NOW AND THEN

Today I knew the longing
I've known so oft before
To draw my casement window close
And lock my cottage door—
To leave my garden far behind
And wander for a spell.
Bu outside my garden-gate
I found it hard to tell
Which road to take—the one that leads
Into the setting sun
Or follow down the dancing path
That seems to beckon on.
And I stood and pondered there
As I have done before.
I chose instead, the one that led
Back to my cottage-door.

'Stay home my soul and rest,
There are no birds in last year's nest,' says Tennyson.

If one wants a flourishing garden, an attracive home, stay there, but if one wishes to know the world, which has grown so much smaller with the advent of the Motor cars let him get in his machine and travel far and wide. Dangcr lurks around, whether you stay or whether you go.

The Transcript wishes to apologize to Mrs. Alice Mathews for leaving out her name as author of the sweet poem, 'Honey Suckle,' published in our issue of August 10.

The world, north, east, south and west is mourning the death of Will Rogers and Wiley Post, both have accomplishedd much and both have gone to their death together. Will Rogers, of course is the most widely known Fun lovers have flocked to see him and have laughed at his homely sayings. And they knew that when ever he was seen on the screen, that the play would be clean and free from vulgarity. The poor loved him for he gave lavishly of his means to aid them.

'To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die.'

A nice young man on Niagara's Canadian side fell in love with a young girl on the American side. Only the river divided them, but when they wanted to marry such a complication arose. He, being an English citizen was not allowed in this country, and the poor girl was not allowed on the Canadian side.

The groom's family not knowing of these difficulties, made ready for the wedding and the guests, were invited. So they all had dto console themselves with the twenty nine chickens, and the other luscious things prepared for the feast. Will the lovers find a way out of these difficulties?

Versuvius, that age old destroyer, is belching out smoke from a new crater. Some visitors there were surprised to see the people in the villages around viewing it with out worry: some seem to think that Mussolini can stop it when he wants to, and others think that his wrath is escaping though the mountain, wrath because the other European countries are against the invasion of Ethiopia.

Oh farmers you are fortunate indeed to have the soil to till; There are so many with no work to do.

LABOR

Ho, ye who till the stubborn soil,
Whose hard hands guide the plow,
Who bend beneath the Summer sun
With burning cheek and brow!
Ye deem the curse still clings to earth
From olden time till now;
But, while ye feel 'tis hard to toil
And labor all day through,
Remember it is harder still
To have no work to do!

There was a young lady named Harris.
Whom nothing could ever embarrass.
Till the bath salts one day
In the tub where she lay
Turned out to be plaster of Paris.
