ON THE SCREEN AT THE NEW LYCEUM

THEY CROON WHILE THEY SPO ON—Rudy Vallee and Rosemary Lane are carrying on a very melodious ro mance in "Gold Diggers In Paris," the new musical film coming to the New.. Lyceum Theatre.

Modern motion picture magic has colored the brighter pages of history in a new salute to heroic scientists.

It is "Yellow Jack," dedicated to those five soldiers who risked their lives to free humanity from the yoke of yellow fever. Coming on Monday and Tuesday, June 27 and 28 to the New Lyceum Theatre, it impressed the audience with starkly dramatic scenes, unusual romantic appeal and a new type of heroism.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spared nothing in making the authentic story of Major Walter Reed a thrilling tribute to the man responsible for lifting the yoke of yellow fever from Cuba in the distressing days following the Spanish American War. They placed Robert Montgomery in his first dramatic role since "Night Must Fall," once more assigned the lovely Virginia Bruce in the feminine lead opposite him and gave them a supporting cast of unusual merit. They present a chapter from scientific history which earned its thrills from human sacrifice, its drama from heroism.

George Seitz, who started directing pictures two decades ago with "The Perils of Pauline," handles the M-G-M banner with noteworthy skill.

The carefully chosen cast includes Lewis Stone, playing the historical character of Major Walter Reed, Andy Devine, Henry Hull, Charles Coburn, Buddy Ebsen, Henry O'Neill, Janet Beecher, William Henry, Alan Curtis and Sam Levene.

Robert Montgomery breathes life into the character of Sergeant O'Hara, leader of the little band of soldiers who offer themselves as human guinea pigs in a last-ditch stand to discover the cause of yellow fever. Virginia Bruce scores as Nurse Blake, while Lewis Stone is completely at home in the role of Major Reed.

The story concerns a commission sent from Washington to wipe out the yellow fever which is devasting Cuba. The small group of scientists finally evolve the theory that a species of mosquito, the Stegomya, is responsible for the spread of the disease. To prove their theory they need human guinea pigs. Montgomery persuades four of his companions to volunteer. Their sufferings, etched against the factual background, provide sheer drama unparalleled in fiction's pages.

The New Lyceum Theatre will be the scene of a gala premiere on Wednesday and Thursday, June 29 and 30 when "Gold Diggers in Paris" has its initial Chestertown showing. The latest and most elaborate of the Warner Bros. musicals, which promises a new high in entertainment, brings back to the screen, after a three-years" absence, the one and only Rudy Vallee.

That is an event in itself but Rudy thinks the most important feature of the new "Gold Diggers" film is the motion picture debut of Freddie Fisher's Schnickelfritz Band, a sensational crew of mad musicians.

Sharing the romantic and singing spotlight with Rudy is the luscious Rosemary Lane; doing the heavy dramatics is the brilliant Gloria Dickson, and contributing hilarious amusement is a group of star comedians which includes Hugh Herbert, Allen Jenikns, Mabel Todd, Melville Cooper, Ed Brophy, Curt Bois and Fritz Feld.

And, giving the whole production its avowed reason for having been made, is an aggregation of lovely Gold Diggers, who charm the beholder with their dancing talents in the ensemble numbers devised and staged by Busby Berkeley.

The whole plot revolves about the adventures of a troupe of dancers and of the owner of the night club where they are working at the start of the picture. That is Vallee's role.

Though the girls are of the hotocha school of dancing, they are, as a result of an amusing error perpetrated by Hugh Herbert, taken to Paris to represent America in an international ballet contest. Everything turns out well when the girls go on and give them some real swing.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
