NOW AND THEN

AFTER THE RAIN

The rain has ceased, and in my room
The sunshine pours an airy flood;
And on the church's dizzy vane
The ancient cross is bathed in blood.

From out the dripping ivy leaves,
Antiquely carven, gray and high,
A dormer, facing westward, looks
Upon the village like an eye.

And now it glimmers in the sun,
A globe of gold, a disk, a speck;
And in the belfry sits a dove
With purple ripples on her neck.
T. B. A.

After the rain in summer is a happy time for all of earth's children. All the plants are lifting up their heads, refreshed after the welcome showers. The farmer goes to his work on the watered fields with renewed energy, the birds are carolling in their joy, and all nature rejoices. The above poem was composed by Senator Aldrich, a prominent legislator and writer. He contributed largely to the Atlantic Magazines and other leading publications, and his name is connected with much tariff reform.

JUNE

Yes. We are truly "knee deep in June," What does that mean? It means roses running roit everywhere, fields covered with clover and daisies, warm lovely days, and earth at its fairest. No wonder that Emerson exclaims "Oh what is so fair as a day in June!"

And another thing that makes June so welcome is the sweet girl graduate and her stalwart sun browned coed, the lord of creation. These young people have now reached the crowning efforts of their lives, their commencement, and the hearts of all the community are with them.

Graduation, after all means effort and achievement.

THE ROAD OF LIFE
Anonymous

We all of us have a road to take,
That road is the Road of Life.
We each of us have a share of joy
And each have a share of strife.

And since we all must travel that road,
In sunny or stormy weather,
We each can lighten the other's load
If we all pull along together.

UNBREAKABLE GLASS

Some years ago, one of the greatest menaces in the automobile accidents was the broken glass from the windows and wind shields of the machine.
chine.

In the year 1902 a chemist by the name of Benedictus who lived in the city of Paris in taking something from the shelf, upset a bottle. The bottle was shattered, but the liquid.

This set him to thinking. He remembered that he had put some collodian in the bottle. He went to work and in a year or two, had invented the present glass which has done away with that peril to motorists.

THE ST. BERNARD DOGS

The St. Bernard dogs have always been considered a noble breed of dogs Hundred of travelers who have lost their way in the violent snow storms which occur very often in the Alps especially in crossing the dangerous St. Bernard pass, owe their lives to the keen scent of these dogs, assisted by the monks who keep the dogs for that purpose. Recently a little girl who was ski-ing on these mountain was attacked by one of these dogs and killed. Her father demanded that all of the dogs should be killed.

For a time it looked as though the whole pack would be distroyed, but, the Commandant of the mountains have decided that generally the dogs are good natured and gentle and therefore they have decided to save them. The monks of St. Bernards with this race of dogs, have been there since the year 962 A. D.

HOTELS IN THE EARLY 19TH CENTURY

What distinguishes the modern hotel from the early American inn is that the inns made money, and the guest was never right. America's pioneer bonifaces, generally a surely and unaccommodating lot, were proud of their motto, "Treat 'em rough, especially Englishmen." One particularly churlish innkeeper in Coshocton, Ohio, is said to have seized and thrown out "by the scruff of the neck' Louis Philippe, future king of France. A Long Island tavern displayed on a placard the warning: Four pence a night for bed; six pence with supper. No more than five to sleep, in the same bed. No boots to be worn in bed.

WM. C. SUTTON

It was in the year 1811, that a sum of money was sent to Galletin, the then Secretary of the Treasury. The letter which came with the money said that it was sent to repay something that the sender had taken from the Government some years before.

Galletin consulted the President, who was then James Madison, as to what purpose the money should be applied, and htey decided that it should be put aside as a special fund, called "Conscience Money."

Since that time, the fund has amounted to over $600,000.

THE TOTAL ECLIPSE

The scientists headed by Dr. Mitchel of the University of Virginia felt fully repayed for the hardships which they endured in reaching Canton Island, the only place on this earth that the total eclipse of the sun was seen. This totality lasted only three minutes and 33 seconds, and then the moon gradually passed from before the sun.

The scientists felt they were especially fortunate, as a heavy bank of clouds then came up, and obscured the sun.

If it had done so, before the eclipse, their journey and the perils they underwent would have been in vain.

The sympathy of the community is extended to her many friends as well as those who stand in the shadow of bereavement.

Had Great Foresight

Harriet Martineau, 1802-1876, was an English writer of great power and noble purposes. "The world," she concluded in one of her last books, "as it is, is growing somewhat dim before my eyes, but the world as it is to be, looks brighter every day."

Easy Pleasant Way To LOSE FAT

How would you like to lose 15 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent hips and abdomen and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

Get on the scale to-day and see how much you weigh—then get a bottle of Kruschen Salts that costs next to nothing and which will last you 4 weeks. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water in the morning—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

After that you'll want to walk around and say to your friends, "One bottle of Kruschen Salts is worth one hundred dollars of any fat person's money."

But refuse imitations—safeguard your health—you loose fat SAFELY the Kruschen way.

NOTE—Many people find that the only diet change necessary while taking Kruschen regularly is TO EAT LESS.
