FIRE DESTROYS ANTHONY'S BARN

A fire early Thursday morning destroyed the barn at the home of Mr. Townshend Anthony in Queen Anne's County near Chestertown, early Thursday morning and did damage estimated at between $1500 and $2000 with insurance enough to cover about half the loss. The contents of the barn which were destroyed included an automobile and chicken brooder equipment.

The fire started in the automobile which was placed in the barn about 12 o'clock mid-night.

Mr. Anthony was awakened by the continuous barking of his dog and upon getting up saw what he thought was a light in the barn. When he opened the barn doors he found the car ablaze and catching to the building.

When local firemen arrived the building was in flames and they devoted their efforts to protecting the home which was near by.. Mr. Anthony succeeded in getting a large oil truck of the Texas Oil Company out of the barn but all other contents were lost. The explosion of a number of oil drums could be heard in all parts of Chestertown and the light from the fire lighted up the east section of the town causing many residents to rush out on the street in their rather scanty attire of a hot summer night.

2nd. A yacht which has the wind free shall keep out of the way of the one which is close hauled.

3rd. A yacht which is close hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of one which is close hauled on the Starboard tack.

4th. When two yachts have the wind free on different sides, the one which has the wind on the Port side shall keep out of the way.

5th. When two yachts have the wind free on the same side the one to windward shall keep out of the way.

7th. A yacht overtaking another on the same point of sailing shall keep out of the way of the overtaken yacht until she has hauled clear ahead.

8th. An overtaken yacht may luff as she pleases, to prevent an overtaking yacht on the same point of sailing passing her to windward. She may never bear away out of her proper course to prevent another passing her to leeward.

9th. If an overlap exists between two yachts when both of them, without tackling are about to pass an obstruction or a course mark, then the outside yacht must give room to the other one in danger of fouling the obstruction or mark. (However; whenever a leading yacht has reached a mark and has altered her course for the purpose and in the act of rounding it, an overtaking yacht may no longer attempt to establish an overlap and thus force a passage between the leading yacht and the mark).

10th. All rounding marks must be left on the port side.

11th. Any yacht fouling another or a turning mark, said foul must be reported to the Race Committee after the race by the person in command of the yacht committing the foul. Where properly reported a penalty of ten points will be laid, failure to report will incur double the penalty.

This series of races is for amatures only and any yacht having on their crew, or on board, anyone who comes within the meaning of professional will not be considered eligable to enter or take part in these races. Profession means anyone that has navigated a ship for pay.

Racing is a game, and as in all games, is governed by rules and in the cause of good sportsmanship these rules must be observed and in their observance facilitate better racing, better seamanship and better sportsmanship.

OIL TRUCK BURNED

LOCAL OPERATORS ESCAPE INJURY

The Sinclair oil truck, with Messrs. Frank Smith and Edward Keyser in the drivers cab and Mr. Edward Collins riding back of the cab on top of the tank, caught fire Wednesday morning and was almost totally destroyed. The accident occured about a mile from Starkey's Corner.

The truck was going down hill when the crank shaft broke and punctured the truck's gasoline tank under the drivers seat and set it on fire.

The first warning the drivers had was flames shooting up from under the seat. They got out of the cab as quickly as they could and Mr. Smith's eyelashes and hair were singed.

Mr. Edward Collins' first warning of the fire was feeling heat on his neck. He jumped to the side rack on the tank and missed the running board on his second jump, throwing him to the road and spraining his wrist.

The truck had no gasoline in the carrier tank but was carrying some kerosene which did not catch fire.

ELLIS NOW IN KENT COUNTY JAIL

FOUND IN SEATTLE — BROUGHT HERE BY SHERIFF BENNETT

George Ellis, suspected murderer of Kelly Terry at the Stafford House, on July 6th, is in Kent County jail after being brought here by Sheriff Bennett from Seattle, Washington.

Sheriff Bennett left Kent County by motor for Seattle on Monday, July 15th and arrived in Seattle the following Saturday Morning. Ellis waived extradition which eliminated the delay of getting extradition papers signed by the Governor of that State and enabled the Sheriff to start home with his prisoner Sunday morning.

Sheriff Bennett stated yesterday that he and his party were treated royally in Seattle by the police of that city and had to refuse an invitation to go on a week-end fishing trip in order to get back to Kent County in the quickest possible time with his prisoner. Ellis was handcuffed and the cuff links were run through his belt which was placed on him backwards.

