THE PROSPECT OF A bridge across Chesapeake Bay again comes to light but aside from a few nidividuals in the county there is apparently little interest. This does not mean that the people of this county are not directly interested in obtaining a bridge across the bay but the lack of apparent interest in the present prospect is probably due to experience over a period of twenty years. They have seen the hopes of the bridge rise to great heights and tumble so many times; they have seen it kicked around as a political football in the State; they have seen a few influential politicians carry more weight with State officials than large groups of individuals and they finally saw a bill pass the Legislature that carried provisions for the interests of certain individuals that made the bridge impossible but at the same time took care of their interests; they have voted for officials who pretended that they were for the bridge; they have found that there is a tremendous opposition to the bridge in other sections of the Shore caused by false propaganda. All this has daunted the hopes of the average individual and it is now up to those who refuse to be discouraged and who are willing to fight against a host of foes. The question is whether there are enough of this latter type to put it across. Time will only tell.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT of Health has become an important factor in the lives and business interests of the State and is constantly issuing orders regulating measures which are designed to care for the general health and sanitation of the public. This department has criticized the drainage from the Chestertown and Kennedyville Milk Stations as a health menace which has resulted the condemning of these two stations. Other regulations are being enforced upon individuals for the general welfare of the public but there has been one big oversight which in our opinion should be settled before any individual or group of individuals can respect any health ordres or feel bound to abide by them. Several years ago the State Department of Health issued an order upon Chestertown to stop dumping raw sewerage in Chester River by a certain date which was also several years ago and put the matter in the hands of the Attorney General's office for enforcement. This action was taken due to the fact that the State Board of Health considered the sewerage condition a health menace. The town officials refused to abide by the order and the matter was dropped. The question now arises as to whether individuals or business organizations would not be justified in refusing to abide by any order from the Health Department until that department either rescinds their order on Chestertown and changes their opinion as to it bieng a health menace, or carry out the enforcement of the order. The foundation of law, in the mind of the public is based on the fact that it should effect equally the weak and strong.

Old Timer Comments On Politics

Dear Mr. Editor:

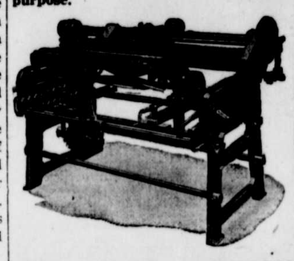

The cool rainy weather this week has given the boys plenty of time to gather round en do a lot of talking but with all the talking goin on it seems there isn't anything new in local politicks. Some of the boys who claim they are on the inside say there just ain't nothing goin on to talk about cause the big boys ain't putting anything out and say they are content to let things lay dormant for a while. I guess it is just as well cause it gives a little time to discuss the big State boys. People can do just so much talking in so much time and while there ain't nothing interesting enough about the local situation to keep a feller from being interupted they have shifted to the big boys. Most of the names mentioned this week was Byrd and Goldsborough. Corse when they start talking about Goldsborough the boys act like he is the proprietor of the store they know him so well and most of them have sometime or other writen to or got a letter from Mr. Byrd about farm crops which makes them think he is a right personal friend who tills the soil.

They say he must be pretty good to reach down and pull most two million dollars out of the government when they have been waiting for a long time for some overdue checks of less than a hundred dollars each en as nobody else can get em they are wondering why he don't reach down en get the checks for them. Corse they don't expect him to do everything at once but now that the University has gotten part of what it wants maybe he will see whether there is something left to pay the checks. They also say that Mr. Goldsborough has been pretty good at pulling the strings of the money bag en maybe he might be able to pull the checks out of the bag. All this talk started when somebody said that they hear that they hear that Mr., Dr., Professor, Coach Byed might run for governor and Mr. Goldsborough has decided that he don't want to spend all his life as a Congressman and might run for the Senate. Now that boys all agree that with the ability of these two prospective candidates at getting into the money bag that if they should be elected life in Maryland should be just sittin down and letting the rest of the country work for us. Why not, cause people pay a lot of money for antiques and as Maryland is one of the oldest States and has kept most of its old time things and methods from gettin lost in the rush such as roads and takin care of crabs, oysters and fish etc., why shouldn't the country be proud of us and let us have what we want.

That's all,
Yours endeavoring,
UNCLE JAKE.

P. S. One of the boys just dashed in the store and said the checks have arrived to the tune of $75,000 and the boys started talking about that. Most of them said they knowed they were coming all the time which is different from what they have been saying cause most of them said during the week they didn't believe they ever would get here. Uncle Ed, who like my don't talk much, said "Well I guess as how the government had found out how much Mr. Byrd wanted they could go ahead en pay their bills."
