LOCAL FIREMEN ANSWER FOUR ALARMS

The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company, after being practically idle for the past three months were called to four fires within the past seven days.

The first which was the chimney at the Episcopal Church occured on Friday night of last week and was extinguished without damage.

Saturday night firemen were called to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hadaway, near Fairlee and the fire had gained such headway when firemen arrived that it was impossible to save the home and devoted their efforts to protecting outbuildings and saving the household effects. The family was away at the time, being in Rock Hall and Chestertown and Mrs. Hadaway stated that when she left home there was no fire in any of the stoves. The fire was discovered by a motorist who called both the Rock Hall and Chestertown companies. Working together with neighbors they succeeded in saving practically all house hold effects and a quantity of farm produce stored in the cellar, and did all that was possible with out the use of water supply.

Mr. Herbert Fletcher was among the first to get to the fire and in rescuing two dogs from the house was bit on the chin. Extensive repairs to the home had just been completed. The loss was partly, covered by insurance.

Thursday morning firemen were called to the farm of Mr. James Fields near Fairlee when a brooder house was destroyed. A quantity of young chicks were rescued when the enclosed porch of the building to which they had crowded was carried to safety. The fire started in an kerosene brooder stove.

Firemen had just returned to the fire house from the fire at the Fields' farm Thursday morning when the alarm sounded for a fire at the undertaking parlor of Mr. Ralph Usilton on High street. The fire which started in a box of trash in the building and gained considerable headway when firemen arrived. It was soon extinguished although the damage was estimated at approximately $100.

LACK OF LABOR HOLDS UP W. P. A. PROJECTS

$100,000 WORK PROJECTS AT STAKE IN KENT COUNTY

The lack of labor on relief, in Kent County threatens to hold up approximately $100,000 alloted to Kent County for W.P. A. projects.

This appropriation was designed to include farm-to-market roads, sidewalks, curbs and gutters and sanitary systems, Mr. William H. Elliott, District W. P. A. Engineer with headquarters at Easton with reference to the approval of the W. P. A. application for $25,000 for a sewerage disposal plant and approximately $10,000 for streets and pavements. W. P. A. authorities have approved the projects, the money is available and residents of that town are ready to put up their share of the cost which is approximately $9,000. Everything is all set except available labor.

According to W. P. A. regulations the labor for these projects must come from those qualified for relief and who were registered between the dates of May 1st and November 1st. In the county there are thirteen men who can qualify and twelve of them are now employed on school repair projects.

The same condition affects the farm to market roads for which approximately 60 miles have been approved, and also other projects within the towns.

Will Start Old Age Pension

The Kent County Board of Welfare will meet on Tuesday of next week at which time applications for old-age pension will be gone over to determine which ones are eligable and the amount of pension available. The qualifications for old age pension are set forth in the bill creating same at the last session of the Maryland Legislature.

Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough has received a communication from the Works Progress Administration, advising that Treasury Warrant No. 703 countersigned for the Maryland Works Progress Program will permit Frank H. Dryden, State Works Progress Administrator for Maryland t o initiate work on selected projects from a program which totals $4,797,353.

It is emphasized, the communication states, that under the funds available only certain of these projects can be undertaken, and that the State Ad-

MAJOR GEARY ADDRESSES LEGIONAIRES

ASKS COOPERATION IN PREVENTING ROAD CASUALTIES

Major Enoch Geary, Commander of the Maryland State Police was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Frank M. Jarman Post No. 36, American Legion held at the home of Post Commander I. Price Ewing.

This was Major Geary's first visit to the Eastern Shore since his appointment to his present position. He dwelt mostly on the work and problems of his department and the need of the cooperation of the public to heelp prevent the large number of road casualties. Saying that the reckless and dangerous drivers will come within ten percent of those who use the road, he asked the local Legion Post to help curb this recklessness on the highways. He said that it was the first organization he had made this request to but that he intended to carry the message to other organizations in the State. His first thought was to try to double the present police force of 175 men but after considerable thought and study had decided that even with 350 men the objective could not be reached without the help of the motorists themselves and that he was going to try to enlist this aid. He attributed part of the blame of the present high rate of casualties to approximately ten per cent of the inspection garages and ten percent of the Magistrates of the State who are unscruputous in the carrying out of their duties.

Captain J. T. Kibler acted as toastmaster at the banquet and called on Rev. Walter C. Eastburn, of Church Hill, vice commander of the Northern Eastern Shore Divison, Dr. Frank B. Hines and Captain Roger Bronson, of Chcago, for a few remarks.

Mr. Elmer Batchelor, of Chestertown entertained at length with stories of his war experience which he told in a way that rivaled many more experienced after dinner speakers.

A delightful turkey dinner was serveed under the direction of Mrs. I. Price Ewing.

UPLAND HUNTING SEASON OPENED FRIDAY

WATERFOWL SEASON OPENS NEXT WEDNESDAY

The hunting season for rabbits, quail and squirrels opened in Kent County on Friday of this week and a large number of local hunters enjoyed the sport.

Some sections of the county report game plentiful.

The season for hunting wild water foul, including duck and geese, opens next Wednesday, November 20th and shore owners are taking advantage of the provision of the law that bait may be used up to the day the season opens. Bait is being used in the fields for geese and in the water for ducks although the law states that the bait must be removed before the season opens.

The law prevents the use of live tollers of all kinds and hunters are busy making and painting wooden goose decoys and wooden marsh duck decoys.

Report Ducks Plentiful

Reports from the Susquehanna flats state that canvas backs are there by the thousands and large quantities of marsh ducks are reported at the mouth of Chester River. Bay Shore residents state that there are continuous lines of ducks migrating daily to the Chesapeake Bay waters.

The Federal ducking regulations practically eliminate hunting on the Susquehanna flats and without bait, shore blind hunters will have to use every trick known to get successful hunting.

RETURNS FROM GROUSE HUNTING TRIP

Mr. Jonathan Jones, of near Millington, returned home on Tuesday of this week from a hunting trip in Clearfield County, Pa., and not only told of excellent sport but brought home the evidence. The writer was the grateful recipient of one of his bag and those who have never eaten Grouse have a treat in store. It is of the partridge family but much larger than a partridge.

Mr . Jones made the trip with a group of Pennsylvania friends who make an annual hunting trip to Mr. Jones's farm.

Membership in the band and attendance at rehearsals is a real community service and every possible encouragement and cooperation should be given the members.

A home town band is a real community asset and it can be materially aided by community interest.

As an incentive for attendance at rehearsals the Ladies Auxiliary have offered an attendance prize.

Those who saw the game last Saturday were very well pleased with the local team against a stronger Mt. St. Mary's eleven. The score of 19 to 7 in favor o f the visitors was not an indication of the playing of the two teams. One on the visitors, touchdowns was made on one of those breaks which come with football.
