Fire Destroys Theatre

Aberdeen suffered another severe loss by fire Wednesday night when the New Theatre on Bel Air avenue was destroyed. A spark igniting a film in the projection room started the blaze at 10.15 p. m., and before Edward Johnson, the operator, could extinguish the fire it had gained considerable headway. Spreading to the ceiling, the flames ate their way to the second story where were located the offices of Dr. T. P. Thompson, William Silver & Co., canned goods brokers, and Ruth's beauty parlor. The equipment and records in these offices were totally destroyed. In the building was also the barber shop of Floyd Absher. Part of the furnishings were salvaged. The interior of the theatre was a total wreck and the flames spread to the roof of Adams store, next door, which with water, damaged part of the stock.

Six employees of George L. Ruty's walkathon, near Salisbury, were again brought before Magistrate W. R. Conway Monday charged with working on Sundays. To Dam Lake For Fire Protection

After nine controversial months, during which proponents and opponents appeared a number of times before the County Commissioners, the proposed dam will be built under the bridge at Powellville. This appeared certain following a conference with the County Commissioners this week during which the Commissioners agreed to permit the use of the board's name as sponsors of the project.

Proponents have contended the dam as needed to impound water for fire fighting purposes in the town. Another reason was a desire to beautify the pond site.

Beetle Damages Pine Forests

Dog Swallows Dollar Bill

Willis Murray, of Selbyville, Del., tickled the nose of his pet bird dog "Sport" a few days ago with a $1 bill, creased for the occasion. The dog sniffed. Murray again poked the dog's proboscis with the greenback.

Enough was enough for "Sport." One gulp he made and down his throat went the $1 bill. The dog made a wry face at the "tit-bit" he had swallowed. But not as wry as the face of Murray.
