CHAIN STORES TO AID LAMB OWNERS

License Suspension Ruling In Effect

Consumption of lamb throughout the country began to soar today as 37,000 food chain stores cooperating in the Nation-wide Mid-winter Lamb Campaign started an intensive sales drive to aid producers and feeders in marketing a surplus crop of nearly 3,000,000 lambs.

Food chain companies, which promoted successful sales drives to dispose of seasonal surplus crops for various farm groups last year, undertook the new campaign at the request of the National Lamb Producers' and Feeders' Committee when a large increase over normal lamb production and a depressed market threatened farmers and stock-raisers with heavy losses.

Members of the National Association fo Food Chains reported to headquarters here that lamb consumption had risen steadily since the special advertising and coordinated merchandising campaign was launched this week in 48 states and the District of Columbia. This indicated that housewives were taking advantage of the low price of lamb. For, despite the sharp rise in consumption, retail lamb prices have remained stable.

This auspicious beginning of the campaign, which continues through the week of February 15, was gratifying to the lamb producers and feeders. In a message to national headquarters, Delmer H. LaVoi, secretary of the Michigan Lamb Feeders Association, said:

"We are surely glad the campaign is already bringing results and our feeders are greatly pleased. They are all very appreciative of the support and assistance of your association."

CENTER LINE STRIP FOR STATE ROADS

New Machines Will Paint Stripe on Narrow Roads

A line-painting machine, capable of marking around thirty miles of highway per day, has been pleaed in highway per day, has been placed in sion. The machine was designed and constructed in the Southern Avenue shops of the Commission in Baltimore.

First tests of the new device in Southern Maryland have been highly satisfactory, according to State roads engineers. Replacing a laborious and expensive hand operation in the painting of centerlines, it is expected that it will prove a boon to motorists on highways all over the State. Because of the narrowness and crookedness of many of the State's main arteries, they are difficult to follow at night, and particularly in fog, without center-lines.

The line-painter is mounted on a small truck. It has three paint tanks of 55-gallon capacity each—one for white, one for yellow and one for black paint. Selection of colors can be made instantaneously. Three pumps control the flow of paint to nozzles, which spread the paint uniformly as to thickness and width.

Prior to the painting of a road, daubs of paint are placed along the center at 15-foot intervals. The driver of the machine keeps a set of sights focussed on these spots and thus is able to steer a true course. Compensation is made in the sights for running a true center-line around curves.

After a few changes to be made in the design of the paint pumps, the line-painter will go into service over the State. A number of roads already have been marked out for painting.

"We believe the addition of a line-painting machine of our own invention to the equipment list will add greatly to safety on our highways," said a statement of the State Roads Commsision, issued yesterday. "Besides eliminating a slow and dangerous operation of hand painting the line, the machine multiplies the lineage many times.

"Most of Maryland's primary roads are old, with dark and uneven surfaces. At night and in conditions of rain and fog it is often difficult for motorists ot follow them. Center lines help greatly under such conditions, and it is planned to follow a fast schedule of painting, selecting the most dangerous stretches of highway for first operations."

FIRE DAMAGES TRANSCRIPT PLANT

Early Morning Blaze Starts From Overheated Stove

Fire which originated from an overheated stove, damaged the shop of the Transcript office early Tuesday morning and only through the quick and efficient work of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company was a complete equipment loss averted.

The fire was discovered by George Chambers janitor for the office of Messrs. T. D. Bowers and George French which is in the Transcript building, who when he opened that office door at 6.50 a. m. saw the flame through a skylight window. Running to the fire house he turned in the alarm and in a few minutes firemen arrived and soon had the fire under control. They were compelled to crawl into the building due to the intense heat and choking smoke and by using the booster system extinguished the fire with the least possible damage by water.

The fire apparently started from an overheated stove setting fire to the woodwork on a composing stone support. It quickly spread to the floor and side walls of the building. Night Officer Rufus Collins reported that he went into the office at about 6 a. m. and that there was no signs of fire or smoke at that time. The fire was discovered by Chambers fifty minutes later.

