MANY PEOPLE IN Kent County have become alarmed at the appearance of Japansee beetle in Kent County. This insect pest has been kept under control in this section in spite of the fact that for years it has been menacing gardens and yards in neighboring sections. As to whether it will become a menace here depends entirely upon individual efforts to stamp it out. The State and Federal Agricultural departments have conducted beetle control methods, but this year the activities have been curb ed due to insufficient funds and their efforts are confined to advising methods of control. Appearing elsewhere in his issue is an article by County Agent McVean as to control methods and it is up to the property owners as to whether this section shall become heavily infected. The control methods incur effort and a small expnese but compared to the work of making and maintaining lawns and gardens the use of poison and spray will be well worth while. It may be that people have become so used to having things done for them at public expense that they are slow to make the iniative but a visit to the heavily infested beetle areas will convince them that what ever effort they make will be well worth while.

THE PRICE OF wheat on the local market jumped to $1.18 a bushel on Friday of this week. This price is well above the average for wheat on the local market and far above the starting price last year. There are various opinions as to the cause of the incrased price and as to whether the recent agricultural act has affected it. Whatever may be the cause it is hard to overcome the old rule of supply and demand and with a smaller supply, which has been the effort of the Agricultural Departments, the demand has increased. Alhtough the yield in Kent County has been below average this year the increased price will make up for the shortage.

SENATOR ROBINSON

THE SUDDEN death of Sen. Joseph Robinson, of Arkansas, is a calamity to his country, as well as to the Democratic party which he served so faithfully. Being the majority leader, he went into the fight for a change in the Supreme Court and duirng the long bitter contest which ensued, he used his powers with all his might. Loyalty to the President, to his friends and to what he considered his duty was the ruling principle of his life.

His honest face and stalwart figure was always at his place when needed.

Since his election to the Senate in 1913, he has been a leader in the Democratic ranks. And his place will be hard to fill for, in spite of the opposition that he daily met with, he was a very popular man. Indeference to his memory, it would be a good time to lay aside all bitterness and struggle. And thus show the great hold that he had on the hearts of his colleagues.
