CRUSADERS

A famous incident from the romantic story of Richard the Lion-Heart as seen in 'The Crusades,' coming at the New Lyceum Theartre.

Spies will be with us so long as nations hold any jealousies toward each other. Therefore, spy dramas are always timely—and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer brings to the screen one of the most gripping stories based on this subject in William Powell's new starring film, 'Rendezvous,' which comes on Monday and Tuesday, December 9 and 10 to the New Lyceum Theatre.

A Gripping Plot

'Rendezvous' is the story of America's famous spy-catching bureau during the World War, with the science of the cryptographer playing the principle role.

Powell comes to us this time as an entirely different detective from his roles in the past, and the best he has portrayed so far. As a puzzle editor drafted into the spycatching business at Washington he finds himself enmeshed in many notorious enemy agents as well as with the lovely daughter of the Assistant Secretary of War.

She's Nearing Stardom

Rosalind Russell, rapidly ascending toward stardom, is seen as Joel, the Secretary's daughter. Binnie Barnes, the English actress, portrays Olivia, a bewitching spy who proves to be the source of most of Powell's troubles.

Others in the cast, ably directed by William K. Howard, are Lionel Atwill, a s Brennan, the British agent; Cesar Romero, the dashing young Russian attache; Henry Stephenson, as the Russian Ambassador; Samuel S. Hinds, as Assistant Secretary Carter, and Starling Holloway, as the taxi driver who never heats his cab in the springtime.

Although Hollywood has never accused Cecil B. DeMille of stinting on his magnificent productions, the film capital was not prepared for the thoroughness of the master of spectacle in the production of 'The Crusades,' which comes on Wednesday and Thursday, December 11 and 12 to the New Lyceum Theatre.

More than a million and a quarter was spent in bringing to the screen DeMille's epic of the Middle Ages. Loretta Young and Henry Wilcoxon head a cast of approximately one hundred name players, who were supplemented by thousands of extras.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent in the costuming of vast armies of extras who fight the battles of Acre and Jerusalem; more hundreds of thousands in the spectacular effects achieved in the screen battles; luxurious, ornate interiors were created for palace scenes; more money was spent on the growns and jewels worn by the feminine leads in the picture.

Clash of Civilizations

And each dollar spent brought employment to innumerable people from California to New York.

'The Crusades' is an authentic account of the clash of the civilizations of the West and the East in the Twelfth Century. More accurately, the picture deals with the third Crusade, that led by Richard the Lion-Heart of England.

Parting from his native land at the head of Europe's combined forces, because the Crusade enabled him to escape the designs of the King of France, who hoped to marry Wilcoxon to his sister, Katherine DeMille, Wilcoxin is forced to marry Loretta Young, daughter of a petty king, to secure supplies for his army.

At first disdainful of his bride, Wilcoxon learns to love her, soon to defy the intrigues of the King of France for her sake.

But Loretta Young loves Wilcoxin well enough to realize that she stands in the way of his ambition. She steals courageously away from camp, is captured by Saladin and carried off to Jerusalem.

Year of Research

The climax of the drama depicts Wilcoxin as a man who has come to the end of his resouurces, too proud, too brave to admit defeat. Brought together with Saladin and his bride, he suddenly realizes that his Crusade of war and death is cruel and unnecessary, that his adversary is a man much like himself and much to be admired.

Harold Lamb's painstaking research and work on the script of 'The Crusades' is largely responsible for the authenticity and color of the picture. Lamb is the world-renowned authority on the period on whom DeMille relied greatly for his information and aid.

Heading the imposing list of supporting players in 'The Crusades' are Ian Keith, Katherine DeMille, C. Aubrey Smith, Joseph Shildkraut and Alan Hale.

DOCTORS KNOW

Mothers read this:

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch?

The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use a liquid laxative.

If you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.
