The Curbstone Diplomat

WILLIAM S. COLLINS

Last week's 25 cent reward brought no information. It, however, has increased peoples curiosity.

Parking space in Chestertown on Saturday nights is scarce. This could be remedied a little by moving the court yard fence on court street back to where it belongs.

To make a good job of giving out relief supplies is much harder than it looks. When the Red Cross started giving out food and clothing in Federalsburg to the flood sufferers it is reported that colored people came from as far as Hurlock and got in on the hand out.

Besides the merchants losing a lot of merchandise by the flood, another bunch of hard luck faces them. Customers want a big reduction on everything they buy if it was in the store during the flood.

By request, from a motorist who came near hitting some of the College students with his car the other night we will say. 'At night it is dangerous to walk on the Washington Avenue road. When cars meet the lights somewhat blind the drivers and they cannot see a person walking along the road. This warning has been given many a time and two or three have been hit, but we expect the walking on the road instead of the pavement, to continue just the same. Here is wishing those who persist in doing it the best of luck, they need it.

It is certainly too bad that the Lower Kent County Horse Show and the Shrewsbury Tournament conflict. Both will be held this Saturday afternoon and each will hurt the other to some extent. Held on different dates both would have a larger attendance and that is what both are after.

Washington College football prospects are very bright. Last year it was an unbeaten team and most of that team will be with us this season. Lord, Ward, Duyer and Skipp are missing from the line but some of the new material looks promising to fill their places. Most of the back-field men ar back, Artie Grimes a last year substitute will not be back and there is a possibility that Bill Nicholson will not be in the line up. Most fans think however that Nicholson will report for practice next week.

The Baer-Louis fight for the heavy weight crown next Tuesday night looks more like a fight than any held for several years. Most local fans seem to think the negro will come through. Here is one that believes Max Baer can win and here is hoping he does.

Washington College is to be congratulated. 125 new students, 112 of which are freshmen are enrolled. The tofal enrollment will be over 300. Less than fifteen years ago the total enrollment including the preparatory school was 76 and it looked like the college would have to close down as they were in financial distress. Quite a difference.

LOCAL CANNERY CLOSED

The Chestertown cannery closed the early part of this week and the Kent crop in this section of the county is being shipped by boat and truck, to Baltimore, Philadelphia and Cambridge The price this week has ranged from 15 cents to 25 cents a basket.

AT THE MOVIES NEXT WEEK

During the filming of Paramount's 'Annapolis Farwell' in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., the featured players including Sir Guy Standing, Richard Cromwell, Tom Brown, John Howard and Benny Baker and other male members of the cast were required to live according to the strict regime of naval officers and midshipumen. The film comes on Monday and Tuesday, September 23 and 24 to the New Lyceum Theatre.

All of the actors in the film unit daily wore the uniforms of naval officers or midshipmen and were on the Naval Academy grounds from 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning until late afternoon. Academy authorities ruled that as the actors were in uniforms and could not be distinguished from men in service, it would be necessary for the players to follow the Navy Academy rules.

Sir Guy Standing and officer in the British Navy during the World War, was at home in the Naval Academy but Richard Cromwell, Tom Brown and other young Hollywood actors found the strict routine of the Navy quite irksome. They did not object to saluting officers but the rules prohibiting smoking and sitting on the grass were difficult restrictions for young men accustomed to the easy freedom of Hollywood film actors.

The players were required to take off their uniforms and don civilian clothes before leaving the academy grounds and the early evening trips in autos from Annapolis to the freedom and comfort of Baltimore hotels were joyous journeys for the screen players, none of whom envied the midshipmen after observing the strict routine of their training.

The pungently humorus story of a man who thought he had escaped love, then found himself caught up in the love of his life is revealed in Paramount's 'Accent on Youth,' which comes on Wednesday and Thursday to the New Lyceum Theatre.

Starring Sylvia Sidney and Herbert Marshall, this adaptation of Broadway's comedy hit of the season revolves about a man in his forties who thought that he was too old for love, until he found out that no man in love is ever old.

Marshall is the man. A successful playwright, he loves his secretary, knows that she reciprocates his feeling, yet hesitates to propose.

When his young rival, Phillip Reed, finds the going hard, Marshall aids him. Reed marries Sylvia Sidney and takes her away on his honeymoon, but that's not the end of the story.

Away from Marshall, she is happy for only a short time. Reed's romantic nonsense, his lack of feeling turn her thoughts back to Marshall.

In a hilarious final sequence, Miss Sidney manages to convince Marshall that he really loves her, and forces him to stand up against her husband for her. It all ends happily on a comedy note.

Wesley Ruggles directed the picture which features in the suporting east Astrid Allwyn, Holmes Herbert and Ernest Cossart, in the butler role which he originated in the play.

Eight Indian tribes are represented in the band of redskins who waylay a covered wagon and slay pioneers in the dramatic opening sequence of 'Western Frontier,' Ken Maynard's first starring picture for Columbia showing at the New Lyceum on Friday and Saturday, September 27 and 28 as part of a double feature show.

Led by Chief White Eagle, an Iroquois, the band of Indians includes Cherokees, Sioux, Pimas, Apaches, Navajos, Choctaws and California Mission redskins.

The Indian names of the riders are Little Pine, Spotted Horse, Running Deer, High Sky; Humming Bird,fi Running Elk, Rolling Cloud, Big Tree, Black eather, and other picturesque cognomens.

In addition to this marauding band, two Indian squaws, Gertrude Chorre and her daughter, Marie, are featured in the film.

Lucile Browne plays opposite Maynard, seen as an incognito officer of the law, while others in the cast are Nora Lane, Otis Harlan, Frank Hagney and Frank Yaconelli. Albert Herman directed from an original story by Maynard, adapted to the screen by Nate Gatzert.

Drama moves on wheels in a lilting comedy romance with thrills and gripping drama in 'Pursuit,' Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's fast-moving story of adventure on the highways and byways showing at the New Lyceum on Friday and Saturday, September 27 and 28 as part of a double feature show.

Reach Mexican Border

It deals with the adventures of a young couple trying to smuggle a child, object of a guardianship suit, out of the state. Pursued by private detectives, crooks and all kinds of enemies, they hide out in auto camps and farms and in a clever denouement win the Mexican border. Highways between San Francisco and San Diego figure as locations. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's studio motorcade filming en route.

Chester Morris, who scored an outstanding hit in 'Public Hero,' and Sally Eilers, recently seen in 'Dance Team,' play the fugitive couple, with Scotty Beckett, of 'Our Gang' comedies as the child. C. Henry Gordon as the private detective, Henry Travers as the comical paperhanger. Dorothy Peterson as the child's mother, Harold Huber as a pursuing crook, Minor Watson and others are in the cast.

Dramatic Highlights

Dramatic highlights include the plane accident; hiding of the fugitive car in a truckload of hay; the ruse by which the couple, handcuffed together, escape in the auto camp; the pursuit of the crooks who seize the child; hair's-breadth adventures at the Mexican border; the comedy episode of Eunice the dog, and the hilarious climax in Tia Juana.

Edwin L. Marin directed the new picture, based on L. G. Blochman's story, 'Gallant Highway,' adapted by Wells Root, who was a writer on 'Public Hero.'

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.