He arrived in Chestertown at 1 a. m. Thursday morning having made the 6800 mile trip in 9 days of travel and one day lay-over in Seattle.

He reported no trouble with his prisoner saying that he slept a great deal and talked about everything except the affair at The Stafford House that Saturday night. The Sheriff was accompanied on the trip by his Deputy John Bennett, Jr. and William Bennett and Dr. Reynolds as passengers. They stated that they did not have to leave the hard-surface road during the entire trip.

JAPANESE BEETLE TOUR

SHOREMEN SEE DAMAGE FROM PEST IN NEW JERSEY

URGE WAR ON BEETLES HERE

On Tuesday, July 23rd, County Agent McVean, Mayor Philip Wilmer, R. Rumsey Anthony and group from Queen Anne, Caroline, Cecil and Carroll Counties, accompanied by Drs. Patterson, Symons, Corey and Lankford of the University of Maryland, made a trip round Cecil County and over into New Jersey to see the devastation wrought by the greedy horde of Japanese Beetles—also to see the effcts of effort made to repel attack on foliage and fruit so that the fruit might mature and be harvested. If the foilage is destroyed the fruit could not mature—even if the insects undeterred would give it the opportunity.

The visitors were impressed with the importance of retarding and repelling the advance of the pest into this area—once they invade in numbers it becomes a losing battle to attempt to mature and market crops during the period adult bettle are flying, feeding, and laying eggs for next year's brood—or from June 10 to August 15.

Fighting the advance by spraying, by hand picking, by trapping, and soil treatment all are effective if a united front is presented—the tendency, however, is to wait and delay until too late for effective results.

The work of the marauders goes on throughout the year, except the winter months. The grub or larvae stage is spent in the grass, lawns, golf course, etc., injuring the grass roots. Following pupation, the adults emerge early in June to lay eggs for the next year's brood. The adult stage is the spectacular phase of the beetle cycle of activity. Swarms and clouds of beetle cause orchards, vineyards, rose bushes, etc., appear as though singed by fire. A peach attacked by beetle appears as large as a base ball. The pit in peaches has scoured appearance after every vestage of fruit has been consumed.

Jersey farmers are adjusting and attempting to live with the beetle—for example, field corn planting has to be delayed so as not to tassel out until after August 1st—otherwise the tassel and silk are both destroyed and thus making sure pollination cannot occur and therefore no grain can form.

Anyone who knows the seriousness of the damage this pest causes should make every effort to repel the advance of this pest by spraying and by trapping and hand picking. If we keep the adults from laying eggs to produce the grub or larvae stage we can control the spread of this beetle or prevent it from becoming a serious menace to 200 species of plants, lawns, golf courses, grass, flowers, grapes, etc., etc.

Traps and bait are available in Wilmington and Philadelphia stores, get those approved by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The County Agent will help anyone who wishes to order traps and bait.

JAMES QUIMBY KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

ARTHUR STRADLEY EXONERATED OF BLAME

James Quimby, Queen Anne's Farmer, sportsman and politician, was instantly killed on Monday afternoon of this week when his automobile and a Gulf oil truck, driven by Arthur Stradley, of Chestertown were in a head-on collision.

A Coroners jury conducted an inquest and exonerated Stradley of criminal negligence; the jury held that Sradleys action was an attempt to prevent an accident and the accident was unavoidable.

In the car with Mr. Quimby was Mr. Clyde Embert who was seriously injured; Mr. Stradley was uninjured.

According to the evidence at the Coroner's inquest, Quimby swung to the left of the road in order to make a rounding circular turn to the right; Stradley swung to pass him on the left to avoid hitting him and as he did so Quimby swung back to the right causing the two vehicles to meet head-on.

FORM TOWNSEND CLUB IN QUEEN ANNES

Queen Anne's County has formed the first Townsend Club in the State of Maryland and have had National representatives there to promote the plan.

The Townsend plan is an effort to enact into law an old-age pension of $200.00 a month, said sum to be completely spent each month, and to be paid by some form of taxation.

It was not stated what the age was of the proponents of the club or what proportion of the present gross receipts tax they are now paying for maintenance of the Maryland old-age pension law.

Whatever this may be they are certainly advocating something that will make life worth living for.
