MAN DROWNS AT BETTERTON RESORT

Fell Off Boat In Harbor

Charles Turner, of Butler, Pa., was drowned on Friday afternoon of last week when he fell from a boat in Betterton harbor.

According to reports of the accident Turner, who was employed by a gravel company, had been working on a dredge above Betterton and had come to that resort in a boat to get provisions He was standing on the deck of the boat when he fell overboard and more than an hour lapsed before his body was recovered. A call was made for the fire company inhalator and Messrs. L. V. Van Petten and Ernest Leverage rushed the machine to Betterton and arrived there before the body was recovered. Due to the lapse of time that Turner was under water it was impossible to revive him.

He was about 25 years of age and his body was taken to the undertaking parlors of B. R. Fellows where it was prepared for burial and then sent to his home in Pennsylvania.

TWO MEN LOST DURING FLOOD

Queen Annes Men Yet Unreported

Frank Ridgely and Harry Usilton, said to have resided in hte neighborhood of Pondtown, Queen Anne's county, are believed to have been victims of drowning Monday afternoon when the flood waters at Cooch's Bridge, near Newark, Del., swept their car overboard. Two other men, Charles McGinnis of Salem, N. J., and Gilbrt Sparks, of Pondtown, who were in the automobile with them climbed from the car. They were later found clinging to overhanging tree limbs. The rescue was made by Edward E. Cooch, Jr., and Leonard C. Barker, of Newarq, Del., who putting on bathing suits braved the rushing waters to save the men.

The storm is said to have been the worst in the memory of many of the oldest ctizens of the section. The waters reached the highest point in more than one hundred years. In 1901 the river during a flood rose above the old weeden bridge. The structure was replaced with concrete in 1921, whch is considerably higher than the old bridge, and the waters on Monday reached a point eight feet higher than in 1901.

The two missing men have at various times made their home in Queen Annes county. Ridgely is about 33 years old and has a wife and several children. Usilton is said to have at one time made his home with a family named McGinns in the upper part of the county. Up to the hour of going ot press no clues had been found concrning the men.

BOATING PARTY INJURED WHEN GASOLINE EXPLODES ON BAY CRUISE

Miss Dora Patrick and Mrs. Clayton Mitchell Among Those Injured

A boatng party, made up of Chestertown and Centrevlile people, were severely injured at noon on Tuesday of this week when the yacht on which they were taking a bay cruise exploded at Weems Beach, Virginia.

Among those injured were: Miss Dora Patrick, daughter of Mrs. William E. Patrick, of Chestertown and Mrs. Clayton Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Cornelius, of Lynch. Both are now at the hospital at Crisfield.

Miss Patrick is suffering from burns on hr arms, legs, face and head. Although her condition was serious, she is recuperating nicely according to reports from the hospital. Her mother visited her at the hospital on Thursday. She was blown up in the air, landed on the boat and immediately jumped overboard and swam ashore. Her clothes were practically burned from her body.

Mrs. Mitchell was blown overboard in shallow water, waded ashore, and ran to a nearby cottage with her hair afire. She is suffering from burns on her back, chest, legs and face in addition to head burns.

Other members of the party included Mr. Harry Butler, former Captain of the Maryland State Police, Mr. James Bright, and Mr. Edwin Valliant, all of Centreville and Mr. Clayton Mitchell of Baltimore. All were seriously burned with the exception of Mr. Valliant who received only a foot injury.

Captain Butler received more serious burns probably due to the fact that he missed a member of his party. Fearing they had not escaped from the boat he seized a fire extinguisher returned and attempted to enter the cabin in search of them. He was seriously burned on the arms, legs, face and hands.

Mr. Bright who was wearing trunks, was seriously burned about the arms, legs, feet and chest.

Besides burns of the arms, hands, legs and chest, Mr. Mitchell also sustained a severe cut on the head believed to have been caused by striking some object in the water when he was thrown from the boat.

The accident occured after the gasoline tank had been filled and an attempt was made to start the engine which back fired causing fumes from the gas to catch. The explosion was so great that all the occupants of the boat were thrown into the water. The boat however, was tied up at the wharf, and the water was not sufficiently deep to cause them to drown.

The party left Centreville Sunday morning for Weems Beach, Virginia, where they expected to visit friends while cruising about in the boat. They were starting the boat to return to the home of their friends for dinner when the accident occurred.

The injured members of the party were taken a distance of eight miles to a physician who rendered first aid. Thy were then returned to Weems and placed on a boat and taken to the McCready Memorial Hospital. They were accompanied to the hospital by the doctor.

It required about eight hours to make that distance from Weems to Crisfield, which they reached at midnight on Tuesday.

HOUSE APPROVES HARBORS BILLS

Channel Into Rock Hall Included In Projects

Washington, July 1—Further improvement of fifteen waterway projects in Maryland—ten on the Eastern Shore and five on the Western Shore—at a total cost of $800,600, is provided for in the rivers and harbors bill passed by the House today.

In addition, the measure provides for the examination and survey of seventeen additional streams.

The bill, whch goes to the Senate, provides for the carrying out of 119 projects in various parts of the country at a total cost of $31,720,300, the smallest sum asked for river and harbor works in recent years.

$215,000 Largest Amount

The largest amount in the list of Maryland projects is $215,000 for improvement of the Wicomico river from the Chesapeake Bay to Salisbury. The plan calls for a channel 14 feet deep and 150 feet wide and includes turning basins in the north and south prongs, and a basin 6 feet deep, 100 feet wide and 400 feet long at Webster Cove.

