RADIANT LIVING

Radiations of the Divine

By Rev. C. M. Griffeth
Pastor Calvary M. E. Church
Sudlersville, Md.

It was just at sunrise when I sat for a moment at the window and picked up a book for a morning thought. And as I read along I came to this imprssive sentence: "Created things are to be loved as radiations of the divine life."

The thought filled my mind. I read no further but looked out across the lawn where, beyond the distant trees the enormous brilliant disk of the morning sun glowed, sending a golden light upon my page as though a beam of heavenly glory was illuminating the beautifully expressed thought that I had just read.

In the golden light of the newborn sun, I read again the printed statement which declared: "Created things are t obe loved as radiations of the divine life."

While I continued to meditate upon this thought a chorus of song burst forth from a bevy of feathered throats in hte surrounding trees, as though they were at morning worship. Were they singing the thought of this enriching author?

I had always loved these morning songsters in hteir choir loft of tree branches, arranged n russet and autumn gold. But this morning I loved them more for this author taught me to regard these happy singing birds as the thoughts of God made visible.

The more I thought of that, the more the whole created world seemed become again the Garden of Eden. I saw the world as an expression of the intelligence, the wisdom, and the beauty of the Divine Mind.

County Agent Makes Suggestions For Planting and Insect Control

"Seed Loans" Now Available

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1937 are now being received at Chestertown by J. D. McVean, County Agent, assisting C. R. Hare, of Salisbury, field supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

These loans will be made only to farmers who do not have available other sources of credit including production credit associations. Regulations in respect to loans this season are much the same as in 1936 except that the limit this year is $400 per individual as compared to $200, and the interest rate is 4 per cent as compared to five and one-half per cent last year.

Emergency crop and feed loans will not be made by the Farm Credit Administration to standard rehabilitation clients of the Resettlement Administration whose current needs are provided for by Resettlement.

As in the past, the security for these loans will consist of a first lien on the crop financed if the loan is for the production of crops, and if for the purpose of feed for livestock, then a first lien on the livestock to be fed. The crop lien covers the entire crop. Therefore the landlord's waiver is necessary.

Boys In Maryland CCC Camps Being Trained In Soil Saving

Special training in some of the finer points of soil and water conservation methods is being given to the boys in three Maryland CCC camps, who are helping farmers and the Soil Conservation Service to set up erosion control demonstrations.

O. C. Bruce, coordinator for the Service in this State, says that foreman in the Boonsboro, Harwood and White Hall camps are teaching the boys to handle tree planting work, contour stripping work, woodland management work, and soil survey work. The tree planting work, he states, includes care and handling of seedling stock, field planting, methods of checking quality of work, and record keeping. Training in strip cropping consists of running contour lines, so that the farmer may put his cultivated fields in strips the coming spring. Woodland management work includes training to survey, map, cruise and work up data on farm woodland. Practice is given in simple surveying for farm boundaries, plotting them on maps, determination of slope of the land, description of certain soils, the amount of erosion taking place, and different types of crops grown.

With this training, Mr. Bruce states, the boys should be able to work as crew leaders, under the supervision of the technical men, by the time spring plowing gets started.

Specialized training is being given to the boys also in the "how" and "why" of soil and moisture conservation.

If Possible Growers Are Urged To Spray Soon For Peach Leaf Curl

Maryland peach orchardists who did not apply peach leaf curl spray last fall, are urged by Dr. Robert A. Jehle, plant pathologist for the University of Maryland Extension Service, to do so as soon as the weather will permit, in order to kill all hibernating spores of the disease while the tree is yet in a dormant state. He expresses the hope that most of the growers applied this spray last fall since the comparatively mild, wet winter has made the orchards almost impassable.

The disease causing peach leaf curl is a parasite fungus which produces only on crop of spores on the diseased leaves. These spores hibernate on any part of the tree and the same weather conditions which cause peach buds to swell in the spring also cause the spores of the peach leaf curl to germinate.

It is most important to get the spray on the trees before the period or dormancy passes and the buds start to swell. If the spray is applied after this happens, the fungus will have established itself inside the buds and control measures will have no effect.

The best material to use for spraying is a concentrated lime sulphur spray made by mixing 12 gallons of concentrated lime sulphur (32 degrees Baume') with sufficient water to make 100 gallons of spray. This material will control both San Jose scale and peach leaf curl.

If San Jose scale is not a problem a 3-3-50 Bordeaux mixture spray may be used instead. If terrapin scale is present, or red mite eggs are prevalent, a lubricating oil spray should be used at dormant strength. When an oil spray is applied, it should follow the peach leaf curl spray of Bordeaux or lime sulphur, as it does not control peach leaf curl.

Will Your Horses Go Blind From Moon Blindness, Periodic Ophthaimia

You may be the next to have a good horse go blind, for this disease, while not general, is widespread. It has been known and described for more than 2,000 years, but has baffled veterinarians and research investigators in a dozen or more nations, and its cause is still unknown.

Because it affects all classes of horses and mules, and appears to be increasing, the Horse and Mule Association of America has undertaken a nation-wide study of the disease, with a view of gathering facts about where it occurs and what the conditions are where it appears, which can serve as the basis for some practical work along preventive lines.

The Association had Dr. C. J. Marshall of the Vetinary School of the University of Pennsylvania summarize all known research and veterinary knowledge down to November 1, 1936; arranged with Col. R. J. Foster, Chief of the Veterinary Corps, U. S. Army, to prepare a statistical study of the occurrence of the disease among all U. S. Army horses for the past 13 years, which has been completed. The Association has also received reports from state veterinarians, and agricultural colleges, from ever state in the union, as to the occurrence of this disease in their states.

All this has been done, but it is only the beginning. The urgent need is for thousands of reports from men who have had the disease among their horses, or who know of animals in their localities that are, or that have been, affected.

Mass data is needed, to permit the Association to map the areas where the disease occurs most numerously and frequently. A nutritional deficiency may be the cause, and area studies will help determine whether this is true.

Names and addresses of correspondents, will not be disclosed to any one, as Wayne Dinsmore, Secretary of the Association, realizes that full information will not be forthcoming except under pledge of secrecy as to identities, which will be kept.

Please cooperate, by sending all possible information to him at once at 407 South Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois. Your cooperation now, may save some of your own horses in the future.
