Balloon Cloth

Balloon cloth is all that its name implies, the cotton fabric perfected early in the war for covering the barrage balloons used in the defense of strategic cities from air attack. The need for these balloons diminished and the fabric, a very fine cotton fabric woven of long staple cotton, was diverted to civilian needs. It is variously finished and in the hand is smooth as silk, and wears with about the same resistance to creasing. When used for dresses, the fabric is usually printed.

ROCK HALL HIGH

On Monday, December 3 both the elementary and the high school did not have school in the afternoon because there was no heat.

On Monday December 3 the M.Y.F. held a one-act play and a ministrel in the high school auditorium. The play was entitled "The Dearest Thing in Boats". It was followed by the "Dixie Minstrel". There were quite a few present and all enjoyed themselves.

The Freshmen have been studying letter writing in English. We have only written social letters, but we are really learning a lot, and believe it or not we are thoroughly enjoying ourselves.

Last week we wrote a letter to Leon LeCompte, one of our classmates, who has gone to Florida for the winter. He will return to us next spring.

The Junior Class is practicing for its annual Christmas Play. Mrs. Strang is the director. The plays will be given Tuesday, December 18 in the auditorium. The titles of the plays are "Christmas Is A Miracle" and "Just What They Wanted."

The following pupils made perfect attendance in the month of November:

Freshmen, Earle Brady, James Crouch, Albert Parson, Morris Smith, Rogers Urie, Leona Boulter, Virginia Fithian, Doris Retzker, Anna Simpkins.

Sophomores, Calvin Coleman, Donald Edwards, Melvin Edwards, Simms Jacquette, Beverley Collyer, Betty Lou McGinnis, Phyllis Newnam, Ann Ruth Wagner.

Seniors: Reginald Wheatley, Harold Coleman, Dorothy Mae Coxon, Mildred Jones.

This week each class drew names for the exchange of Christmas gifts which will take place on the last day of school. All of us look forward to this drawing, because it means a holiday is right around the corner and so is Santa. We do still know there is a Santa Claus.

Right Side Wrong Side

The right side for ironing may be the wrong side of the dress. This is true when clothing is made of dark-colored cotton, linen, rayon or crepe. Wool also is ironed on the wrong side and is protected by a pressing cloth. A few wrinkles may have to be smoothed out when the garment is turned to the right side. White and light-colored cottons are ironed on the right side. Heavy fabrics, such as damask, are ironed on both sides

Hard Metal

Carboloy metal, near in hardness to the diamond, is a product of the relatively new science of powder metallurgy. It is made by mixing powdered tungsten carbide and cobalt, finer than flour, pressing this together under tremendous pressure, and then heating it in furnaces to temperatures up in the thousands of degrees. This fuses the powders together to form a metal that is not only the hardest metal known to science but is also extremely dense and weighs roughly one-half again as much as lead.

Wild Boars

Tennessee is the country's leading state in the number of European wild boars, the herd now numbering approximately 500. New Hampshire has a herd of about 200.

Federal Inspection

A meat plant that operates with federal inspectors on the job must comply with high standards for clean, wholesome food that is accurately labeled. Department of agriculture regulations for such a meat packing plant deal with practically everything from the aprons the workers wear to the wrapping and labeling of the meat.

Smooth-Riding Freight Cars

Foodstuffs and other perishable merchandise in freight cars now can get a "first class ride," just like passengers in the new streamliners. As a result, in-transit losses from breakage and other causes, are being reduced materially. These advantages are made possible by the adaptation to freight cars of the same type of direct action, two-way hydraulic shock absorbers now used on streamliners and other modern passenger equipment.
