AT THE MOVIES NEXT WEEK

Clark Gable and Mamo in "Mutiny on the Bounty"

'Mutiny on the Bounty,' Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's great sea picture which shows at the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 2, 3 and 4, carries one away with the sheer intensity of its drama. Although a historical romance, wrung from the actual records of the British Admiralty, it is far more absorbing than pure fiction.

It is a superb achievement in motion pictures, a historical picture as it should be and one that will live for years to come as one of the most exciting sea tales ever screened.

Tells a True Story

The picture is the true story of the voyage of H. M. S. Bounty 150 years ago, on a scientific expedition to the South Seas. It tells of the tyranny of a brutal captain who drove his crew to mutiny, of the life and loves of the sailors in a tropical paradise and the dogged pursuit of Captain Bligh for the men who had fed him to the wrath of the sea by casting him adrift in an open boat.

'Mutiny on the Bounty' lives up to all the advance praise that has shouted the picture's merits around the world. Its scenic beauty, sometimes stark and cruel, is unsurpassed. Its headed by Charles Laughton, Clark Gable and Franchot Tone, is incomparable.

Nor can the brilliant direction of Frank Lloyd, still remembered for 'Cavalcade,' be overlooked. Here is the same sure touch, the swift movement, the feeling of realism and intelligence in mass movement. Never for one second has the director permitted the tense adventurous excitement of his story to obscure the fact that his players were real, living people rather than more screen aytomatons.

Photograph Is Superb

In his photography, by far the most superb sea photography to reach the screen, Arthur Edeson has given every scene the breath of salt air. The storm and wreck scenes are the most realistic ever photographed.

Although two years in preparation and one year in the filming, 'Mutiny on the Bounty' lives up to every expectation that has been created by it.

Eddie Davis, famous Broadway figure and entertainer, is known as 'the star who entertains stars' in his own Manhattan night club, 'Leon and Eddie's.

The noted night life character makes his screen debut in Paramount's comedy drama, 'Ship Cafe.' Featuring Carl Brsson and Arlne Judge, which comes on Thursday, December 5th to the New Luceum theatre. Davis introduces the song hit, 'Fatal Fascination' written by Harlan Thompson and Lew Gensler.

'Ship Cafe' describes the amusing experiences of a ship stoker who becomes the bouncer in a night club waterfront dive, becomes the cafe's singing sensation until his talent is discovered by a rich countess who takes him under her wing and makes him her gigolo. How he finally realizes his position and his reaction to his lavish surroundings mkes for an hilarious finale.

The cast includes William Frawley, Mady Christians, with music and lyrics by Lew Gensler. Harlan Thompson and Ray Noble. Robert Florey directed.

KENT FREE OF HOG CHOLERA

ONLY 31 OUTBREAKS IN STATE

Hog Cholera was reported on 31 premises in the State in October, which is the smallest number recorded for that period since records on this disease were started some 15 years ago. Fourteen of the outbreaks occurred on farms where hogs are bred and raised, and 17 occurred under backyard conditions, where hogs are kept in a small pen or lot. Twenty-five of the outbreaks were listed as primary, or new centers of infection, and 6 were secondary, or due to spread of this disease. There is every evidence that when hogs are of little value, less attention is paid to their care, feeding and management. However, when hams, pork chops and other pork products bring their present high premiums, no one in his right mind is going to take unnecessary chances with the hogs from which they come. The hog has again assumed his old-time role as the 'mortgage lifter' on the farm, with the result that preventable hog cholera is in most cases being prevented.

Thirteen of the 23 counties reported hog cholera outbreaks. For the past 4 months, Washington county has had the unenviable distinction of having the greatest number of hog cholera outbreaks. They again led the list for October with 9 outbreaks, followed by Worcester with 5; Prince George's, 4; Garrett, 3; Wicomico, 2; and Allegany, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Dorchester, Frederick, Howard, Queen Anne's, and Somerset 1 each. Sixteen of the outbreaks were caused by feeding cholera infected pork wastes in kitchen refuse. Six were due to feeding raw city garbage, which also contained cholera infected pork wastes. It is evident, therefore, that 22 of the 31 outbreaks could have been prevented if some common sense care had been used in the feeding. Roving sick hogs spread infection on 4 premises, 2 more were the result of serum-virus breaks, 1 to the purchase of new stock that were sick when purchased 1 to improperly buried carcasses, and 1 to the loaning of a bear that brought infection back to the home premises.

In the 31 outbreaks recorded, 485 hogs were exposed, and at the time of investigation 104 were dead and 86 were sick. At current prices, approximately $3,000.00 worth of pork has been needlessly sacrificed to the ravages of unseen germs. It is gratifying to note, however, that only 31 outbreaks were recorded for the month of October, when only a few years ago, 150 outbreaks each of the Fall months was the customary occurrence. Reduction of losses is encouraging, but eradication of hog cholera is the ultimate goal, and efforts in this direction should not be evaded.
