NORTH CAROLINA

North Carolina, as the tourist sees it, is a very progressive looking state. Thrifty cities and towns have grown up along the highways, for the state roads are among the best in the country and large imposing school buildings are frequently seen, for this state that a few years ago was classed 33rd in educational advantages, has taken a much higher place in the scale of education, Governor Morrison, about, ten years since bonded the state for a large sum of money for the purpose of building state roads. There was much criticism and many bank failures, in consequence but the roads are still going steadily forward, and even the Dismal Swamp has a fine one going through it. Years ago, cotton was king in this state; now it has changed for tobacco is king. One sees fields of it every where, and the Dukes and Reynolds are reaping their millions in its manufacture; though a prominent lawyer of the state says that it is an unfortunate thing for North Carolina as tobacco exhausts the soil and makes it poor.

But at present it seems a very prosperous place.

The mule seems to be every where in East Carolina. As one rides along he sees every where barefooted negroes sitting contentedly on a two wheeled board driving along the road. There seems to be plenty of time for him as the mule chooses his own gait, and he is not urged to go faster. Very often one or two fat women are also sitting on the board and the mule has plenty of weight to pull. Little pickaninnies are seen every where happy as the day is long. They have no care for the future; taking every thing as it comes, and like their parents, they do very little work.

It makes one sad in going through this land of 'the long leaf pine' to see whole groves of trees, looking as though they had been seared by fire, the trees that have yielded so much rosin and turpentine. There seems to be a blight on the evergreen trees every where and it is hoped that the Agriculturists will find a remedy before they are destroyed.

Edenton was one of the stopping place in North Carolina. It is a beautiful city situated on the Albermarle sound, a great sheet of water. It is a city too of much historic interest for it lays claim as being the first city that held 'a tea party protesting against the tax on tea.

The story goes that long before the Boston Tea Party, a certain Mrs. King called a meeting of ladies to meet at her house. There they all with one consent promised not to buy any tea nor to serve it in their homes as long as the hated tax was on it. There is a picture of this meeting reposing in the Metropolitan Museum in New York. Edenton makes other claims; for hanging in the old historic church there is a large tablet on which is written, 'The Test.' In this test it tells of a number of men who assembled, and declared that the Colony should be free and independent of Great Britian. And this was done on the 17th of June, 1776, nearly a month before the Declaration of Independence was signed on the 4th of July. Among the signers of this test was one William Roberts, a fore bear of the party of tourists who was reading it.

Among the grave stones there was a Mr. Satterfield and his beloved wife, and one wondered if he, too, was an ancestor of our fellow townsman, who was until recently our Mayor.

Those who followed with so much interest the career of Helen Kellar, the child who was both deaf and blind, and who was taught by her teacher, Mrs. Macy so well that that she has become a bright intelligent woman, were sorry to read that Mrs. Macy herself has been threatened with blindness. An operation a few days ago has removed one of the cataracts from her eyes and she can now read a little. But Helen has become her teacher using the same methods that Mrs. Macy used with her, writing on the palm of her hand.

Last year Helen and her teacher went to England, Queen Mary was very much interested in her and entertained her at a garden party.

Helen was anxious to meet Bernard Shaw, but when Lady Astor introduced him to her telling him that she was both deaf and blind, he merely shook her hand and passed on saying, 'So are all Americans, deaf and blind.'

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Ethel M. Hunter, Home Economist
Eastern Shore Public Service

Cherries are beginning to be plentiful; and every housewife wants to make use of them. May we suggest:

CHERRY PIE

2 cup flour
6 teaspoonful shortening
1-4 teaspoonful salt
1 cup sugar
3 cup cherries (pitted).

Sift flour and salt into bowl. Add shortening. Rub into flour very lightly with finger tips. Add enough ice water to hold together. Roll. Line pie pan. Sprinkle bottom with flour to prevent sogginess. Add cherries. Sprinkle with flour (2 teaspoonful). Add Sugar and a few dots of butter. Brush edge of crust with water. Place top crust. Pinch edge tight and crimp. Brush top with milk and sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 425 degrees 45 or 50 minutes.

'WHEAT FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

This is only a reminder to those who have been fortunate enough to be asked to contribute a bushel or more of wheat to the Children's Home in Easton. The Matron at the home says it is a task to manage the budget for thirty-two children, and thanks all who help in this good work. Just visit the Home and see these happy children.

Leave wheat at Brook's Mill, Chestertown. Solicitors are Mr. Bonwill Dukes, Mrs. Greenwood, Mrs. Emory, Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Brooks.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.
