People who are interested in art, who want to achieve something in art, associate with other artists, discuss artistic tendencies and ideas, live as far as they are able in an artistic atmosphere even if they have to leave their home town and go to New York, Paris or Rome, to find it.
The honest man who is not self-deceived will want to go to church for the same reason, if he is ambitious of moral and spiritual achievements. Of course if the moral and spiritual aspect of life are of least importance in the whole of his own life, he will care little, if anything, for the spiritual atmosphere, for books that relate to spiritual things and values, for associating with others to whom the things of the Spirit are the vital things of life. The atmosphere of the churches will mean nothing to this man.
I want to achieve something in my spiritual life, and so I go to church for the spiritual impulse, for the strengthening and heartening I find there as nowhere else.

PHOTOGRAPHY AS A HOBBY

(BY MAX CHAMBERS)

Photography is fast becoming a leading hobby. Twenty-two summers ago this writer carried meat on a heavy old Columbia single-brake girl's bicycle, for five weeks from dawn to dark to earn enough money to buy a ten dollar kodak. It still takes prize pictures. Many another boy has worked night and day to get a camera and the simple supplies for developing and printing.

Photography with miniature cameras is all the rage at the moment. They really make fine pictures, prices 39c to $299, but the home movies are claiming a place in family life comparable to the high place in the parlor held by the Stereoscope of the late 1800's. Burton Proctor, Sr., John W. Noble and Harry M. Hollis, all of Preston, have many excellent films in both black and white and color.

Since Porta, the Italian philosopher, first fixed an image on a sensitized surface in 1569 using his 'camera obscura' there have been six major improvements in photography not to mention the thousands of minor mechanical inventions. The first real improvement was the Daguerreotype process or 'tintype' which came into popular use about 1832. Seven years later Talbot perfected the process of making positive prints from negative film which is used today. Motion picture films are positive.

The camera makes an accurate record of everything within the scope of its lens and the speed of its shutter, but as an old hill country codger once said, 'You cain't always tell from where you are settin' how your picture's gonna look."

Among those collecting pictures down this way are Bertha Keplinger of Cambridge; Mary Alice Hepburn, Chestertown; Arthur Southard, Stevensville; Norris Palmer, Easton; Howard Hastings, Delmar and LeRoy Fooks, Vienna. They take pictures at every opportunity while Billy Corkran of Trappe tries his skill at trick Leon Towers of Federalsburg have photography. Malcolm Owens and done some very fine amateur photography and G. A. Gale, of Greensboro, is developing a business from his hobby of developing and printing pictures. Send him a film.

Feathertouch is two Pens in one...I need them both!

Platinum in the writing fluid channel of the Sheaffer Feathertouch point permits effortless two-way writing. When held normally this pen writes its user's normal script--when turned over it writes a thin, fine line particularly desirable for figure work, marginal notes, and other small writing. Everybody has use for both types of handwriting. Remember that all Sheaffer Feathertouch pens, either lever or visible-barrel type, are one-stroke vacuum-fillers--to keep in best writing condition they fill, empty with force, and clean with one stroke, and take in over 400% more fluid per stroke than multiple-stroke pens.

Sheaffer's are priced from $2.75 up
