FLASHES FROM CHESTERTOWN HIGH

BY EMORY M. HINES, JR.

Once again the Transcript's high school column breaks into print, a year older, and perhaps a little wiser. After a quickly moving summer vacation, your columnist settles down to work heartily and gives you some of the "high spots" as they occur in our everyday school life. And so—on with the news!

Perhaps the biggest change in our new semester this year is that made effective by the Financial Plan recently presented, approved, and put in working order here. The plan calls for the student to pay a fee of fifteen cents every two weeks, which is to cover all club expenses and dues, athletic equipment and dues, and the school publication, the REFLECTOR. Heretofore, such needed money was raised by a certain group only and by townsmen through the use of bakes, suppers, etc. Now all schedules necessary for raising money can be abandoned, with the school activities being financed way. To date, the system has got off to a good start, and success seems to be its only outcome.

Organized and started last year, the Safety Patrol has again been put into operation with a few additional precautions included in its by-laws. The patrol now reaches as far as the buses, where appointed patrolmen watch the road as passengers alight and cross the road. Also new is the organization's patrol court which is the authoritive unit for violators of the rules. It is composed of Gerson Bonnett, Ewell Dodd, Marian Thomas, Betty Beck and Mary L. Truslow; while Francis Mead, chief, will present most of the cases.

The fieldball team has already swung into a winning year as seen by their encounter with the Sudlersville girls last Tuesday, when they won by a score of 6-4. Miss Bryan continues as their coach, with such girls as K. Strong, P. Orms, J. Sutton, C. Russell, H. Westcott, H. Coleman, M. Humphreys, K. Newton, L. Russell, R. MacVean, N. Miller, F. Kreeger, B. Johnson, L. Greenwood, N. Ford, E. Wheatley, N. Russell, H. Culver, F. Harris, V. Newcomb, M. Kennedy, M. Truslow, E. Jones, E. Leonard, G. Woolford, and J. Pote, making up the squad.

The soccer teams, tilt with Sudlersville, however, shows a different outcome, when on the same day as the girls' game, thru a hard fought and guessing series of outcomes, they lost to the tune of 2-4 The game with Millington, which is part of the county playoffs for the county championship, resulted a little differently, though, with neither teams scoring any goals. Nevertheless, the next preliminary games may bring to light a turn of events, with victory the song of the booters.

Looking back over last year's news, I remember the school's attempt to buy a radio thru money contributions of all the pupils. The plan, regretfully, fell through, and the matter of the purchase was dropped. This year an altogether different idea is being used; the selling of Curtis Publishing Company magazines by students—the same way that shades for all the rooms were obtained to secure our much needed radio. The contest rewards not only the school, but also each individual who sells from one or more subscriptions. Sales have been reportweek when the competition is over, ed each day, and by the end of next the results will be known.

Two new clubs have been added to the Activities Period this year: the Freshman-Sophomore Dramatic Club and the Debating Club open to Juniors leadership of Miss Hariett Louisa Rogand Seniors. The former, under the ers, held its elections at the first meeting, with Harriett Gill being elected ing, with Harriett Gill being elected president; Francis Harris, Vice-President; and Jesse Middleton, Secretary. Study of the subject will first be conducted, after which the members hope to select and present a suitable production.

The latter club has the guidance of Miss Riches, and it has ambitions of school debating and then inter-school debating. During its first meeting on last September 24, Neal Truslow and Nellie Bexley were chosen president and secretary of the club. Its recent meeting on Thursday consisted of a debate on the previously planned question: "Resolved: That the automobile laws of Maryland should be amended to read that drivers' licenses should not be granted to any person under eighteen years of age." The judges decided in favor of the affirmative.

Other officers for the semester which were chosen were those of the History Club and the Home Rooms. The History group now has Frances Kreeger and Ellen Bordley as President and Secretary. The officers for the home rooms follow:

"The early bird catches the worm" is an old proverb that can easily be applied to the new business arrangement which the cafeteria has now adopted. Meal tickets are purchased between 8.30 and 8.50 from the cashier, Phoebe Orms, in order that those preparing the food will know the exacct amount wanted and be able to do away with the handling of money. Consequently, those who have not remembered to secure their tickets at the appropriated time cannot buy food until all ticket holders have been served.

Last but certainly not least to be mentioned in my column this week are the two student publications which have been holding the spotlight during the past week. The issuing of the REFLECTOR was a much awaited event, but from the keen interest tor Charlotte Rusell is to be conshown awaited event, but from the keen interest shown after its publicacongratulated. While aruments came forth from both sides of the question as to whether a larger size paper should be adopted or not, I htnik it is generally agreed that the present form has met with the utmost of enthusiasm and approval. And now we set forth to begin looking forward to its next November issue.

A question that is always brought up at this time of the year is whether or not the Senior Class intends to continue the tradition of having an annual, in other words, a DRAGON. This year again opens finding that its convinanuce is unamimous and that whole hearted cooperation will be made between the staff and the Seniors.
