PLAN FIGHT ON JAPANESE BEETLE

County Agent Seeks Information Regarding Spread Of The Dread Pest

County Agent McVean wants to learn the extent of the spread of the Japanese Beetle to Kent farms this year. This information is important in order that Kent may receive its due share in the State appropriation made to help fight the spread and the increase of this dreaded pest for 1938. The appropriation is not available until October 1st, which is too late for 1937 use.

Any person who finds the beetle feeding on flowers, grapes, fruit, or other crop is requested to notify the County Agent's office. If there is any question concerning the identification of the Japanese Beetle, send in a few of the beetles doing the damage.

The May beetle flying at night is doing considerable damage to foliage but they hide out in grass during the day. The Japanese Beetle is active during the day.

ANNUAL DELMARVA TOUR—SET FOR AUGUST 22 TO 26

The annual Delmarva Tour, sponsored by the Extension Services of Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Railroad, will be held from August 22 to 26 and will include visits to Pittsburg, Cleveland and Detroit.

Interesting features of the trip are a visit to the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland, an all-night boat trip on the Great Lakes, an inspection of the great Ford Hospital, museum and automobile plant in Detroit, and a trip to the shrine of the Little Flower and the Zoological Garden.

Detailed information on the trip may be obtained by writing E. I. Oswald, University of Maryland Extension Service, College Park, Md., or County Agent J. D. McVean, Chestertown, Maryland.

KENT FARMERS TO TOUR ANNE ARUNDEL COUNTY GULLY CONTROL TO BE OBSERVED NEAR HARWOOD

On Wednesday, August 18 a considerable number of Kent County farmers will tour to the Harwood CCC Camp in Anne Arundel County to see the simple means of gully control employed in soil conservation—also to note the results obtained from these simple methods. The Anne Arundel soils are the same type we have in Kent which makes the tour doubly interesting.

It is the hope of the Kent Agricultural Conservation Association officers that a number of demonstrations covering one field or more may be started this fall as a means of utilizing the information secured on this tour and whcih will be available for other farmers to see who did not make the tour.

Mr. McVean, suggests that any farmers intending to make the tour should notify him not later than Saturday, August 14, in order that the CCC Camp may have opportunity to prepare to handle the delegation most efficiently.

The tour will leave Chestertown at eight o'clock and by using the nine o'clock ferry at Matapeake and the four o'clock ferry from Annapolis, should return to Chestertown by 6 P. M.

POISON SPRAY FOR BAG WORM

Bag Worm is very plentiful this year. Decidious trees, as well as ever greens are being attacked. Size of some of the trees precludes handpicking and burning the worms. The worms in their sacks are well protected but usually respond to a strong poison spray. Four pounds of arsenate of lead in 50 gallons of water is recommended. The addition of 5 pounds of hydrated lime to each 50 gallons of the spray mixture helps prevent burning the foliage.

POULTRY BREEDING AND IMPROVEMENT SCHOOL TO BE HELD AT COLLEGE PARK

For the first time in the history of the poultry industry in Maryland, a Poultry Breeding and Improvement School will be held at the University of Maryland on August 24 and 25, it has just been announced by Dr. Morley A. Jull, head of the poultry department. County Agent McVean has the detailed program to be followed.

The purpose of the shool is to give flock owners, hatchery operators and others who are interested in the poultry industry an opportunity to study methods of selecting breeding stock. The revised regulations of the Maryland Poultry Improvement Plan (ask County Agent for copy) now make it possible for flock owners and hatching eggs for hatcheries. This reduces the cost of selecting flocks and gives proper credit to flock owners and hatchery operators.

The program consists of lectures on factors affecting the breeding quality of birds and body changes which take place in relation to egg production. Demonstrations will be held on the selection of different breeds for vigor, vitality, body type, egg and meat production, and breeding purposes. Judging classes will be conducted by flock owners and hatcherymen and a sound motion picture on poultry imprvoement and pullorum testing will be shown.

The school will be conducted under the supervision of the University Poultry Department, in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

It is understood that in addition to Maryland hatcherymen and flock owners, there will be representatives of the poultry industry from Virginia, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, and Florida. Certificates will be awarded at the close of the school.

Loses Many Tons Of Fish

ELKTON, MD.,—William Gilbert, who for some years past resided along the Elkton-Newark road, about a half mile north of this town, reports that the recent freshet in Big Elk, which swept over the banks of his big fish pond, resulted in liberating practically all of the fish, principally carp, some of which weighed more than forty lbs. Just prior to the freshet Mr. Gilbert estimated that he had about sixty tons of the fish in the pond. The greater part of the fish would have been marketed during the coming fall, and the usual price realized was between $250 and $300 per ton. His loss is estimated at about $15,000. Several years ago, during a freshet Mr. Gilbert lost quite a large number of his fish, but not as heavy as the recent one.
