MR. WAYNE JOHNSON, of Kent County and New York had a conference with President Roosevelt this week in reference to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge. This is the second conference Mr. Johnson has had with the president which assures the fact that he is acquainted with and interested in the project. Due to the discontinuance of the Tolchester ferry and with very little prospect of service over that route being resumed, the bridge is a timely subject. About the only word as to the outcome of the conversation was that from Mr. Johnson, who said the talk had been "sympathetic." He also said he was inclined to look upon PWA money as the best means of financing the project. With this section of the shore practically isolated from Baltimore, Mr. Johnson's efforts should be encouraged both by that city and the Shore. The set up does not include any expenditure by the State of Maryland, which has always been stipulated when the bridge bill was passed by the State Legislature. This provision should remove all objections and should gain the favor of the traveling public.

Old Timer Comments On Politics

Dear Mr. Editor:

Seeing as how the Court session this week did not bring out the political gossip that was expected and as how the boys seem to be more interested in getting in the crops for harvest and leaving out the crops for conservation checks there hasn't been enough talk goin on around the store to write nothing about.

I did hear that a meeting between the two factions, if there realy are any, was held in Chestertown this week to do some more talking about patching things up, and that a proposition was made to settle on some few of the candidate for office and let the rest scramble for the other offices. I here that no decision was made and that things are just where they were when the talking first started. If gossip about politicks don't pep up some I gotter start working up some interest in horse racing or baseball or something cause politicks ain't creating enough interest to keep the boys from goin home.

I hear as how Mr. Goldsborough is going to run for Congress again instead of trying to be Senator which as far as I can see ends the talk about the Congressman. I have quit talkin about the boys who are running for Governor cause when there gets to be more candidates than I can count on one hand it is more than I can keep track of without getting a black board and listin them and when I do that the boys think I am ignorant.

That's all,
UNCLE JAKE.

P. S. I keep hearing about the independants announcing their ticket but so far the news hasn't got this far from Chestertown.
