Becky Sharpe, the principal character of Thackery's Vanity Fair, was by no means an admirable character, but a most interesting one, from the time that she was a poor pupil teacher in the girl's school in France, through all her checkered career in England. The reader follows her throughout her scheming life, first making a friend of the wealthy English girl, Amelia, who felt a sincere pity for the poor girl as she had nowhere to go and invited her for a prolonged stay at her hospitable home. When there Becky, by her wiles, won the heart of Amelia's brother, fat, amiable and stupid. Finding a marriage with him was not desired by the family, she secured a position with Sir William Pitt where she soon captivated the hearts of both of the sons, William and Rawdon, the latter a young officer. Finding Rawdon more to her liking, with his fine uniform, she chose him though she regretted it keenly when, by the death of a relative, William inherited a title and wealth. The story follows her in her mad search for conquest and power. Finding her gambling husband was poor dependance she used her persuasive powers to exact money from her trusting brother-in-law and his wife by weeping over her troubles, and when she had gained her ends she laughed at their soft-heartedness. In fact, Becky was false to her friends and her husband alike. When the latter discovered her with the rich old Marquis Steyn, enjoying his bounty, while he, poor fellow, was in prison for debt, he found that though she professed to be working for his release, she was untrue to him. He left her, broken hearted as he was, for he truly loved her and Becky's downfall in fortunes began. She was forced to resort to all sorts of means to make a living.

Becky Sharp was thrown on the screen at the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday of this week. An unusual feature was added for it was shown in technicolor. The various hues were brilliant when showing the uniforms and ball gowns of the women. Marion Hopkins starred as Becky Sharp and a fine Becky she made. The picture was taken under the most untoward circumstances. The producer, Mr Sherill, was taken with pneumonia and died when only a third of the film was finished. Mariam was seized with the same illness and for sometime it was thought that the whole thing would be smashed. But Miriam got well and they found her so well adapted to the part that they hope to make it a financial success. It costs about 30 per cent more to make a picture in technicolor and they were therefore fortunate to have one who could carry out the part so well.

Miriam Hopkins is a southern girl, very carefully brought up by her parents, and it was a bitter trial to them when she choose to stage as a calling. Hitherto she has been more successful in the legitimate drama than in pictures, but she has made a wonderful success so far in the character of Becky Sharpe.

MRS. LYONS

Among the interesting women who are visiting in this country, is Mrs. Lyons, wife of the Premier of Australia. She, with her husband, left that country for the first time to attend the King's Jubilee and since then have been to the various countries making it a business as well as a social event in their lives. They have eleven children whom they call their cricket team, although the youngest is a mere baby. Mrs. Lyons is a plump very likable person. She laughingly states that they eat their salads raw and that is the only thing raw about their country.

Being a loyal British subject, she says that although Christmas comes during their summer season, yet they always have English plum pudding for their dinner. Through the efforts of her husband and his ministry, Australia is pulling herself out of its financial difficulties.

WOMEN'S MEETING AT UTICA, NEW YORK

About 500 wonen met at Utica, N. Y. recently at the call of Miss Catherine Curtis, a tall handsome woman, who has the cause of her sex at heart.

Only women were invited, but by the urgent request of some of the husbands, a few were allowed to attend.

They showed that the women of this country own about 70 per cent of all the wealth and it is their duty to see that they have legislation against unjust taxation. They organized a club called Women Investors, Inc.

Miss Curtis is often heard over the radio. She says "One woman can be forceful; one hundred women can be helpful; one thousand women can be powerful; but a million women, united are invincible.

Isn't it strange that princes and kings
And clowns that caper in sawdust rings,
And common folks like you and me
Are builders with God for eternity?
To each one is given a box of tools,
A shapeless mass and a book of rules,
And each must build ere life has gone
A stumbling block or a stepping stone.

Quite a serious accident happened on Thursday when two automobiles met head-on on the store road north of Massey. One of the cars was driven by Mr. Michael O'Grady, of near Massey and had some lumber on the running board, the other car was driven by Miss Helen Ashley, of Rock Hall. Both of the cars were badly damaged and several of the occupants of the Ashley car were painfully hurt.

At 1.40 a. m. last Saturday our fire laddies were called to Crumpton to fight fire at the cannery at Crumpton which was completely destroyed entailing a loss of approximately $75,000. The cannery was the property of D. E. Foote & Co., of Baltimore. The loss will affect a number of families of Crumpton who were regularly employed at the cannery and nearby farmers will also feel the loss of the cannery. Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips who occupied an apartment in the building were forced to leave hurriedly and lost their entire belongings including an automobile. The building was very large and made a very hot fire. Chestertown and Millington companies were present but could not save the building or machinery. They did well to save the bridge over Chester River which abutted the front of the cannery and a pea viner which was located across the driveway on the side of the burning building.

"Nerves" "NERVES" "Nerves"

Dr. Miles NERVINE "Did the work" says Miss Glivar WHY DON'T YOU TRY IT?

After more than three months of suffering from a nervous ailment, Miss Glivar used Dr. Miles Nervine which gave her such splendid results that she wrote us an enthusiastic letter.

If you suffer from "Nerves." If you lie awake nights, start at sudden noises, tire easily, are cranky, blue and fidgety, your nerves are probably out of order.

Quiet and relax them with the same medicine that "did the work" for this Colorado girl.

Whether your "Nerves" have troubled you for hours or for years, you'll find this time-tested remedy effective.

At Drug Stores 25c and $1.00.
