FLASHES FROM CHESTERTOWN HIGH

EMORY M. HINES, Jr.

With Christmas ahead and a highly enjoyed four day Thanksgiving holiday behind us, we all begin to count the remaining dates left till another period of suspended schoolwork begins. However, with the two included week-ends of those days, I am sure the time will pass quickly. On Friday, December 13th, the play, 'Little Lord Fauntleroy,' produced in benefit of the Boys' and Girls' Athletic Association, unwinds its unique and pleasing story at William Smith Hall. The tickets are thirty-five cents and all seats may be reserved. This is truly one of the holiday treats to attend. The event of Friday of December 21st is just now with-held from print until definite decisions are passed. Dame Rumor promises to surprise some people on this night.

Absolutely contrary to my writings last week, practically no practicing has been done by our high cagers as of late. The first practice call was only this last Thursday evening, but the dates for limbering up will probably be more frequent as time progresses. Perhaps the reason for the delay can be laid to the fact that the first scheduled game is not until January.

The first one act play of the season, 'Toast and Tea,' has recently been produced and presented by the Junior-Senior Dramatic Club. It was given only to club members on December fifth and constituted the entire program of that meeting. Kitty Bringman supervised as Director. The story involved the social circle of a small town, and the efforts of a newcomer to become a part of it. The feminine sex made up the entire cast which was: Noreen, played by Ellen Virginia Foley; Anne Warren, by Anna Hadaway; Jane Scott, by Dora Patrick; Sue Vanden, by Majorie Dixon; Lola Dean, by Doris Savington; Sally Richards, Yetta Gorden; Bess Dalton, by Mina Brown; and Molly Pendleton, by Frances Lambert.

Activities such as this are planned weekly and are carried through more or less, to discover the kind and type of acting ability the members have. Then, when a major play for the year is selected, a good idea is obtained by everyone as to which part is suited to whom.

On Friday of November 22nd, the photographs of the Seniors to be put in the Dragon, Chestertown High's year book, were received. But instead of sheer satisfaction being registered by those who opened the package, a shock of dismay was given forth.

Due to insufficient light, the shading of the pictures was especially dark, giving the subujects an unusual brown skin color; thus the necessity of a complete retake. This is to be done in the near future, and it is hoped that the photographers will get naturual results. (This last statement is not a slam at the Philadelphia concern, but rather it is a glorified suggestion.)

Believe it or not, but two students of our high school are to play the role of senators at a special meeting of 'Congress' at Temple University on December 7th. The delegates are Mary Alice Hepburn and Ralph Thornton, representing the state of Massachusetts who are, among others, to discuss the Townsend Old Age Pension Plan. The Seniors are among those invited from the different high schools of the states of New Jersey, Maryland, and Delaware who are to act as senators. The House of Representtives will be made up of pupils from Pennsylvania high schools. Hepburn and Thornton will be accompanied by Miss Riches, the Problems in Democracy teacher, and three others, Lusby Elliott, Owen Anderson, and Jim McGregor, who will act as pressmen. The session convenes at Temple in Philadelphia.

In the contest conducted by the business manager of the play sponsored by the Athletic Associations, the winner has just been announced. Gerson Bonnett was the luucky person, and to him goes the booty which is probably to be in the form of money. The award will be made on the night of the presentation.

Only last week our quarterly exams were completed. Now the date for the issuing of December Reports confronts up. These marks are extremely important as they not only include our test marks, but tell the progress we have made during the first quarter part ofthe school year. To some, the A's, B's, and C's, may loom up as grotesquu things which we want to hide in an obscure, dark corner, but to others (and we hope the majority) they will only be definite passports to the road to success.

TURKEY SHOW DATES SET

According to County Agent, J. D. McVean, the Maryland Turkey Growers Association is planning to hold its third STATE WIDE and ALL TURKEY SHOW again in the latter part of January. Present indications are that the show will be held on January 28, 29, and 30. The usual classification for the various breeds and ages of pullets, cockerels, toms and hens will be offered. Doubtless, the dinner with a speaking program will be held on Tuesday night, January 28th. Three sites are being considered for the show.

A decision will soon be made, Committees announced and program proposed.
