ROCK HALL SELECTED AS SITE FOR FISHING FAIR NEXT SEPTEMBER

Assurance Of Harbor Dredging Project Created Small Real Estate Boom Near New Harbor

At a meeting of the Directors of the Chesapeake Bay Fishing Fair Association held at Preston on Friday evening of last week, Rock Hall was selected as the site for the 1938 Fishing Fair.

Rock Hall has conducted an active campaign for the past two months to bring this annual gathering of sport fishermen to the Kent County town which was represented at the meeting last week by Captain Eldridge Glenn and Messrs. John Hersch, Joseph Williams, Frank Puppee, W. B. Usilton and W. S. Collins who pointed out the advantages of Rock Hall, the new harbor project and the cooperation which the Rock Hall watermen have given the Fishing Fair Association. Crisfield had a large representation at the meeting and made a strong bid for the fair next year.

At the meeting Dr. W. S. Brinsfield was re-elected vice-president of the Association for the Northern Eastern Shore counties and Mr. Joseph Williams was named a director.

Small Real Estate Boom On

As a result of the proposed dredging work which will afford a harbor for a large fleet of yachts, a number of real estate transactions have taken place in that part of the town. Messrs. Eldridge Glenn and John A. Hersch have purchased "The Old Mansion House" and it is understood they intend to convert it into a hotel. This house is one of the historic land marks of that town. It is generally understood that it was this mansion house that gave the town of Rock Hall its name as it was at one time called Rock Hall because of its foundation which was built of rock. The original house was burned and the present house was built on the same old rock foundation. It is also maintained that Dr. Sharp, at one time owned the tract on which Rock Hall now stands.

Other real estate transfers are:

Mr. M. Hilton Crouch has purchased the Feringer bungalow. Mr. Feringer will build another bungalow.

Mr. J. A. Urie has purchased a lot from Mr. Frank Jacobs.

Mr. Frank Puppee will donate the land on which the county will build a bulkhead which will form the shore side of the yacht basin.

KENT BOYS PLACE IN LIVE STOCK SHOW

Jesse Herd Official Judge In Swine Class

Kent was represented at the Baltimore Livestock Show last week by a county 4-H Judging Team composed of Whitney McCrea, of Rock Hall, Orville Wright and Robert Spray of Chestertown, with Warner Brockson, of Chestertown as alternate, and two pens of fat barrows exhibited by Whitney McCrea and Warner Brockson.

The Judging Team this year stood in 3rd place, with Montgomery County in first and Somerset in second. It will be remembered that the Kent Team was first in the contest of last year, in which Theodore Redman was high man winning his trip to the International Livestock Show at Chicago. The 1937 Team was composed of two boys who judged for their first time in a State Contest.

Animals used in the contest were three classes of fat lambs, a class each of Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn cattle and three classes of fat hogs. It is interesting to note that Jesse Hurd, former outstanding 4-H Livestock Club Member of Kent, was one of the official judges for the swine classes and graded reasons on swine for the entire contest. Jesse is now with the Schluderberg-Kurtle Company, one of Baltimore's largest packers.

Both exhibits of Kent hogs were in the money and sold for a fair price at the auction held on Friday. There wlil be sevreal more boys feeding steers, hogs, and lambs for the 1938 show at the Union Stock Yards.

Soy Bean Exhibit Monday

Kent farmers and doubtless many others will be interested in an educational exhibit prepared by the American Soybean Association. A car has been fitted out with a very wide range of soybean products and by-products to make a very interesting and valuable educational exhibit.

The car will be open to the public at Centreville, October 18 from 10.30 A. M. to 2.50 P. M. Doubtless many Kent folk will want to see it since it has been a very attractive exhibit over a wide range of territory.
