossed ships, and the travel worn voyagers were glad to land there though great forests greeted them instead of the smooth fields that are now there.

They were a party of gentlemen, these first settlers, unaccustomed to toil in any way, and, were they not led by the intrepid John Smith, who not only taught them to work, but punished them if they did not, Jamestown would not have been a permanent settlement. History tells us of their many vicissitudes, and how finally they had determined to go back to England when the coming of Lord Delaware with food and supplies changed their plans.

But it is the present Jamestown that enthralls the tourist.

The old ivy covered church tower, which marked the site of Jamestown has had added to it, a building, a replica of the old church that was burned long ago.

Here, hanging on the walls are many tablets, commenorating the deeds of the early settlers. There is one to Pocahontas, John Smith, Lord Delaware and many others, among them, one to William Claiborne showing that the Virginians regard him very differently from the Marylanders. There is one, too, to an Indian boy who came in the dead of night and warned the settlers of a planned massacre of the whites by the Indians, thus saving the Colony from destruction.

A few grave stones still stand around, but most of the early ones have been washed away by the overflowing river. With the assistance of the government, an association for the preservation of the antiquities of Virginia has purchased the spot and has built a wall around it to prevent 'old man river' from further encroachment.

The statue to Pocahontas is inspiring. She stands with arms outspread, as though she is ready to fly away. Gentle, simple Indian maiden. She did not know that many of the great families of Virginia, would trace their ancestry back to her.

John Smith's statue is also very interesting. He stands gazing over the waters, as though he were eager to start again on his various adventures.

The magnificent magnolia trees are every where present. They are in bloom at this time; great creamy white blooms surrounded by the shiny green leaves, making a lovely picture. One can imagine that they were in blossom on that eventful May morning, when the weary travelers reached the desired haven in 1607.

The Jamestown Exposition which was held in 1907 to commenorate the three hundredth anniversary, while not to be compared to the St. Louis fair in point of size, showed clearly that a smaller more intensive display may have a greater educational value.

For a long while Jamestown was not only the capital of Virginia, but it was the centre of fashion and gaiety, but as the low lying land proved to be malarious, the Capital was removed to Williamsburg in 1698 and Jamestown is now held as the most historic shrine in the country.

The Road To Better Health

PUT ON YOUR HAT

By DR. WILLIAM J. SCHOLES

Gaar Williams, in a recent number of his cartoon series entitled 'A Strain on the Family Tie' shows a father addressing his hatless, balloon-painted son in these words: 'Listen here, young man. If you wanta walk down town with me you gotta put on a HAT and dress up.'

Sunlight Necessary To Life

Albeit life on this little ball of ours is made possible by sunlight, too much of this, like an excess of anything, is as harmful as a deficiency.

We all know how prevalent such infections as Flue become when Old Sol is off the job for a few days. Sunlight kills some of the germs and inhibits the activity of otherds, but as soon as we have a few cloudy days they multiply into countless billions. Then there's an epidemic. So a certain amount of sunlight is absolutely essential to our well-being.

The Hatless Fad

Some people who always run to extremes—the kind that reason if one teaspoonful of medicine will cure them in a week, the whole bottle at one does will do the job in a day—have decided that if a little sunlight is a good thing, more sunlight is a better thing.

This idea has given rise to the fad of going bareheaded, a habit that is as detrimental as it is ill-advised. Especially so in summer when the dangerous actinic rays of sunlight are most powerful.

This vogue has become popular mostly among young people and is on a plane with the mode of letting the hose hang over the shoes, so far as any sense in the procedure is concerned.

Going Bareheaded Is Harmful

The fad of going bareheaded must accordingly be regarded as harmful and should be discontinued. The actinic rays produce marked congestion of the brain whose effects run all the way from a severe headache to a fatal sunstroke. Parents should warn their children of this danger and insist that they wear a hat whenever they are exposed to the sun's rays!

Hints for the Household

FOR AUGUST

By BETTY WEBSTER

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

1. Cakes will never stick if the pans are first greased well with lard and then floured?

2. A lump of camphor placed in the case in which silver is wrapped keeps the silver remarkably free from tarnish?

3. Powder puffs ought to be washed in warm soapy water and rinsed in clean soapy water.

RECIPE

Gingerbread

1 cup of sour milk
1 3-4 teaspoonfuls of baking soda
1 cup of molasses
2 1-3 cups of flour.
1-2 teaspoonful of ginger.

1-2 teaspoonful of allspice
1-4 teaspoonful of cloves
1-2 teaspoonful of salt
4 tablespoonfuls of melted butter or lard.

Mix sour milk and baking soda; add molasses; sift dry ingredients into mixture; add shortening and beat thoroughly. Pour into greased pan and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Chilled Tomato Juice
Mixed Grill—Sauteed Pineapple Rings, Crisp Bacon, Pork Sausage
Baked Onions and Noodles with Grated Cheese Topping
Waldorf Salad

DESSERT RECIPE

Chocolate Pudding

2 cups of milk
2 tablespoonfuls of cornstarch
2 tablespoonfuls of cocoa
2 tablespoonfuls of sugar
1 teaspoonful of vanilla

Heat milk in double boiler; add paste of cornstarch, cocoa, sugar and a little milk; cook until thick, stirring constantly; add vanilla. Remove from fire; pour into sherbet glasses and cool. Serve with cream, plain or whipped. This will make four portions.

SALMON LOAF RECIPE

1 can of salmon
1 egg
1 cup of milk
1-2 cup of bread crumbs

Mix ingredients; put into casserole or bread pan and bake in medium oven for twenty minutes. This may be served either hot or cold.

Pineapple Sauce

Heat together 2 cups of crushed pineapple as it comes from the can, the grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, and 1-2 cup of water. When these are hot, add—stirring vigorously — the cornstarch and sugar, which have been mixed together.

Or how about a tryout of one of these macaroni, spaghetti, or noodle ensembles?

Appetites know no holidays. They demand three meals each day. Your electric refrigerator can aid you in making each meal a delightful event. Try this:

Strawberry Ice

1 qt. Strawberries
1 cup Sugar.
1 cup Water.
Lemon Juice (to taste.)

Sprinkle Strawberries with sugar. Let stand about 1 1-2 hours. Squeeze thru cheesecloth or put thru very fine sieve. Add water and Lemon Juice (to taste). Freeze without stirring. A small amount of gelatin, 1 teaspoonful to each cup of liquid, helps smooth freezing.

LAUGH AT REPAINTING
'Til 1940 . . . Paint With
Lucas
Tinted Gloss House Paint

Four to five years used to be dangerously long between housepaintings, but not when you use Lucas Tinted Gloss. Here's how it will protect your house: Every brushful will spread an even coat of metallic and lasting pigments across the surface with a solid coating that weather can scarcely affect. And pure linseed oil will sink into the pores, hold tight, and never dry out enough to flake or chip.

Years from now that surface will be a little thinner but it won't be cracked. It will still serve to protect your home against sun and rain and heat and cold. It will be the most inexpensive paint you ever used.

Tell your painter, "Use Lucas Tinted Gloss." He'll appreciate it. He knows its quality. He knows that it keeps itself clean and white for years. Get a color card today. You'll like the many attractive shades.
