HIGH SPOTS FROM THE HIGH SCHOOL

By EMORY M. HINES, JR.

Now completely selected are the contestants for the Goldy spelling match that will represent our high school at the business college in Wilmington on April 17. The Senior team of three, selected from the two upper grades, are Gerson Bonnett, Harry Hendrickson, and Frances Frances Kreeger (Ray Byron is alternate); while the Junior team, selected from the two lower grades of high school here are Elizabeth Wheatley, George Rupert, and Donald Nickerson (Naomi Russell will alternate.) The latter team was picked after a long competitive struggle, with hard, tricky words having to be used to help along the elimination. The commonplace mistakes in spelling that so many of us make failed to phase these people and only using college words could the thre be chosen. Runners-up in the contest were:

8A—Hazel Ford, Alma Carroll, Louise Baxter, Rosalie Bonnett;

8B—Natalie Goodman, George Ruppert, Elsie May Ireland, Eleanor Jones;

8C—Elmer Thomas, Dorothy Hilyard, Sara Scotten, Grace Wiltbank;

9A—Charles Dulin, Shirley Dorf, Betty Beck, Harold Boericke;

9B—Mary Betty Sweetman, Donald Nickerson, Elizabeth Wheatley, Naomi Russell;

9C—Miriam Porter, Mary Wessel, Anna May Jones, Lillian Archibald, June Maslin, Miles Davidson;

10A—Frances Kreeger, Ray Byron, Maria Petry, Catherine Newton;

11A—Harry Hendrickson, Joe Weer, Charlotte Russell, Gerson Bonnett;

11C—Martha Wessel, Eva George, Catherine Lusby, Mildred Thrift.

An old standby can be easily used here again to describe the outcome of the three one-act plays that were presented at William Smith Hall last April first—"success." For applause and attendance were indeed highly present, being shown by the crowd of over 200 that came and the enthusiasm after each successive curtain went down. With Ruth Adams directing the first play and Miss Peacock the others, the presentations were delightful and fully entertaining. The exact amounts that the Footlights and Fancies Club cleared cannot be estimated at this time, as all the tickets are not in However, all indications point to the fact that a tidy sum was made and that it will aid considerably in hte purchasing of the curtains for the newly erected stage in our assembly. Laurels to all in the plays, and congratulations to the club for donating the money to such a worthy cause.

The Honor Roll for February, although a bit late, is published herewith:

Senior: Martha Wessel, Josephine Hastings, Catherine Lusby, Charlotte Russell, Nellie Bexley, Gerson Bonnett, Emory Hines, Kitty Bringman, Mina Brown, Joe Weer, Ann Turner, Virginia Hague.

Juniors: Ellen Bordley, Catherine Newton, Elizabeth Humphreys, Martha Petry, Frances Kreeger, Ruth McVean, Catherine Fields, Evelyn Pletzer, Nellie Coleman, Anna Lucht, Hazel Mason, Kathryn Perry, Esther Carroll, Van Whiting, Miriam Yackle Florence Walls.

Announcement of the Declamation Contest to be held during June Week was announced this week to the Seniors. Hoping that a large number of students will participate, Mrs. Brice and Mr. Poole will coach the speakers in selections that more than likely will vary from speeches of famous men to one act plays drmaatized by one person. All those planning to enter must declare their intentions as of April 29th and begin their work immediately. The preliminary contests will be held near the first of May and will determine just what students will compete for the two medals offered to the male and female winners.

A novel contest that will prove of interest to watch is that one being sponsered by the Reflector this month. In order to encourage better posture, from April seventh to April twenty-first, the editor and her associates will observe all pupils in the school. All students automateically enter the contest, but none will know the results until they are published in the next month's issue of the paper. Taking a decided "slump" in this direction for the last few years have been the younger genration, and consequently, the sponsers feel that such activities will stimulate an interest in posture, an important asset to good health, by arousing such contentions.

Still at work is the Senior Play Production entitled, "The Charm School". This week the stage manager was appointed, Gerson Bonnett filling the position, and the property manager selected, Emory Hines in charge. Tickets are on sale now with reserved seats available at Stam's. The advertising committee, headed by Mr. Poole, consists of Helen Strong and Kitty Bringman, who are responsible for publicity and printing of the programs.

Candid glimpses around find: Miles Davidson filled to the brim with all the zest of Spring—almost bare cloakrooms caused by the recent introduction of warm weather—blooming flowers and bushes surrounding the school grounds in all their glory—a group of Sea Scouts that attended the Motor Boat and Sportsman Show in Philadelphia last week—a clipping from a Salisbury paper reading that former Chestertown High Schoolar, Grace Valliant, was the most popular Senior girl there by recent voting tabulations—Howard Strong, Jr., preparing to send his model "Queen Mary" into Ideal Aeroplane and Supply Company's contest in New York to be judged with other final entrants—and the baseball, bat, and glove monopolizing the athletic field for the past week or two.

