How to EASE a COLD FOR 15¢

TWO SIMPLE RULES

INSTEAD of buying costly medicines to relieve the discomforts of a cold, try the way almost any doctor you ask will approve as the modern way — genuine BAYER ASPIRIN. It now costs only 15¢ for a dozen tablets, or two full dozen for a quarter.

The way you use it is this: Two BAYER tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on, taken with a full glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions in package. If at the same time, throat is sore, gargle with three Bayer tablets in ½ glass water for almost instant relief. Bayer Aspirin acts to fight fever, and the aches and pains of a cold. Relief comes quickly. Ask your druggist for genuine BAYER ASPIRIN by its full name — not the name "aspirin" alone.

James Melton

With lyrics on his lips and laughs up his sleeves, James Melton is coming to the New Lyceum Theatre together with Hugh Herbert, Allen Jenkins, Patricia Ilis, Zasu Pitts, Walter Catlett, Nat Pendleton and others in the.... Cosmopolitan.... production "Sing Me a Love Song" the last word in musical merriment.

"SING ME A LOVE SONG" ....

"Sing Me a Love Song," Cosmopolitan's latest musical comedy which First National will show at the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, January 25 and 26, has James Melton, Patricia Ellis, Hugh Herbert, ZaSu Pitts, Allen Jenkins and Nat Pendleton in the stellar roles.

It is a highly entertaining song and dance fest with three new catchy tunes by the famous Broadway and Hollywood songsmiths, Harry Warren and Al Dubin, one by Jacques Wolfe and two old favorites.

But is it not all music by a long shot. There is one of the most entertaining stories the screen has produced, written by Harry Sauber. There are laughs by the car load, some thrills, and a romance that will gladden every heart.

The story concerns a wealthy young man who falls heir to a department store. Knowing nothing about the management of it, he leaves it in the hands of two other men. When he finds out, however, that they are crooked, he enters the store as a clerk to find out what it is all about.

He falls in love with a pretty clerk, getting into one scrape after another through his devil-may-care attitude. When he and his girl finally land in jail, he makes his identity known. When his girl leaves him flat because of his flightiness, he wakes up to himself, and takes charge of the business in earnest, thwarting the crooks who are trying to take it away from him.

Melton sings all of the songs, mostly in solo, but one with a male chorus, and one with Miss Pitts, who bursts into melody for the first time in her career. Two numbers are staged and directed by Bobby Connolly, one on the roof of the department store and the other in a Honeymoon Cottage within the store.

Others in the cast include Ann Sheridan, Walter Catlett, Hobart Cavanaugh and Dennis Moore. Raymond Enright directed the picture fro mthe srreen play by Sig Herzig and Jerry Wald.

"CAMILLE" ....

If anyone can witness the love scenes between the inimitably glamorous Garbo and the dynamic and handsome Robert Taylor in "Camille," which comes to the New Lyceu mTheatre on Wednesday and Thursday, January 27 and 28, without considerable palpitation of the heart, he must be a callous observer indeed.

For even beyond its magnificent production details, its strikingly beautiful settings, costumes and scenic backgrounds—even beyond the superb direction of George Cukor and the flawless acting of its stellar group of supporting players—"Camille" stands out as the most poignant and stirring portrayal of the love of a beautiful and fascinating woman for the man of her heart that the magic of the screen has ever given its followers.

There is only one actress who could follow in the footsteps of such immortals of the stage as Bernhardt, Duse and Modjeska in playing Alexandre Dumas' "Lady of the Camellias" who gave up wealth and social position in exchange for the man who could offer her little except his ardent devotion. That actress is Garbo.

Of all the glamorous roles that are so inextricably associated with the famous Swedish star none has ever attained in the heights of her Marguerite in "Camille." She gives it life and emotional intensity. She sings, dances, laughs, even plays the piano. And as for the nuances between laughter and tears that this difficult role demands—well, it can only be repeated that only the incomparable Garbo could have essayed the role. It is without a doubt her outstanding triumph.

Robert Taylor as Armand, the lover, likewise gives a performance that definitely places him high among the really distinguished actors of the screen. It is a smooth, compelling and highly romantic portrayal and one that perfectly balances the emotional intensity of the Garbo part. The work of the supporting featured players could not be improved upon—particularly as regards the performances of Lionel Barrymore as Armand's father, Elizabeth Allan as Nichette, Jessie Ralph, as Nanine, Henry Daniell as the Baron de Varville, Lenore Ulric as Olympe and Laura Hope Crews as Prudence.

The Dumas romance of the exquisite Parisian woman whose love story will go down with the ages, has been brought to the screen by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with beauty and tenderness. And much of this, of course, is due the director of "Camille," George Cukor, whise artistry and sense of beauty has been revealed before in the current "Romeo and Juliet" and in "David Copperfield."

"Camille" is a picture not to be missed. It is a picture upon which congratulations may be showered upon its producer, director, its stars and supporting players, its scenic and costume designers and on everyone who had a hand in making it the triumphant photoplay that it is.
