NOW AND THEN

STANZA FOR MUSIC

There be none of Beauty's daughters
With a magic like thee;
And like music on the waters
Is thy sweet voice to me:
When as if its sound were causing
The charmed ocean's pausing,
The waves lie still and gleaming,
And the lulle'd wind seem dreaming.

And the midnight moon is weaving
Her bright chain o'er the deep;
Whose breast is gently heaving
As an infant's asleep;
So the spirit bows before thee,
To listen and adore thee;
With a full but soft emotion
Like the swell of Summer's ocean.

Byron

Byron was truly a poet. He was unfortunate in his bringing up for his mother was by no means a wise trainer.

But in spite of some poems which should never have been written, a great many of them are beautiful, and are so realistic that one feels in reading them that he is sailing with him on the wide, wide sea, or wandering with him through the ruins of time and lamenting the decadance of the Greeks who wre so valiant in ancient history. It was to arouse them that he went there to fight for them, but he fell a victim to unlawful pleasures there, and died at an early age without accomplishing his purpose.

English Literature would indeed, have lost many fair jewels in its crown had Byron not written his poems.

Queen Astrid's death in the arms of her husband, King of Belgium, is another sad occasion. Not long ago King Albert lost his life in mountain climbing. The present king's marriage was a pure love match and their lives together have been very happy.

Many many are losing their ilves in the sporting world. Could there be some power to warn the speeders of their danger, and of the peril that they cause to others on the road, who are obeying the laws, and are driving carefully.

The school bell is ringing again, and bright faces of children carrying book bags and lunch boxes are seen, going up and down th streets. The youngest of the crowd, some of them not yet six, are the most enthusiastic.

It is a new experience for them and they have been looking forward to the day while the older ones are not quite so eager.

School means more to the latter than just play time. The town people are glad to see the young again on the streets and to hear their merry voices again.

Are you letting yourself grow old? Not if you feel a zest for life, and have an object to attain.

There is a young man in Boston. He is over ninety years old, but his step is brisk, and he is enjoying life while studying French, and doing very pleasant things. Old age is the leisure time, when one does not feel duty always staring him in the face, when one can enjoy the pleasures which he did not have time to do when younger. So some are taking up music, some writing in the magazines and many are inventing things therefore they have no time to grow old.

The beauticians seem to have caught the ear of the School Boards and those who have the appointment of teachers.

Now it seems that no one who is not endowed with good looks need apply.

Some time ago we read of an applicant for a vacant place who had fulfilled every requirement except she was too fat and so on. The teachers will have to visit the beauty salon often to have their hair curled according to the prevailing style and look to their diet, that they might not be too fat nor too thin.

If you are to have a feast do not invite doctors only. A lady from Washington, North Carolina, was telling of a dinner given to her husband and his doctor friends. Just before dinner was served, one of them was called for an emergency case, then another was summoned to come at once. The third doctor was about to sit down to dinner when a call for him, made him leave immediately. So the hostess and her husband sat down to a dinner for two, but before they had begun he was also called. So she sat down alone to the dinner that she had prepared with so much care, mentally resolving that she would never invite doctors only, to dine with her.

On Sunday, October 6th, Emmanuel Church will begin the first of its home coming services. It is planned that each year on the first Sunday of October, we will send to all members and former members a written invitation to attend that service, and renew old friendships and acquaintances in the Old Church where they, their ancestors, relatives, and friends have worked and worshipped. Emmanuel Church has stood in the center of Chestertown for over 150 years, and is a very Sacred Shrine in the hearts of all Her Children, whether still living here or removed to other parts of the world. Special Music will be prepared by the Choir, a luncheon served in the Parish House, and a special Offering taken for the Parish Debt, which the Women's Guild is at present struggling, alone, to reduce. Further notice of the service will be given from time to time.

BETTERTON

Four times within one week death has broken the circle of Betterton families. Mr. Wilmer Dill, step-father of Mrs. Archie Crew, died at the Chestertown Hospital last Friday evening and about the same hour Mr. Harold Crew the youngest son of the late Mr. William Crew and Mrs. Crew passed away at the home of his wife's mother, Mrs. Carroll Loller, near Worton.

Due to the stormy weather most of the summer guests have left Betterton. A very successful Labor Day was had by most of the hotels and cottages. Turners dance hall will be opened each Saturday night during September, as will be all of the other amusements. The summer schedule of the Methodist church will continue during September, Sunday School at ten A. M. and preaching service at seven forty-five P. M.

Mr. Harry Price, who enlisted in the Navy in the early summer is at home for a two weeks vacation. He is stationed at Norfolk, Virginia.

The amateur finals were held at the dance hall last Thursday night. Joseph Mooney, of Baltimore won first place, Donald McDorman, second and Bunky Bringman, third. Miss Betty O. Hara, of Philadelphia, has had charge of the Amateur night program and it has brought crowds of persons here each Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fisher, of Baltimore, are the guests of Mrs. Rhoten Crew.

Mrs. Alice Davis and children, of Baltimore, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Newton Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Thompson and Mr. Earl Crew, of Philadelphia, are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crew.

There will be no preaching service at the Episcopal church until the last week in September.

Built the Doctor's Way

MANY physicians, who specialize in the care of children, endorse and prescribe Simplex Flexies. In these dainty, long-wearing little shoes the feet develop as Nature intended. Flexies let the child's feet rest squarely on their natural three points—no rocking sidewise to bow the pliant legs in or out. Flexible soles—glove-smooth lining. No rough seams nor wrinkles to torture the tender feet. And, Flexies are as long-lived as they are healthful.