Ferry Subsidy Should Encourage Service From Tolchester

The Maryland Legislature adjourned at midnight on Monday following a windup in which considerable important Legislation was passed.

Probably the most important Legislation directly affecting Kent County that was passed at the session and now awaits the Governor's signature s a bill that will lead to the settlement of Kent's reported road debt. The amount of the road debt which the State Roads Commission claims is owed them is $193,029.86 and while officials of this county claim it is not a legal debt it has remained on the books of the Commission and has been a serious handicap in the transactions with the commission. The bill provides for the annulment and abrogation of the entire debt balance as shown on the books of the State Roads Commission. The counties of Calvert and Montgomery are also diprovides that the other counties of the provides tha tthe other counties of the State shall receive certain funds for maintenance and road repair. The source from which the funds for this purpose will be derived is an item in which Kent has not shared this year and the settlement of the debt will in no way affect Kent County's real estate tax rate. The bill was drawn, introduced and passed directly through the efforts of Senator Arthur Brice and assistance was given by Delegates Roy Strong and Wilbur Hubbard in steering it through the House.

Other Kent County bills passed at this session were:

Repealing the Charter of Incorporation of the town of Sassafras.

Empowering and authorizing the County Commissioners to levy for and pay annually to the Chestertown Fire Company $2,000 and to Rock Hall and Millington $1,000 each.

Bills of a State-wide interest that were passed at this session include:

Setting up an Unemployment Compensation Commission which re-enacts with some corrections the law passed at the special session in December 1936, making some changes and which were found needed. This act removes the control from the Board of Public Works and puts it in-

A resolution urging extension of wild water fowl season and establishing a refuge in the waters of the Aberdeen Proving grounds.

All proposed new fish bills, affecting Kent County watermen, were defeated which means no change in fishing laws.

Voters will decide in 1938 as to whether there will be an additional Judge in this circuit.

There will be a new assessment in Kent County this year.

ARMY ENGINEERS FAVOR DREDGING ROCK HALL HARBOR

Approval Given For Channel Sixty Feet Wide and Large Basin

Washington, April 6—Representative Goldsborough (Dem., Md.) today announced a favorable decision from the chief of army engineers for the dredging of a channel sixty feet wide and seven feet deep in Rock Hall harbor, Kent county, Maryland at, a cost of $58,000.

The report was filed with the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House, and if approved by the committee will be incorporated in the forthconimg river and harbor bill to be prsented to the House within a short time.

The chief of army engineers, in his report to the committee on the Rock Hall harbor project, stated that the most suitable plan calls for the dredging of a channel 60 feet wide and 7 feet deep into the entrance to the harbor, the construction of an anchorage basin 800 feet long, 100 feet wide and 7 feet deep, and also the construction of a small breakwater about 1,500 feet long.

Inadequate Anchorage

The report to the committee pointed out that "Rock Hall harbor, despite its limited facilities, is used as a base by a large number of boats engaged in the marketing of sea foods. These craft and others desiring to make use of the harbor are at present seriously handicapped by the lack of adequate anchorage facilities protected against high winds and drifting ice."

The board estimated that the annual maintenance cost of the project would be approximately $1,500.

Lead Poisoning Fatal To Twenty-Two Children

At least twenty-two children have died and thirty-five others have been ill from lead poisoning in Baltimore in the last three years, according to the April issue of Health News, monthly publication of the Health Departmtent.

Virtually all of the poison cases resulted from the chewing of paint from cribs, high chairs and woodwork painted with a lead-containing pigment. In every instance the furniture involved had been repainted in the home.

New cribs and other children's furniture are seldom painted with a lead-containing material, it was pointed out. Most of the victims of the poisoning were in the teething age.

In discussing the poison cases, the Health News said in part:

"Lead poisoning is rarely thought of as a cause of illness in children, yet this malady appears far more frequently in young children than one would generally suppose.

"A dramatic incident whcih recently occured in the southern section of the city is typical of the entire problem. A workman painted the fence of the factory where he was employed.

"Having some paint left over, he painted his child's high chair and bed. Several months later the infant was dead of lead poisoning. Subsequent investigation showed that the child had chewed on the paint and that the paint was of high lead content.

"Improved and more readily available methods of detecting lead in the blood and the other body fluids, together with a growing 'lead consciousness' on the part of the medical profession are factors largely responsible for the increased recognition of this condition in children."

The department's publication also announced that Dr. LeGrange Byington and Dr. Roy R. Jones have accepted invitations to become members of the advisory committee on sanitation of the Health Department.
