Number of Telephones Shows Gain in 1936

Many business men consider the telephone a barometer of general business trends. If so, the 1936 report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company indicates recovery on a wide front. It reveals that the increase in the number of telephones in service in the United States at the end of 1936 was nearly double that of 1935 and nearly three times the gain in 1934. At the year's end there were 14,453,000 Bell telephones in service, but this number was still 740,000 less than the all-time maximum development of 1930. However, there were 1,725,000 more telephones than in the low month, August 1933. There are approximately 18,433,000 telephones in the United States.

The average daily number of telephone conversations over Bell System lines in 1936 was 65,000,000, an increase of 7.6 per cent in local and 12 per cent in long distance conversations. It cost $659,000,000 to operate the Bell System exclusive of taxes, which amounted to $116,300,000. The tax bill was $22,300,000 more than 1935.

There were 641,000 stockholders on the books of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the average number of shares held by each stockholder being twenty-nine. No stockholder of record holds as much as 1 per cent of the total stock. About one-third of the Bell System employees are stock owners.

At the end of 1936 the total assets were $5,149,000,000, of which $4,259,000,000 were invested in telephone plant. Additions amounted to $244,000,000, while retirements of plant amounted to $173,000,000, a net increase of $71,000,000.

A total of 66,000 persons was hired in 1936 to replace losses in personnel and to handle the increase in business. Of the new employees more than 30,000 were trained as telephone operators. It is probable that the number of operators to be hired and trained in 1937 will be substantially larger than in 1936.

There were 294,000 employees at the end of 1936, a net increase of 28,000 for the year. The total payroll was $475,000,000, an increase of $43,000,000 over 1935.

Bell System employees through the payroll deduction plan are carrying $189,900,000 worth of life insurance.

Livestock shows of national and international import will run currently with the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition at the Grand National Livestock Pavilion now under construction.

"EVER SINCE EVE" . . . .

Two stars of immense popularity, and of well deserved top rank among comedy players, come to the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, August 16 and 17, in "Ever Since Eve," the Sosmopolitan production which has its local premiere there.

They are Marion Davies, the lovely blonde comedienne, and Robert Montgomery, the debonair youth who has been leading man in so many gay movies.

Miss Davies and Montgomery are so-starred in what is described as the liveliest, fastest-moving farce either has played in for a long time.

Miss Davies plays the part of a stenographer who has been so harassed by employers because of her golden-haired beauty that she disguises herself with a dark wig and glasses and goes looking for another job.

Montgomery is a novelist who is crazy about blondes, but is forced to accept this seeming brunette forced upon him by his hard-boiled woman publisher, who wants him to keep his mind on his work.

He is therefore strictly business during working hours, with Marion there, but it chances that he meets her socially, one evening, when she's not disguised.

Besides the two stars, "Ever Since Eve" has a cast including such comedy experts as Patsy Kelly, Frank McHugh, Louise Fazenda, Allen Jenkins, and Carol Hughes.

The picture was directed by Lloyd Bacon.

"AS GOOD AS MARRIED" . . . .

The New Universal's brilliant comedy drama, "As Good As Married," comes on Wednesday and Thursday, August 18 and 19, to the New Lyceum Theatre.

This picture is, with no exaggerated statement of fact, dazzling. The New Universal has given it splendid production; fine cast, beautiful sets, and the best of writing and directing talent.

It is a novel story, centering around the efforts of a successful architect to save money on his income tax by marrying his beautiful secretary, who is in love with him. Naturally, there would be complications arising, and plenty arise in "As Good As Married."

Heading the cast are John Boles and Doris Nolan, whose recent triumph in Universal's super-musical, "Top Of The Town," places her among the foremost comediennes of the screen. And in "As Good As Married," she is said to surpass all her previous efforts. With these two stars are such exceptional performers as Walter Pidgeon, Tala Birell, Alan Mowbray, Katherine Alexander, and Esther Ralston. Edward Buzzell directed.

The sets, designed by John Harkrider, whose work on "The Great Ziegfeld," and "Top Of The Town," have brought him international fame, are ultra-modern, and are destined to set new fashions in interior decoration. The entire art department of the large Universal Studio was set to work executing Harkrider's designs.

The dialogue is the fast, humorous, breezy type, carrying either a laugh or a dramatic punch as often as the plot will allow. It is produced by the studio that scored so satisfactorily with "Three Smart Girls" and it has the same happy appeal.

"FORLORN RIVER" . . . .

A robust story of the old West from the pen of Zane Grey brings Larry Crabbe back to the screen in another of his now famous "Nevada" roles in "Forlorn River," which comes on Friday and Saturday, August 20 and 21, to the New Lyceum Theatre, as part of a double feature show.

Assisted by a brilliant cast which includes June Martel, John Patterson, Syd Saylor, Harvey Stephens and Chester Conklin. Crabbe frustrates the attempts of a band of horse thieves to steal a herd of horses consigned to the army remount service in his latest screen venture. He is assisted by Saylor who plays the happy-go-lucky, ever hungry "weary."

Over 2,000 horses were used in photographing "Forlorn River." These were part of an actual herd of the "outlaws" who roam the range in Idaho and New Mexico in spite of many efforts undertaken to curb their number. These herds have seldom been photographed since the horses are extremely man and camera shy.

"Forlorn River" marks Crabbe's return to Westerns after having climbed considerably up the cinema ladder of fame. His recent appearances in "Lady Be Careful," "Rose Bowl," "Murder Goes to College" and "King of Gamblers," have won him critic acclaim as a young player who is well on his way to stardom.
