WHY NOT?

Little Dora, aged seven, is extremely precocious for her years. She is, also, inordinately fond of her maternal grandfather, who resides with her parents.

"Mummy," she said, when a fashionable wedding was being discussed, "when I've grown up I shall marry granddad."

Her mother told her that such a union would be illegal and finished up by saying: "Well, in any case, I couldn't allow you to marry my father."

"Why not, mum?" queried the precocious one. "You married mine, didn't you?"

Cut Both Ways

An old gardener always had an answer for everything. On one occasion he was told by his employer to mow the lawn.

"Cut it short," she haid, "for an inch at the bottom is worth two at the top," says London Tit-Bits.

Donald did the work, and when it was finished he was offered a drop of whisky. The employer poured it out, but showed signs of stopping before she had filled the glass.

"Fill it up, ma'am," said Donald. "An inch at the top is worth twa at the bottom."

Too True

The schoolmaster wanted to know whether the boys had an understanding of the functions of a British consulate.

"Supposing," he began, "someone took you up in an airplane, and, after a long flight, dropped you thousands of miles from home in a country quite foreign, what place would you seek first of all?"

An eager hand was raised.

"Please, sir, the hospital."—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Hardly Worth It

The conceited young man had talked about himself till the girl felt she could endure it no longer.

"It costs a great deal more than one would think to become a broad-minded and intelligent man of the world," he remarked, serenely.

The girl saw her chance and took it.

"I suppose so," she said, "and I don't blame you for saving your money."—Stray Stories Magazine.

SOMETHING

Weary—I read de odder day dat at de age of sixty-five a man has taken in 95 tons of feed.

Happy—Ah! Dat would be a grand life's work to point ter.

Tough One

A backwoods woman, the soles of whose feet had been toughened by a lifetime of shoelessness, was standing in front of her cabin fireplace one day when her husband addressed her.

"You'd better move your foot a mite, maw; you're standing on a live coal."

Said she, nonchalantly: "Which foot, paw?"—L. & N. Employee's Magazine.

The Limit

An old country woman going into a large town saw, for the first time, an electric train.

"Well," she said, in her amazement, "I've seen 'em worked by horses, and I've seen 'em run by engine, but I've never seen 'em druv by a clothes-prop before."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Making It Easy for Her

"You are an honest boy," said the lady as she opened the roll of five $1 bills, "but the money I lost was a $5-bill. Didn't you see that in the advertisement?"

"Yessum," answered the boy. "It was a $5-bill that I found, but I got it changed so you could pay me a reward."—Stray Stories Magazine.

Worrier

A man on trial for his life was being examined by a group of alienists. Suddenly one doctor shouted at him: "Quick, how many feet has a centipede?"

The man came back in a dry, dry voice:

"Gad, is that all you have to worry about?"

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 164.

FOR THOSE WHO REMAIN

When death visits a home, the first concern is to perform the last service to the loved one in a becoming manner. What ever is done must express all the reverance and affection that is felt at such a time. But in addition to this a further responsibilty rests upon the funeral director. It is his privilege and duty to lessen as far as lies with in his power, the burdens laid upon those who remain. By countless little acts of thoughtfulness he can make the way easier for them.

We consider this part of our work as important as any other. Our highest aim is to have our patrons look upon us as trusted friends, ready and anxious to render sympathetic assistance to those who remain behind.

B. R. FELLOWS,
Funeral Director.
