ORGANIZE FISHING FAIR ASSOCIATION

WILL INCREASE FISHING TOURISTS TO CHESAPEAKE WATERS

DR. BRINSFIELD TO REPRESENT UPPER SHORE COUNTIES

The Chesapeake Bay Fishing Fair Association was formally launched at meeting held in the Easton Fire Engine House last week. Max Chambers, who has fostered this movement to boost not only the watermen of the state but all others having business connections with fishing, called the meeting to order and stated the objects.

These included registering all captains of boats who make a practice of catering to fishing parties; offering nine prizes each month during the fishing season for the largest fish caught of each species; a final Fishing Fair to be held on September 12 on what is known as "The Gooses," in the Chesapeake Bay not far from the Western Shore and convenient to Tilghman's Island; a crab feast at the conclusion of the Fair, where everybody will be given a treat of steamed crabs and all that go with these crustaceans.

These were the outlines of the movement, all of which were heartily endorsed at the meeting. Still further, a nominating committtee was named to select officers. These men repaired to an adjoining room and soon thereafter reported as follows:

President, B. Frank Sherman, of Claiborne and Annapolis.

Vice-president—Baltimore, John D. Steele; Upper Eastern Shore, Dr. William S. Brinsfield, Rock Hall; Lower Eastern Shore, Robert L. Webster, Deal's Island; Western Shore, David S. Jenkins, Annapolis.

Secretary-treasurer, Max Chambers, Easton.

Directors will be named from the various localities where fishing is found. Each one of these localities is to select its own director.

John Noble, of Easton, was asked to act as chairman of a committee to draw up by-laws. He was authorized to select the rest of his committee. The officers were instructed to incorporate as soon as possible.

During the discussions that followed, the plan includes boat captains being supplied with cards, blanks, pennants, etc., to indicate that they are members of the association. Any disciple of Isaak Walton who desires to enter the contest must be a patron of a member.

Each month the angler landing the largest fish of each species will be presented with a prize.

Nine prizes will be given away each month. At the end of the season or contest the grand finale will be staged at "The Gooses," when special prizes will be given to the anglers landing the largest fish of each species from 6 A. M. to noon. It was stated that special boats from the Conservation Commission would be asked to patrol the fishing boats and measure the fish from time to time until noon. Then everybody will start for Tilghman where a crab feast will be served.

"The Gooses" is said to be about the middle of the Bay. It is closer to the Western Shore than to the Eastern Shore, and those from the upper sections of the Bay as well as those from the lower stretches of the Chesapeake will have a little longer distance to travel. Next year, it was stated, the association will probably pick another site for the final contest. An area of 16 square miles will enable hundreds of boats to compete.

Every section of the Chesapeake Bay country is being contacted, and the interest already aroused, has been sufficient to indicate a success of the movement from the start. Baltimore City, Solomons Island, Crisfield, Salisbury, Cambridge, Easton, Oxford, Tilghman, Rock Hall, and many other places showed interest from the start.

The object of the movement is to make the world at large familiar with one of the greatest fishing grounds in the world, and at the same time make it possible for anglers to come here and enjoy a day of real sport without being robbed.

On July 5th the first prize will be awarded the winners for the month of June. Mr. Chambers stated that a number of prizes have already been donated. A very fine reel, at lot of fishing line worth considerable money, several cases of tomato juice from a packing concern, and various other things have already been donated. All that is needed is the endorsement of watermen throughout the State. Membership cards are being distributed.

Anglers are urged to look for the pennant on which is seen "C. B. F. F. A." If you hook a large trout, blue fish, drum, or any other fish fill out the blank furnished the captains and compete for these prizes.

Editors To Be Shown Reel Fishing

One of the outstanding events to happen in this section of the state will occur on Wednesday, June 24th, when the Chesapeake Bay Fishing Fair Association will play host to a large number of editors throughout the easter section of the country. At this time the watermen will show the editors that the fish stories which are sent in to them for publication are not idle dreams but realities.

Starting early in the morning, these scribes will be taken to the most prolific spots in the Chesapeake, given a line properly baited, and if they don't have the time of their lives hauling in fish, then they will not have any right to be styled a disciple of Isaak Walton.

Max Chambers, secretary of the newly formed association, expects a great day for the editors from near and far. A lot of fishing news will be sent out from the association in the near future, and he wants to convince them by first hand information that the stories will be true.

NEW YORK MAGICIAN TO BE GUEST ARTIST

Through the kindness of a resident of Queen Anne County formerly of New York and patron of the Queen Anne's Little Theatre in Centreville, it will be the privilege of the Little Theatre to have as its guest performer Carl Rosini, of New York a great magician. For many years Mr. Rosini has been a head-liner in his field and his professional career in magic and is well known throughout the country. He will be in Centreville at the Little Theatre, July 1st, and 2nd, at 8.15 p. m. and at a matinee, July 1st at 2.15 p. m.

At this time also the Junior Players of the Little Theatre will present "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp" a play in seven scenes and forty characters. An additional feature will be the exhibit of paintings, mostly subjects from his children's books, by Mr. Vernon Grant, nationally known artist of New York and Centreville.

Little Freddie watched intently while his grandmother prepared the tea table. "Do your glasses magnify very much, Gran?" he suddenly asked.

"Why, yes, dear," said the old lady. Freddie looked thoughtful.

"Then please will you take them off when you cut me a piece of the cherry cake "—Modern Woodman.
