THE SOCIAL WANDERER

DEAR ROAMER:

All social activities have been centered this week around the parties before and after graduation exercises of schools and colleges. Alumni, both old and young returned for the Alumni dinner and dance at Washington College last Saturday night. Speakers have come and gone, parents have attended commencements and are rightly proud of their offsprings, and now we settle back, pursuing again the even tenor of our ways. We are always agog, when the home-town boy or girl makes good, and so it is apropos to impress the fact that Mrs. Florence Wilmer was the first in the graduating class at Washington College, and that Fredrica Metcalfe was the first in the graduating class at St. Mary's Seminary. But with honors in mind here's another of interest: Mr. Pierce Crisfield, of Savannah, Ga., (formerly of Chestertown, and father of Mrs. Wm. T.
