FOR THOSE WHO REMAIN

When death visits a home, the first concern is to perform the last service to the loved one in a becoming manner. What ever is done must express all the reverance and affection that is felt at such a time. But in addition to this a further responsibility rests upon the funeral director. It is his privilege and duty to lessen as far as lies with in his power, the burdens laid upon those who remain. By countless little acts of thoughtfulness he can make the way easier for them.

We consider this part of our work as important as any other. Our highest aim is to have our patrons look upon us as trusted friends, ready and anxious to render sympathetic assistance to those who remain behind.

QUAKER NECK HORSE SHOW JULY 27th

The Quaker Neck Horesmanship Association has announced, through Miss Nancy Shakespeare, that its Annual Horse Show will be staged this year on Saturday, July 27th, at Manchester Farm, the Quaker Neck estate of Mr. and Mrs. Hughlett.

This show has been a growing attraction during the past few years and is one of the few events which limits the age of competitors to 20 years and under. However, it is open to anyone who falls in that bracket and the prizes are well worth striving for. No admission is charged to the public.

A feature of the show will be the exhibition of the stallion, Coolrock, owned by the Coolrock Association of Quaker Neck. All owners of Coolrock colts are invited to bring their horses to the show, either as entries or for exhibition purposes.

Persons desiring to enter the events of this horse show should communicate with Manchester Farm, or Camp Rigs O' Marlow.

AT THE MOVIES NEXT WEEK

Coming as an epochal event in the history of film entertainment, Pioneer Pictures' much heralded full color feature, "Becky Sharp," will show at the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, July 15 and 16.

The picture elicits cheers and expressions of admiring wonder. Gorgeously beautiful, stunningly lifelike, the picture is all that has been claimed for it, and more.

"Becky Sharp," moreover, is far beyond being a mere pageant of gorgeous color. It is a gem of screen entertainment, sparkling with humor, replete with romance, and rich with drama. Perfectly enacted, expertly directed by the gifted Rouben Mamoulian, and lavishly produced, it is a masterful dramatization of William Makepeace Thackeray's immortal fiction classic, "Vanity Fair."

Miriam Hopkins, starring in the title role, rises to heights in her characterization of the lovely, vivacious, and successful coquette. She has incested her role with life and understanding, to make the beautiful, wayward, Becky a character to linger long in the memory.

Alan Mowbray, as Rawdon Crawley; Frances Dee, as Amelia Sedley; and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, as the Marquis of Steyne; are splendid in their roles. Other outstanding performances are given by Nigel Bruce, G. P. Huntley, Jr.; Billie Burke, Alison Skipworth, Colin Tapley and William Faversham.

"Becky Sharp," as most lovers of literature know, is the story of a wilful and clever beauty, who uses her loveliness to advance her social position and make a sweeping conquest of the hearts of men. True to Thackeray's story, the picture deals with the elite of the London society of the early nineteenth century.

Generous use of superlatives in describing the settings, costumes and atmosphere of the production is fully justified. "Becky Sharp," however, is a picture that defies adequate description within limited space. It must be seen to be appreciated, and no lover of beauty and fine picture can afford to miss it.

"Sure, I'm tough! I use my fists to get what I want-"

With which statement, virile Jack Holt blasts his adventurous way through Columbia's drama, "Awakening of Jim Burke," coming on Friday and Saturday, July 19 and 20 to the New Lyceum Theatre.

Born to danger, rough-and-ready Holt slugs his way to success as a two-fisted engineer who is forced to use his credo for success to find true love for himself. How he decides between a "give-me girl" and a "take-me girl" played respectively by the famed Panther Woman, Kathleen Burke, and lovely Florence Rice, provides an interesting high-light in the character of the great engineer, and also provides a novel motivating theme for the film.

When the Panther Woman tries her claws on the toughest guy who ever blasted a mountain to bits, "Awakening of Jim Burke" becomes drama of raging fury.

Also seen in the film are Jimmy Butler as the twelve-year-old son Holt finds so difficult to understand; Wyrley Birch, as Miss Rice's father; Robert Middlemass, as Holt's bitter rival; and Ralph Remley, as Holt's comical aide.

Lambert Hillyer directed from the story and screenplay by Michael Simmons.
