Surely there is no country more talked of right now than Ethiopia. We are growing familiar with her climate, and products and the character of her people.

Halle Silassa has grown to be a well known person. We have learned that he is a well educated man, and is a Christian ruler, that his wife is a fine homeloving person, but willing, if her country calls, to lead an army of women to meet the foe, and that the daughter who has attended school in Switzerland can speak four languages fluently. The young son, too, is well spoken of by those who know him.

Mussolini, in spite of protests by most of the nations of Europe, seems determined to go into that country and subdue it. All the young Italians are eager to go. They do not realize that they will have to endure all sorts of hardships, intensely hot weather, and a scarcity of drinking water, much of the land being desert, and with the inhabitants willing to fight to the end in the cause of freedom.

The Italian will not find it an easy country to subdue. The world is still hoping that some way can yet be found to avert the war.

The city of Washington has erected mother thus stately building of Grecian Architecture adding to the many that has been built in the last few years.

It is to be the home of the Supreme Court which will begin its sessions there in October.

The nine justices when they moved, moved the Constitution with them just as they did when they moved in 1856, the senate having moved to its new quarters and given them the old Senate Chamber. They have moved very often since and when the Capitol was burned during the war of 1812, they were obliged to meet in a room of the Clerk of the Court on Pennsylvania Ave. Their present home is built especially for them.

The Supreme Court is a most august body. They file into Court in a dignified manner, attired in their black gowns.

Justice Hughes is the chief judge. It is the place he loves to fill.

He was persuaded to resign from the Supreme Court to run against Wilson, but was defeated.

He felt he was in his right place when he was appointed by Hoover at the death of Judge Taft.

Of the three branches of Government, perhaps it is the most important for they decide whether the laws are right by the constitution.

There are two Jews among them. Justice Holmes was nearly ninety when he resigned his post there, but his decisions were always considered among the best.

THE WOMAN OF FORTY CAN MARRY IF SHE WANTS TO

We have news from England that spinsters of forty are holding their own. And by holding their own we mean not having a good enough time, thank you, but in getting husbands if they want them!

The news comes in the form of statistics that one out of every 34 English brides today is forty years old or more.

And that does not include widows or divorces. The figures are concerned only with single women, or, in England where the word is still in good standing, 'spinsters.'

The actual number of brides over forty recorded was 9,179, 'thus giving further evidence,' it is commented, 'that the woman of forty is still a very vital and engaging personality and can easily hold her own when she chooses to enter the matrimonial market.'

That comment, let it be remarked, is definitely a matter of supererogation. We knew it all along. That is, every thinking person knew it.

Our information from England is concluded with the statment that the most popular age for brides is still twenty-two. We might have surmised that too. There is no denying the attractiveness, the delightfulness of the downy cheek and pearl-like contours of twenty-two. But there is no denying either, the value, in marriage, of the developed sense of humor, the perspective, the consideration and understanding, that are the result of more years of life.

We are not holding forth that forty is the ideal age for a woman to marry. But we do affirm without hesitation that the woman of forty can usually 'hold her own' as the report says, 'if she chooses to enter the matrimonial market'—and there is no reason why she shouldn't.

Odd Beauty Standard

Despite the 20-year prohibition, women still bind their feet in many part of China. In Hwaiking, foot-bound women and girls are far more numerous than those with normal feet. The bride 's beauty on her wedding day is not her face or her figure, but the beauty of her feet.

FASHION NOTES

Pleated Skirts In Chiffon New Style

The tidal wave that has brought in more width for skirts has also brought in pleats. This type of fuller skirt is available in daytime and evening fashions, although the evening fashion is being sen more often at present. It is a fashion that may be paid to have come out of the emphasis on floating chiffon skirts, for most of the pleated styles so far are done in chiffon.

There is a particular genre in chiffon and pleats that goes with sunburst pleats, entire skirts and bodices also pleated—very Grecian, and reminiscent of the sunburst evening skirts which Mainbocher and Louiseboulanger offered in evening frocks at their openings.

But there are other interpretations of the pleated idea, in front fullness or back fullness, in those concentrated panel godets that are used often for adding width this season.

To Keep Honey

Honey is easier to use and seems to have much more taste when it is in fluid form and not granulated. Therefore, it is best to keep it in a dark place, as it will keep fluid longer. If it does granulate, place the jar in a pan of hot water. It gradually melts again.

"Weather machines" in the Chesterfield factories keep the heat and moisture at a steady even level . . .

This control of temperature and humidity helps to retain the full flavor and aroma of the tobaccos you smoke in Chesterfields.

And it has a great deal to do with providing the proper working conditions for the employes who handle the tobaccos and operate the Chesterfield machines.

Mild ripe tobaccos and modern up-to-date factories with proper control of temperature and humidity help to make Chesterfield . . .
