BARN BURNS ON ANDELOT ESTATE

WHEAT, STRAW AND HAY LOST

A fire of unknown origin destroyed a barn on Andelot estate, Worton Point Monday night about midnight. Included in the loss was 1000 bushels of wheat, 25 tons of baled straw, a quantity of new alfalfa hay and blankets and halters.

The barn was located on the former O'Mara farm occupied by Mr. W. A. McGregor which is the breeding farm for the black Angus beef cattle for which the estate is noted. The barn which was destroyed housed a number of the prize bulls of this breed but fortunately the livestock is out in the field at night.

The Chestertown Fire Company responded to the call and working with the booster system succeeded in saving nearby buildings including a garage, granary and chicken houses.

URGES SEEDING OF LEGUMES BEFORE SEPTEMBER 1

WILL RECEIVE SOIL CONSERVATION PAYMENTS

County Agent McVean, has just received word that farmers who seed alfalfa or clover or other legumes prior to September 1st provided that land was not used in '36 for a soil depleting crop, may receive Class I or diversion pay for acreage so seeded; assuming of course that their soil depleting crops of 1936 are less than those of 1935.

This is an important concession and farmers who wish to get the most out of the Agricultural Conservation program are urged to get busy.

Anyone who may not understand the significance of this concession should immediately get in touch with the County Agent.

RADCLIFFE HALL FARM SOLD

SIXTY ACRE TRACT SOLD TO CALIFORNIAN

Mr. W. S. Collins sold this week a sixty acre tract of Radcliffe Hall to Mr. John Burton Whitworth of Los Angeles, California, the price paid being $12,000. This tract includes the beautiful old grove of trees and from the county road to within 500 feet of the Country Club line, then back to the Rogers Farm.

It is understood that the remainder of the farm including approximately 60 acres which surrounds the golf course will be developed into building lots. The property of the Country Club was part of this farm.

Mr. Whitworth plans to build a $20,000 home in the grove of trees on his newly purchased property, work on which is expected to start in the fall.

Radcliffe Hall farm is one of the old land marks in this section of the county, the home of which burned over thirty years ago. It was at one time the home of Colonel Hanson, author of 'Old Kent.'

In commenting editorarily on the sale of this property the Evening Sun said:

From Chestertown, Md., comes a dispatch telling about the sale of part of a waterfront farm adjoining the Chester River Yacht and Country Club to John Burton Whitworth, of Los Angeles. The purchaser will build a home on the property.

It would be interesting to compare the reactions of various people to this announcement. The Californian attitude, no doubt, would be one of incredulity; it looks to an inhabitant of Los Angeles like a flight from heaven. The Eastern Shore attitude, on the other hand, would be that of an inhabitants of paradise who sees a newomer heading in from the outer darkness. For, just as the Sunkist Coast is heaven, with Los Angeles as the celestial capital, so the Eastern Shore is known as a veritable Garden of Eden, an earthly paradise.

To Californians Mr. Whitworth's departure may seem inexplicable, even heretical; but the obvious fact is, he is merely exchanging the perfect for the sublime.

SEA GULL WINS SAILING SERIES

The Sea Gull, owned and sailed by Carl Bordley easily won the second series of the sailin ghandicape races staged at the Country Club. Second place was won by Douglas Moore and third by Bucky Wilson. The final results of the series follows:

The standing as the series ended was as follows:

1.	Sea Gull, Carl Bordley	117
2.	Puffin, Doug Moore	98
3.	Wimpy, Bucky Wilson	96
4.	Rexall, A. L. Sterling	94
