The Department of Agriculture's plant scientists, in cooperation with various State experiment stations, developed hybrid corn. They added five bushel baskets of corn for every man, woman and child in the Nation to the annual production of this grain.

Superior hybrids will out yield open-pollinated corn by at least 20%. Superior hybrids are variously characterized by earliness, production of sound corn, resistance to lodging, to plant diseases, and to insects, withstanding cropping hazards such as drought and heat, and readier adaptation to regions, altitudes, and soils.

The corn yield increase in 1942 due solely to the use of hybrid seed was 629,364,000 bushels or that equivalent to produce 6,923,000,000 pounds of pork. That in turn is about 4-5 of the meat required in 1943 to supply our armed forces and to make lend-lease shipments.
