KENT COUNTY lost a valuable citizen in the death of Thomas Massey. He leaves no enemies and a host of friends. His high ethical standards of business were praised by all those with whom he had business contacts and his many close friends were endeared to him by his kind generous and thoughtful disposition. His friends included people in all walks of life and he will be missed by a host of friends.

MARYLAND LEGISLATORS are confronted with the problem of making new special taxes or continuing those in effect against the protest of organized groups who are affected by them. Special tax laws must be passed if the present system of government is to continue, particularly that dealing with relief and old age pension. At each session of the Legislature the tax law has been changed shifting the tax burden to different classes of business and with each shift comes more organized protest. The life of a Legislator is not just sitting in marble halls.