The second largest amount, $110,500, provides for a chnanel 7 feet deep and 100 feet wide and approximately 1,300 feet long into Crisfield harbor The bill also calls for the construction of an anchorage basin 160 feet wide and 1,200 feet long.

Crisfield Harbor Work

Further modification of the Crisfield harbor project by providing for a channel 60 feet wide and 7 feet deep in Little Annemessex river via Cdar creek, a land cut, and Daugherty creek, to Big Annemessex river, also is requested.

Other Eastern Shore projects include the expenditure of $58,000 for the construction of a channel 7 feet deep from Swan Point inlet to the harbor terminals at Rock Hall, Kent county, and the improvement of Island creek by a channel 8 feet deep and 75 feet wide through the entrance bar.

Calls For Canal

On of the most important of the proposals is the provision for constructing a sea-level canal, connecting the Choptank rivers. This would shorten the water distance between Cambridge harbor and Little Choptank river points by as much as thirteen miles. Cost of the improvement is set at $59,000.

Another project calls for a channel 14 feet deep from Choptank river to the head of the harbor at Cambridge, with depths of 150 feet below Market street bridge and 100 feet wide above the turning basin at the head of the channel, and also a turning basin 10 feet deep, 400 feet long and 175 feet wide.

Additional Basin Asked

Provision also is made for an additional basin of the same depth, 225 feet long and 200 feet wide on the east side of the channel, and a channel 60 feet wide and 7 feet deep from the Choptank to the municipal boat basin north of the entrance to the harbor.

The expendiutre of $38,600 is provided for in the bill for Fishing Bay McGreadys Creek, Goose Creek, Farm Creek, Dorchester county—for deepening and widening channels to afford adequate anchorage.

Improvement of Nanticoke river by widening and deepening the present channels at a total cost of $82,000 also is listed.

Pertains To Deal Island

Cost of modification of the upper thoroughfare, Deal Island, to provide for channel and turning basins, construction of bulkheads and other improvements is placed at $26,000.

North East river work calls for channel improvement and a boat basin at a total cost of $7,300.

The projects were sponsored by Representative Goldsborough before the Rivers and Harbors Committee and the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors.

The five Western Shore projects, sponsored by Representative Gambrill, call for total expenditures of $196,400.

The largest of these is the expenditure of $97,000 for a channel from Chesapeake Bay into Fishing Creek, Calvert county, designed to provide fishing boats the only harbor of refuge in that section of the bay.

The dredging of a channel seven feet deep and seventy-five feet wide to connect Cypress creek and Magathy rivr, Anne Arundel county, at a cost of $4,300, which would benefit a large summer colony and a number of fishing boats, is authorized.

Channel Dredging Listed

Another project in the county calls for the dredging of a channl 8 feet deep and 100 feet wide through the entrance bar at the mouth of the creek, with a jetty 750 long, at a cost of $27,000.

Army engineers, in recommending this improvement, pointed out that it would provide much needed anchorage basin and relieve congestion in Annapolis harbor.

Two projects in Southern Maryland are listed. One calls for the dredging of an adequate channel from the Chesapeake Bay into St. Jerome's creek, St. Mary's county, at a cost of $19,500. The other seeks dredging of Neal Sound, Charles county, opening up a route for seafood boats between the Wicomico and Potomac rivers. The cost of this work is placed at $16,600.

Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough had inserted in the Rivers and Harbors bill, whch passed the House on July 1 the following items, providing for preliminary examinations and surveys:

For a harbor in the vicinity of the Choptank River Bridge, Talbot County.

Lower Thoroughfar, Deals Island, Somerset County.

Town River, at Oxford, Talbot County.

Hearns Creek, Dorchester County.

Duck Point Cove and Tedius Creek, Dorchester County.

Farm Checkup Completed

A farm to farm checkup has just been completed by the committeemen and Supervisors of the Kent Agricultural Conservation Association. The officers made the canvas for several reasons: (1) to give every farmer the opportunity to know what the program offers. (2) to checkup on the accomplishments of the members so as to (3) point out the additional approved practices the farmer may employ if he so desires, in order to benefit most fully from the program. (4) to stimulate a big increase in the use of simple, portable, efficient, yet very economical, silos on farms on which no silos are found. (5) to determine interest in the control of sheet erosi on and gully control, both of which are serious problems in Kent County. (6) to offer help in making comprehensive farm plans. These plans to cover a well rounded effort to identify attack and solve the various problems found to exist on the individual farm. The help of specialists in their respective lines will be made available. (7) to discuss simple but effective gully control demonstrations to be staged in various neighborhoods. One or more tours will be made to see the gully control methods demonstrated.

The response has been most gratifying and effective. The cost of the canvass has been saved many times through increased and intelligent participation in the program.

Since sheet erosion and gully control are such pertinent problems in Kent, the Agricultural Conservation Association plans in August to make a one-day tour to Anne Arundel County to see gully control demonstration on four types of farms on soils and conditions similar to those in Kent, at Harwood.

A C.C.C. camp is located at that point and its members work on soil conservation problems and demonstrate simple, effective, yet inexpensive methods of control. The tour to see this work will be made in August after threshing season is over, the date yet to be set. A great deal of interest has been shown in the proposed tour and following the tour demonstrations will be setup in Kent.
