TELLING THE WORLD

San Salvador . . . Telephone service between El Salvador and Guatemala is now an accepted fact, the first call having been made by the directors-general of electrical communications of the two countries, according to Frank P. Corrigan, in Foreign Communications News of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Vienna . . . Local telephone service last year showed a substantial increase over the previous year. Commercial Attache Gardner Richardson of the U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce reports that Vienna is served by 175,963 telephones. Inter-urban telephone service is on the increase, there having been 400,000 more called minutes last year than the previous year. In 1934 there were 31,400,000 called minutes of service.

Stockholm . . . The telephone administration has announced that a new dial central office with an initial capacity of 6,000 telephone lines will be constructed to serve suburban Stockholm. The latest report shows that Stockholm is served by 145,000 telephones, of which 89 per cent are of dial operation.

Washington, D. C. . . . Telephone communication between this city and Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, was inaugurated recently by Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, in conversation with Foreign Minister Sr. Elias Brache, Hijo. Secretary Hull expressed his belief that the opportunity for direct telephone communication would aid in producing better understanding between the two neighboring countries, and extended his good wishes to President Trujillo Molina and the people of the Dominican Republic. Senor Brache cordially concurred with Secretary Hull's views and presented the President's felicitations to the people of the United States.

New York . . . Bell System telephones may now be interconnected with those in Iceland. This service was inaugurated recently at anniversary ceremonies honoring Leif Ericson, who is said to have sailed from the Old World to the New and to have landed on some unidentified portion of America in 1000 A. D. This is the farthest north point to which radiotelephone service has been extended, a portion of Iceland being within the Artic Circle. There are several cities and towns in Norway within the Arctic Circle which may be reached by telephone, but these are connected by cable and wire circuits.

Romance runs rampant, adventure has its fling and love conquers all in the delightful new M-G-M comedy melodrama, "Love on the Run," which comes to the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, December 14 and 15. Teaming those two exhilarating and colorful personalities, Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, in a dashing tale of modern doings by ultra-modern people the new picture provides excitement and laughter in an entertainment melange of an heiress, a fortune-hunting nobleman, two American correspondents and a brace of European crooks.

As a contrast to her recent historical role of "The Gorgeous Hussy" the versatile Miss Crawford this time appears as a distinctly 1936 streamlined-model girl dressed in those dazzling creations that only she can wear so well. She is supposed to be Sally Parker, daughter of an American millionaire besieged by the nobility of the foreign capitals, and she looks every inch the part.

When Sally, practically at the altar, learn that her titled husband-to-be is just another fortune hunter she walks out on the wedding whereupon Gable and love come in on the run. By stealing a plane about the mechanics of which he knows only enough to switch on and open the throttle, Gable gets Sally in the air and they fly away. The theft involves an ingenious mixup with a notorious spy ring and for awhile things look pretty black for Sally and her savior. But in the end everything is cleared up, not without a generous share of hilarious situations, and Gable is able not only to gather a headlining cable dispatch for his newspaper but also to win the girl.

As may be expected Miss Crawford and Gable make a superb romantic team ,while excellent support is given the stars by Franchot Tone, Reginald Owen, Mona Barrie and others. No little of the distinctive touches of "Love on the Run" were contributed by its hit-making director, W. S. Van Dyke. He is the man who made "San Francisco" and "Rose Marie." 'Nuff said!

Taken right from the headlines! The tentcales of a clever blackmail ring twine closer and closer about a young girl of prominent family who has inherited a newspaper. The managing editor swears he will "never work for a female publisher." When the girl gets into a terrible jam that threatens her reputation and life happiness, he helps her turn the tables on the blackmailers and crush them. That is the theme of Universal's "The Girl on the Front Page," which shows at the New Lyceum Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, December 16 and 17.

Every scene throbs with events that blaze out of front page news thrills. Human, exciting, swift!

Edmund Lowe is the editor and Gloria Stuart is the society girl. They have their love quarrels and Gloria has him kidnapped when he refuses to run the paper for her any longer. The head of the blackmail crew is portrayed by Reginald Owen who, as a butler, gets confidential information that enables him to pursue his secret plans.

David Oliver, former ace cameraman, is cast as a caper-cutting office boy. Spring Byington plays the role of Gloria's mother and Gilbert Emery has the part of the family lawyer. "The Girl on the Front Page" is entertainment news. Get your own edition of this screen event at the New Lyceum Theatre.

Mount Ararat Twin-Peaked

Mount Ararat is a twin-peaked mountainous area situated where Armenia and Persia meet, south of the Caucausus range. It is noteworthy for its extensiveness rather than its height, the highest peak being something under 17,000 feet. The mountain is of volcanic origin. Its lower regions are inhabited and the summits have been repeatedly ascended and thoroughly explored. The usual statement that Noah's Ark rested on Mount Arrat has no foundation in the Hebrew text, which reads "on the mountains of Ararat." In ancient times Ararat was the name of a district in eastern Armenia, and sometimes also for all Armenia and the mountain ridge in the southern part of that country.
