POMONA ELECTRIC CELEBRATION TUESDAY

ELABORATE CELEBRATION PLANNED

The Electric Light Celebration at Pomona, marking the advent of Power line extension into the Quaker Neck section of Kent County, bids fair to be a forerunner, of procedure in organizing those groups of people who desire such extensions.

Marylands representative, for Rural Electrificator on the Federal program, Mr. A. V. Krewatch, Chief Engineer, will explain, just how to go about, getting the governments sanation, in granting loans to Power Companies, where the demand, is of such permanent character to justify the outlay.

Word was received this week from The Chestertown Electric Light and Power Company who have, whole heartedly cooperated in this extension, are most anxious to extend their lines, where there is a justifiable demand. Other power companies are also cooperating in this electrical extension move.

The program for the celebration which will be held next Tuesday evening includes a demonstration by the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company, addresses by Mr. W. B. Copper, Mr. A. V. Kreewatch, and Mr. Louis C. Robinson This will be followed by a moving picture show.

AUTHORITIES INVESTIGATING FIRE AT SMITHVILLE

SUSPECTED ARSON IN FIRE THAT DESTROYED SMITH HOME

Local authorities, with the assistance of Detective Daugherty, of the State Insurance Commission, is investigating the possibility of arson in the fire that destroyed the home on the farm of Mrs. Belle Smith near Smithville Wednesday morning of this week.

Neighbors reported seeing the fire, shortly after it started, and that it completely surrounded the house. Mrs. Smith stated that she had seen a man prowling about the place shortly before started and that it seemed to brake out on the first, second and third floor at the same time. That in the excitement she did not think to call the fire company until later and when she did she found the telephone wires were cut.

The fire destroyed the home and furniture which was insured for $5,000.

VISITS OHIO FLOOD AREA

Dr. William R. Howell, on a motor trip through Ohio last week passed through part of the territory that was under water due to the flood of the Muskingum River.

He reported seeing large tracts of land with only the tops of corn stalks reaching above the water and houses floating down the river. The flood was caused by a six inch rainfall in less than an hour and was the worse flood in that section since the Dayton flood in 1913. Dr. HoHwell was compelled to take numerous detours in the vicinity of Cambridge and Zanesville.

On his return trip the water had receeded and the corn was flat in the fields and covered with mud.

FARMERS PROTEST A. A. A. SUITS

FARM BUREAU ADVOCATES BOYCOTTING DISSENTING PACKERS

Retaliatory measures by farmers against packers, millers and processors including boycott of firms and corporations which have filed suit against the AAA for the purpose of invalidating the process tax, have been predicted by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Pointing to reported action by farmers in boycotting a milling and grain company at Wichita, Kansas, resulting in withdrawl of suit, Mr. O'Neal said farmers throughout the United States are seriously considering similar steps against some 300 packers, especially the large corporations who have set out to destroy organized agriture's recovery program by instituting suits against the processing tax.

'There are approximately 960 packers throughout the United States, including many small though reputable concerns,' Mr. O'Neal said, 'who have not joined the larger corporations in attacking the agricultural program, and it seems only fair and ethical that these packers should get all the business that farmers can give them, and that organized agriculture should support its business allies and those who cooperate with it wherever it is physically possible to do so.'

Mr. O'Neal believes it would be an excellent thing for farmers to inquire before selling their livestock if the firms to whom they expect to sell have instituted suits. The same procedure, he feels, could radily be followed in selling grain and other farm produce.

'By their own actions,' Mr. O'Neal declared, 'these 300 corporations dealing and processing grain, flour, cotton and tobacco, have clearly demonstrated their opposition to the recovery program for agriculture and for the nation as a whole. There is no longer any justification,' he said, 'for agriculture to place any further confidence in this group.'

That the American farmers are in fighting mood, as President O'Neal states, is indicated also by the stand taken by the Alabama Farm Bureau at the closing session of its fourteenth annual convention last week. Resolutions were adopted declaring in favor of any necessary and reasonable changes that would assure the retention of the AAA, the Bankhead Cotton Act and the processing tax.

