HIGH SPOTS FROM THE HIGH SCHOOL

The Dramatic season at Chestertown certainly seems to have reached grater heigths than ever before, if we are to judge them from the number of plays they produce. For on April first three one acts plays will be presnted to an audience presumably at William Smith Hall.

As I said last week, one of the skits would include a cast of all girls, another of all boys, and the third of a boy and a girl. The play "Too Many Marys", the feminine contribution, will be directed by Ruth Adams and includes such people as Sara Speicher, Frances Kreeger, Mary Eva George, Maria Petry, Charlotte Jane Curry, and Laura Greenwood in the speaking roles.

The male piece of dramatics is the directing hands of Gerson Bonnett who will take Neal Truslow, Joe Weer, Lewis Anthony, Francis Mead, and Harry Hendrickson and coordinate them into a smooth running presentation. Their play is entitled "A Finance for Fanny" and its plot is based on a pun situation that is bound to bring little bits of laughter continually from the audience.

The last play is a mono-skit, with Wayne Pote and Betty Lewis its characters. It has the burglar-innocent girl meeting for its plot with a serious background. The talents of both the above can easily be brought out in and Francies Club was to set the date matic club advisor, will officiate over it.

The other business of the last Thursday's meeting of the Rootlight's and Francies Club was to set hte date of their annual party, it being scheduled for sometime in April.

The second debate of the present '37 season took place in our auditorium here last Thursday, February 18th with Federalsburg and was on the government ownership of electric utilities question. A large crowd of enthusiastic rooters for both teams attended, while our result was termed by the judges, Mr. Goodwin of the Washington College Economics Department, and George Rasin and Marvin Smith, the collge debating team, "as a practically tie outcome." However, they rendered the winning decision to Federalsburg. The local team, Neal Truslow, Charlotte Russell, and Nellie Bexley, were ably coached by Miss Riches, while the same three Federalsburg girls our affirmative team met some time ago was directed by Mr. Charles Clark.

The home room period of last Wednesday, February 17th, says the change of all the officers of the many divisions, putting into service a new group of people. While the duties of these officers are comparitively small, they certianly are to be encouraged for the training that they do present.

An important change in the schedule of the meetings of the Press Club was effected last Monday, February 15th, by a majority vote of its members. Instead o fthe usual weekly meeting of the organization, biweekly ones will supplant the present system. During the intervening Mondays, the DRAGON staff will hold their meetings. THE REFLECTOR staff is also privilidged to use the same period if demed necessary. By such a change, quicker progress can be made by the yearbook and paper staffs because of the presence of all its respective members.

The noon boxing schedule has swung into action during the past two weeks, and is well on its way to discover the school champion. The bouts are held during the latter part of the noon-lunch-hour each day, and it invited would-be pugilists to vie for the school crown.

As yet, the runners-up have not been determined, but I'll have them for you soon.

The girls are still active in practicing basketball at the college gym, but the boys' interclass games have been dlaved considerably, the floor being hard to obtain on the scheduled nights. At present the classes stand as follows according to number of games won and lost:

Class	W	L
Juniors	1	1
Sonhomores	1	1
Freshmen	0	2

The portrait photograph work for the senior pictures of the DRAGON began the latter part of last week as the first group scheduled their sitting date. Th pictures are all being taken at the studio of Alan Eliason on Washington Avenue, but their cost must be paid in advance to appointments. The senior class this year numbers near seventy, so a rather long period is needed to accomplish the said work.

Hi-Spots this week include: the perfect spaker's stand that John Eliason made for the debate—the completion of the stage in our assmebly—a March Refiector going to press this week—the display of work of the home economics class in Mr. Sparks' store window—and the start of organizing a cast for the senior play.

THOSE WHO REMAIN

When death visits a home, the first concern is to perform the last service to the loved one in a becoming manner. What ever is done must express all the reverance and affection that is felt at such a time. But in addition to this a further responsibility rests upon the funeral director. It is his privilege and duty to lessen as far as lies with in his power, the burdens laid upon those who remain. By countless little acts of theughtfulness he can make the way easier for them.

We consider this part of our work as important as any other. Our highest aim is to have our patrons look upon us as trusted friends, ready and anxious to render sympathetic assistance to those who remain behind.

Beacon, Lighthouse

Originally, a beacon, or "beckon," meant a signal, especially a fire lit on a high hill for the purpose of sending a message of alarm over long distance. A lighthouse is sometimes called a beacon, but, technically speaking, the word means a small unattended light on a floating buoy, or an unlighted, conspicuous structure used to guide or warn sailors.

Burial Changes Status

Under the common law of the United States the burial of a human body changes its status from personal property to unowned "real estate." Hence the courts of several states have often ruled in favor of those who have opposed the removal of a body, even in cases in which the opposing party was unrelated to the family.—Collier's Weekly.

THE Aladdin
KEROSENE MANTLE LAMP COAL OIL

Saves EYESIGHT MONEY TROUBLE

Why? Because the light the Aladdin gives is surprisingly ample and abundant in quantity and is of a quality closely approaching sunlight, the kind of light nature provided for the human eye. It saves you money, too, because it is so economical of fuel, and its splendid light banishes trouble in reading, writing, sewing, studying, or any evening's work or pleasure. Aladdin light, its simplicity, its safety, its economy, its beauty, and its decorative and practical features must, however, be seen to be appreciated. If you need more and better light, come in at your first opportunity—we'll be glad to demonstrate one to you without the slightest obligation.
