

TOO MANY VARIETIES

The case before the court had been going on for many days and concerned a claim that involved wearisome technicalities. Things were not improved when the counsel made a speech of unnecessary length. He said:

"Then, my lord, comes the question of bags; they might have been full bags or half-full bags; or again, my lord, they might have been empty bags."

"Or," interrupted the sorely-tried judge, "they might have been windbags."—Montreal Star.

A Bright Idea

Panting and perspiring, two Irishmen on a tandem bicycye, at length reached the top of a steep hill.

"That was a stiff climb, Mike," said the first.

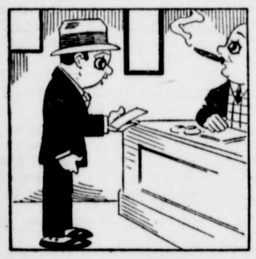

"Sure and it was," said the other. "And if I hadn't kept the brake on we should have gone backwards."

Education

"Your methods of cultivation are hopelessly out of date," said the youthful agricultural college graduate to the old farmer. "Why, I'd be astonished if you got even 10 pounds of apples from that tree."

"So would I," replied the farmer. "It's a pear tree."

SLOW COLLECTIONS

"I'm sick and tired of running after you with this bill."

"Try walking, old chap."

Yesterday's and Tomorrows

Hubby—I certainly don't intend to eat these biscuits. They are yesterday's.

Wifey—Suit yourself about that but if you don't eat them today they will also be tomorrow's.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Variety

"Yes, I like to give my husband variety in his meals, especially at dinner time."

"Really, how do manage it?"

"Well, I give him boiled ham, but I buy it from a different shop every day."

True Enough

"Pa, what's a matrimonial bureau?"

"Well, son, it's a bureau with six drawers packed full of women's fixin's and one man's necktie."

Safety First

"Then you won't have a garden wedding?"

"No; I'll take no chances of having my wedding called on account of rain."

Thoughtful

Freshman—Say, what's the idea of wearing my raincoat?

Roommate—Well, you wouldn't want our new suit to get wet, would you?

GOOD JUDGMENT

Sunday School Teacher—Do you love your enemies, Jimmy?

Jimmy—I try to, when they are bigger than I am.

Just Listen

Sneed—Does your wife ever listen to your advice?

Gnaggs—Yes; and that's all she does—just listen.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Turn About

"How long have you been working for the firm?"

"Ever since the boss threatened to fire me."—Vancouver Province.

Competition

Mother—Why are you making faces at that bulldog?

Small Child (wailing)—He started it.

AGRICULTURAL TIPS FOR KENT FARMERS

ALFALFA REQUIREMENTS

The need for a good legume roughage along with the Agricultural Conservation Program, has centered attention on the production of alfalfa. Success with this most valuable crop depends on several factors; among these are the soil type. The gravelly loams or sand loams of the Sassafras series are particularly adopted to alfalfa, although other well drained soils may produce alfalfa successfully.

The second essental is a well perpared seed bed and fertile soil. The seed bed should be firm and well packed; three months so that weed seeds may have been destroyed.

Some people figure that it is poor policy to seed alfalfa on land that does not usually produce at least 40 bushels of corn per acre.

Time of seeding is another factor worthy of consideration. August 15 to September 1st is rated the best season for seeding alfalfa. This is especially true this year since the recent adjustment in regulations regarding the Agricultural Conservation Program to the effect that alfalfa or other mixtures seeded before September 1st on land which has been idle this year or has not produced a soil depleting crop, may secure Class I or diversion pay in so for as the reduced acreage in depleting crops permit.

CRIMSON CLOVER

Crimson clover is a winter legume which interests many in connection with the Agricultural Conservation Program.

For the benefit of those who are inexperienced in growing this crop, Prof. Oldenburg, Extension Agronomist, has prepare da on epage circular of information covering pertinent points. Copes of this circular may be obtained at the County Agent's office.

Farmres who expect to seed crimson clover should do so before September as the amount of money they will receive fro mthe Agricultural Conservation Program will be considerably influenced if the seeding is done before September 1.

BEEF CATTLE AND DRAFT HORSES AT TIMONIUM FAIR

Kent farmers attending the fair at Timonium September 7-12, 1936, will be pleased to learn that the Fair Management has resumed classes for various breeds of beef cattle and draft horses. The new catalogue just out shows rather extensive classification for Aberdeen-Angus and Herford beef cattle. The details of the draft horse exhibits were not announced but doubtless many of the best draft horses in Maryland will be on exhibit.

PLAN FOR GARLIC CONTROL ANNOUNCED

Prof. Oldenburg, of University of Maryland Extension Service, has just released a circular on the control of garlic. This plan is worthy of the attenton of all farmers who lose out every year due to dockage caused by ths pest. Copies of this circular may be secured at the Office of the County Agent.

FOR THOSE WHO REMAIN

When death visits a home, the first concern is to perform the last service to the loved one in a becoming manner. What ever is done must express all the reverance and affection that is felt at such a time. But in addition to this a further responsibilty rests upon the funeral director. It is his privilege and duty to lessen as far as lies with in his power, the burdens laid upon those who remain. By countless little acts of thoughtfulness he can make the way easier for them.

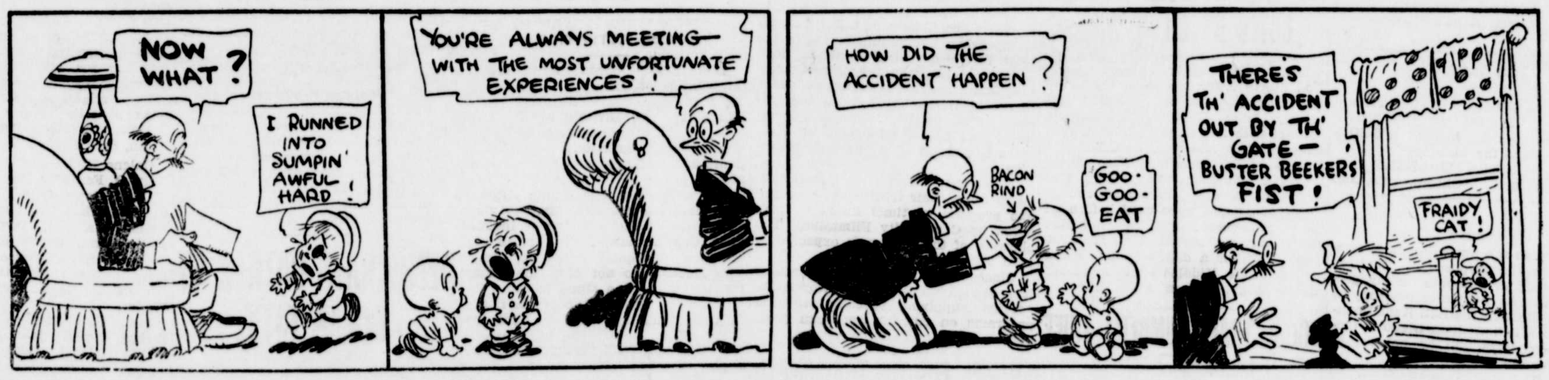

We consider this part of our work as important as any other. Our highest aim is to have our patrons look upon us as trusted friends, ready and anxious to render sympathetic assistance to those who remain behind.

B. R. FELLOWS,
Funeral Director.
