Feathers need not be wasted. The armed forces have been using feathers for sleeping bags, quilts, hospital pillows, and warm feather-lined suits for aviators. Farm families have been making quilts with home-produced feathers. As for the scientists, they have discovered that certain grades o fcoarse feathers can be used in insulation board—which is in turn used to insulate poultry houses. And now government laboratories are working on the use of feathers in plastics.

EXECUTIVE MEETING OF HOMEMAKERS

The Executive Board of Kent County Council of Home Demonstration Work met at Miss Schellingers office, Wednesday, November 8th at 11 A. M.

Miss Travers called the meeting to order by singing "America" followed by creed, read by Mrs. Charles Miller, Pres., of Kennedyville Club. Singing "Music in the Air".

No reports from county chairman: Food, Clothing, Home Furnishing, Home Management, Cultural, Library, Visiting and Membership, Song Leader.

Musical director, Mrs. Wallen suggested—outline music for year and meet within districts for singing.

The President asked that each Club have some one to take back to their Club a report of the meeting.

The roll-call will be "one outstanding thing they have done in the club and one thing they want to do."

Report of Home Demonstration Agent: First report in eighteen years. She reported all clubs have elected officers for 1945, and she has met with all officers but upper county. The past year, instead of depending on Chairman for reports, she sent blanks to one person in each club. She feels reports are coming in better.

Meeting adjourned for lunch.

Afternoon meeting called to order by Vice President, Mrs. Messick. Group singing "Beautiful Dreamer", after which Miss Travers, our County President gave her report.

Her first suggestion for projects at beginning of 1944 was a county-wide flower show, because of gas and labor shortage, we had four indivdual shows. 329 paid up members. 35% new ones. 50 women attended one day meeting last June at Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore. She attended meeting of Presidents and State Officers, with Mrs. Thomas Brockson who is district director for Kent-Caroline-Talbot and Queen Anne Counties, held at College Park August 3-4.

Publicity plays a big part in club work, as people do not know what we are doing unless we tell it.

She read the musts for the club that were outlined on program at the meeting in College Park. Thehighlights of second days program was "Parliamentary Law in Clubs."

It was asked what is the Presidents greatest need—She feels: Confidence, Courage and Cooperation are needed for the success of the organization. She offered these suggestions, publicity chairman, more knowledge and use of Parliamentary Law and a Homemakers Song.

Mrs. Brockson was to give a report of State Meeting. On account of sickness was unable to attend—report was read by Secretary.

The roll called: — Chesterville 2 present, Worton 1, Quarker Neck 3, Kennedyville 2, Still Pond 4, Flatland 2, Millington 1, Fairlee 2.

Treasurer reported having $124.03 on hand. 4-H Club chairman report they have exhibited at two achievement days, done some block printing and are going to make mittens. They had a 4-H Sunday with candle light service in several churches on Nov. 5th.

Miss Travers appointed committee to plan for Bi-County Meeting to meet with Queen Anne's County Committee. Mrs. Clem Davidson, Mrs. Robert Newnam, Mrs. N. W. Wallen. Auditing Committee for Treasurers Record—Mrs. Thos. Brockson, Mrs. Albert Williams, Mrs. Maxwell Meeks.

Committee—creed for Home Makers Club—Mrs. Henry Watson, Mrs. Elwood Burgess, Mrs. Wm. MacCubbin.

Miss Schellinger suggested we send money for Hospital as soon as possible to treasurer.

It was decided to pay Miss Travers' expenses to State Meeting.

Miss Travers, the President introduced Mrs. Remsburg, State President of Homemakers Council, who gave brief snatches of meeting in Chicago which was called National Council of Home Demonstration Clubs.

All States reported having State Councils but Louisanna, which has parishes. Mrs. Memsburg said, "The meeting meant to me a better understanding of all that is being done in Home Demonstration Work. Maryland is far out in front in all that she is doing and can be proud. She concluded by saying "Foreign countries are members of "Associated Country women of the World." Her talk was most inspiring.

Mis Travers introduced Miss Kellar, our Assistant Director of Extension. She spoke of National Council meeting in Chicago. She said funds were provided for two representatives. She hopes more will be able to attend future meetings. She spoke of (Grant-land College).

Dr. Symons has a post war planning program that covers all but the home. Planning for the welfare of American people is a good thing. We want a plan to see beyond our front door-step.

Out of the whole United States (Exclusive of Manufacturers) only sixteen people coul d be found to give constructive information on post war equipment. She suggested Post War home furnishings for the morale of the family. How to buy wisely and even to refinish and use old furniture.

Cultural Chairman report: A letter from Mrs. Ensor was read by Mrs. Watson. Reading-Music-Art-Dramatics-Recreation are included in Cultural Program. She reported on the different countries at war and how interested she was to find out more about them. She suggested Organization of Club library.

The Meeting then was adjourned.

Baked Oysters and Noodles Make Meatless Menus A Pleasure

There are so many things to be said both for and against meatless menues—but in every case it depends entirely upon the homemaker. The conscientious one always hears words in favor of her meatless menues, while the others—well, there are so few of them that it is probably not worth mentioning.

It is amazing, though, when one sits down to some conscientious menu planning, just how many good meals can be planned without meat and without repetition. One can rely to a great part on fish. Oh, yes, there are many times when it is available, and every housewife should take advantage of the times when it is. The rest of the in-between times finds a huge supply of perfectly delicious dishes to take the place of meat. Also, we do have meat points, so one shouldn't get the idea that there will be no meat for the table all during the week. Being very technical, there are probably only two nights during the entire week when the housewife will have to plan meatless menues, so, for one such day next week plan

Few Facts About Fish

In buying fish, select the kind you like best and keep in mind whether you want it for frying, baking, boiling, etc. Remember also that fish and shellfish like many other foods have a time during the year when they are in season, at which time they are usually most economical to buy. Some fish are in season all year around while others are in season only a few months in the year. A great many varieties of fish are quick-frozen as soon as caught and may be purchased in this way whether in or out of season. Quick-frozen fish are as wholesome, nourishing and flavorous in every respect as fish freshly caught. Your dealer will always be glad to advise you what fish are in season. It is always wise to buy fresh fish that is cheapest and most plentiful rather than to try to buy one special variety.

As soon as possible after buying the fish, rinse it quickly in cold water, pat dry between paper towels and store in the refrigerator in a covered container.

Fish should be cooked at a low temperature and over-cooking should be avoided, for long cooking ruins the delicate flavor and texture of fish.

BAKED STUFFED FISH

1 (3-pound) fish, cleaned and trimmed
2 teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons fat
2 cups bread crumbs
½ teaspoon onion salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons chopped pickles
Lemon slices
Parsley
Horseradish sauce

Have fish slit for baking; leave on head and tail, if desired. Wash, dry well. Rub inside with the salt. Combine fat, soft bread crumbs, onion salt, pepper and pickles. Stuff fish, sew edges together with heavy thread. Or close opening by lacing string around toothpicks. Bake on greased heat-resistant platter in a moderately hot oven (375-400 F.) allowing 10-12 minutes per pound. If fish is lean, baste every 10 minutes. Remove thread, garnish with lemon slices and parsley. Serve with parsley potato balls. Serves 6 to 8.
