Nurses Training Class Enrollment Begins

The Fall class of the Nurses Training School of the Easton Memorial Hospital is forming. "Enrollment up to October first is possible," Mrs. E. Hall Covell, Acting Superintendent of Nurses, said this week in urging prospective student nurses to join the class, "But the sooner you register, the sooner you will be on your way to your goal of registered nurse." The Nurses School is under new supervision.

Graduation from high school is necessary for enrollment. There are scholarships to be had for girls who can qualify for them. There is a house mother in the Nurses Home where the student nurses live who looks out for them and their needs, and is responsible for their recreation facilities when they are off duty. The student nurses will be under the supervision of registered nurses at all hours of the day and night throughout the entire hospital, Mrs. Covell said. She expressed the hope that parents, as well as their daughters, would examine the advantages to be realized in training for a profession that ranks high among those devoted to relief of human suffering, both as an education and as a benefit to mankind.

With U. S. Forces in Reims, France —Corporal Millard C. Porter of 801 West 10th St., Millington, Md., is serving in the enlisted men's pay section of the Fourth Finance Disbursing Section which handles more than $5,000,000 monthly in operating the Oise Intermediate Section Finance Office in Reims.

A member of the unit since its activation at Fort Benjamin Harrison, in November, 1942, Cpl. Porter has served with the section during more than two years of operating Army finance offices in various sections of the European Theatre. Unit members wear four major campaign stars.

BORDLEY WAS SURELY LEFT IN THE DARK AS THE LIGHTS WENT OUT

One night during the Church Hill firemen's carnival William Bordley, faithful Negro employee of Justice of Peace Henry C. Brown was in the very top seat of the ferris wheel when it stopped and all of the lights in the park went out due to some electrical trouble.

After a long wait alone in the darkness at a terrifying height, Bordley wailed:

"I wonder if the white folks is forgot I is up here."
