Thieves Empty Oil Tanks Saturday Night

Thieves not only stole a quantity of gasoline at the Conoco bulk station on High street, Chestertown Saturday night but left the valves open which let 180 gallons of gasoline and 1000 gallons of kerosene run out of the tank on the ground.

The purpose of the robbery was apparently to get a number of cans of gasoline. The wheels on the valves from the tanks which were locked were broken off and the valves apparently opened with a stilson wrench. Local authorities expressed the belief that the thieves were frightened away leaving the empty cans and the valves open. The loss was not discovered until Monday morning.

KENT FARM BUREAU ELECTS DIRECTORS

The Kent County Farm Bureau holds its annual meeting last Friday evening and elected directors for the coming year. The directors will meet on Monday, December 28, to choose officers. The present officers are H. S. Leaverton, president; L. A. Sutton, vice-president and Mrs. H. T. Williams, secretary-treasurer. At the meeting last Friday Mrs. L. A. Sutton was elected home and community chairman for the county.

Mrs. Williams, the secretary, gave her annual report at the Friday meeting and President Leaverton told of his trip to the national convention at Pasadena, California. Martin Sutton spoke on the progress of Farm Bureau activities in county, state and nation.

The directors chosen were: J. F Shahan, Millington; W. R. Newnam, Massey; A. L. Beaston, Galena; H. S. Ford, Edgar Lusby and Edgar Pennington, Kennedyville; L. A. Sutton and H. F. Sparks, Chestertown; B. F. Rash, Worton; M. P. Edwards, H. S. Leaverton and T. Ringgold Jones, Rock Hall. Women directors were chosen as follows: Mrs. H. S. Leaverton, Rock Hall; Mrs. H. F. Sparks, Chestertown; Mrs. Herbert Ford, Kennedyville, and Mrs. J. Frank Shahan, Millington.

The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Williams, in her report said in part: "A county Farm Bureau holds the key to the power wherein lies the highest welfare and greatest prosperity of the American farm home. A country farm bureau exists only for service to the agriculture of that county and hence, the Kent County Farm Bureau points with pride to its 1936, no spectacular but steady gains."

Among the things cited were: A healthy membership increase; fine meetings at Millington, Kennedyville, Chestertown and Rock Hall; wool and live marketing projects; new life insurance service and a generally high farm morale.

Gonzales Bows To Kid Lloyd

Kid Lloyd of New Church, Va., was crowded welterweight champion of the Eastern Shore as the result of a dramatic knockout of Henry Gonzales of Betterton in the seventh round of the main bout at the Armory fights Friday evening at Centreville.

Lloyd caught Henry with a wicked right uppercut as the latter come off the ropes during a hot toe-to-toe slugging bee and the pride of Betterton went through the cordage to the apron of the ring. Only quick work by spectators kept Gonzales from pitching to the floor of the arena.

Henry apparently was so dazed by the blow as to miss the count. He sprung to his feet ready to resume fighting just as referee Ed Brockman pronounced the fatal ten. He was evidently under the impression that their was still one second's grace.