RAIN BADLY NEEDED

A. A. A. WHEAT AVERAGES ABOVE DOLLAR

(STATEMENT BY COUNTY AGENT McVEAN)

County Agent McVean reports that Kent farmers with wheat adjustment contracts, with whom he has figured, average over one dollar per bushel on the 1935 crop recently sold or now selling.

Any farmer may figure out his own case as follows: To the cash value of his crop and grade as sold he should add the value of the benefit payments still due of his contract. This amount is forty-two cents on each bushel in his farm allotmnt. (The allotment is 54 per cent. of the average wheat threshon the farm in the summers of 1930, '31, and '32 and has no connection with the crop threshed this year). Assuming the crop sold this year does not exceed 54 per cent. of his base average total production, he gets 70 or 75 cents (more or less according to sale price and grade) and 42 cents more. If 70 cents is a fair average price, the farmer in question gets 70 plus 43 or $1.12 for each bushel sold from his '35 crop. He saved 10 to 20 per cent. of his fertilizer bill, a like amount of seed had a smaller threshing bill, less harvesting and twine cost and had the opportunity to grow feed crops or soil improving crops on the released acres. Farmers without adjustment contracts lost money on their '35 wheat crop. Those with contracts broke even on the average or made a tiny profit. Thats why farmers rate the A. A. A. as a God Send. They well realize that the more wheat they grow the worse off they are

WALTER L. MAIN CIRCUS HERE

The Walter L. Main Circus which will exhibit in Chestertown one day only Saturday, August 24 has the distinction of carrying the largest assortment of varied acts making up the full two hour performance, to please every class of patron, than any circus traveling. It has long been the slogan of the Walter L. Main Circus to Ask Dad, He Knows, for the name of Walter L. Main is known the world over, for Mr. Main has been traveling the byways and highways of this continent with a circus for the past 52 years, and has never yet presented a performance that was not acclaimed by critics, to be far above the average.

The time and care it takes in training the vast numbers of animals, in order to present a performance a little different each season, is rarely thought of by the amusement-loving public, yet in the spacious winter quarters, there are barns especially built for the special requirements of each kind of performance and performers; for instance, there are barns especially adapted to the training of the horses alone where every convenience is thought of to make these equine wonders of the sawdust ring the acme of perfection. There are, also, barns that meet the requirements of aerialists alone who perform high in the air, and that are built large enough to allow several of these acts to train and practice at the same time. There are still other barns that are used only by what are termed ground acts, such as tumblers, wire acts, acrobatic, jugglers and the like.

Aside from the strong cagelike barns for the exclusive training of the wild animals that never fail to thrill at all times, there are also many barns for the housing of the vast number of horses used for baggage purposes, the storing of the properties used in the various acts, the wagons, trucks, and other properties. There is a well equipped blacksmith shop, garage, paint shop, and many other buildings necessary to the upkeep, building and getting ready of such a circus as is presened by the Walter L. Main Circus, which will exhibit on Philosophers Terrace in Chestertown one day only, Saturday, August 24, with performances starting promptly at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. rain or shine.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JHHN BOULTON HELD SUNDAY

Funeral services for John Covington Boulden were held from his late home near Still Pond, Md., Sunday at 2 p. m., Rev. W. Vaughn Moore of Still Pond, Md., Methodist Episcopal Church, officiating. Interment was made in Still Pond cemetery.

It is not how did he die but how did he live.

Not what did he gain, but what did he give.

These are the mints that tell of the worth, of a man as a man, regardless of birth.

Not, what did the sketch, in the news paper say,

But how many were sorry when He, passed away.

(Contributed.)

On the last day of school prizes were distributed among the children. When Johnny returned home, his mother was entertaining friends.

'Well, my boy,' said one of the visitors, 'did you get a prize?'

'No,' replied the boy, 'but I got horrible mentioned.'