The extent of the damage could not be arrived at the time of going to press due to the large quantity of small equipment near the burning woodwork and the intricate machinery necessary in a printing and publishing plant. Included in the damage from the fire alone was the entire stock of metal and wood furniture, a number of standing forms of type, a composing table, a quantity of type etc. The damage from heat and smoke has not been determined although the heat was so intense that gum roller equipment located thirty feet from the blaze melted and run like water and paint on woodwork forty feet away was blistered.

Mr. John W. Barnes, who has completed sixty-five years of service in publishing this paper stated this is the first fire that he has experienced. He arrived at the office just before the firemen but was unable to enter the building due to choking smoke and heat.

A rough estimate of the damage has been made at between $2,000 and $3,000. The plant is owned and operated by R. H. Collins, Jr. and William S. Collins, 2nd.

Mayor Wilmer On Sportsmen's Committee

Mayor Philip G. Wilmer was named vice-chairman of a newly organized association of duck hunters The name of the association is "Ducks Unlimited," and members include many of the outstanding sportsmen of the State. The movement was launched at a dinner meeting at the Maryland Club in Baltimore.

"DUCKS UNLIMITED", the nation-wide movement, is being fostered by More Game Birds in America, Inc. (a foundation), with offices at 500 Fifth avenue, New York. This group has long been striving for conservation through methods of higher sportsmanship and sane laws instead of prohibition.

As explained by C. S. Bedell, of the staff of More Game Birds in America, who was the principal speaker at the dinner, the idea is for the sportsmen themselves to end the duck depression through the restoration and businesslike management of Canadian breeding grounds.

It is proposed to raise by subscription a total of approximately $3,000,000 to be expended at the rate of about $600,000 per year over a period of five years for the purchase, restoration and protection of breeding areas in Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba, Canadian provinces, where, it is said, eighty per cent. of the ducks which give sportsmen in the United States pleasure are raised.

BASE BALL LEAGUE MEETING IS SET

Nine Towns Are Planning League Teams

J. Thomas Kibler, chosen as organizing chairman for the revival of the Eastern Shore Baseball League, a Class D organization that has not operated for more than 10 years, announced this morning that the next meeting in the interest of the revival will be held at Cambridge on Sunday, January 31. The meeting was originally set for Sunday, January 24 but a postponement was necessary. The assemblage will be at the Cambridge Hotel at 1:30 P. M.

The league will be a six or eight team wheel. Towns interested are: Easton, Cambridge, Salisbury, Federalsburg, Pocomoke City, Crisfield, Princess Anne, Centreville and Dover.

Major league clubs have shown a decided interest in the proposed revival. Both of the Philadelphia clubs are interested in establishing contacts, either with farms or by financial aid to some team. The same is true of the St. Louis Cardinals.

FIREMEN PLAN ANNUAL BANQUET

Public Invited To Pay-As-You Go Affair

At the last meeting of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Co., a committee was appointed to arrange the details of the Annual Banquet, and was requested to keep the costs as low as possible, owing to the fact that the Funds of the Company are exceedingly low. Accordingly the committee, at the instance of a number of the Active men, resolved to issue no complimentary tickets whatever, but to make the sale of admissions pay the entire cost. Bids are asked from organizations considering serving the banquet at once, as the tenative date has been set for Feb. 18, which gives but little time for making the necessary arrangements.

Many people have been of the apparent opinion that only actual Firemen were expected to attend the annual Banquet, but on the contrary the public is most cordially invited. In fact it is hoped that the people of Chestertown, Kent and Queen Anne's Counties will be there is considerable force, and help make the affair a success from every point of view. As one of the reasons of the function is to pay honor to the boys who actually fight the fires the presence of their friends and well-wishers contributes in no little degree to their pleasure, and helps them know that the people of the community really and sincerely appreciate the unselfish work they are doing for those who face the disaster of fire, or are shielded from having fires at all. The Committee asks the citizens of the town and Community to remember the date, and to make every effort to be present. Tickets may be purchased from Mr. A. L. Sparks, at his store on High St.
