ROCK HALL HARBER DREDGING TO START SHORTLY

Bulkhead To Be Completed Next Week

The bulk head for the yacht basin at Rock Hall will be completed this week and it is thought that work on dredging the basin and chanel and the construction of the jetties will start shortly.
This bulkhead, which is being constructed with creosoted timbers forms the shore side of the yacht basin and is a county project. Land for this bulkhead was donated by public spirited citizens of that town. The contract for the bulkhead was let by the County Commissioners to Brundage & Crandell Co., at a price of $7,770.
According to a statement made this week by Mr. G. Ellsworth Leary, President of the Board of County Commissioners, the $58,000 government project is expected to start as soon as contracts can be let.
This project will make a permanent channel and boat haven for this busy port. The jetties are expected to protect the basin as well as prevent the filling in of the harbor.
When completed Rock Hall should afford an ideal haven for all types of boats of a medium draft in view of its proximity to the open waters of the bay and the best fishing grounds in the upper Chesapeake.

Scallops Add Zest To Fish Day

It is just such a dish as this that makes "fish dry" something to look forward to. Unlike so many attractive and delicious dishes, this is simple to prepare, requires little time and less energy and almost before you can say "Jack Robinson" there it is, all ready for the table.
We will call the dish "Baked Scallops" and the preparation goes as follows; Put a layer of scallops in a buttered baking dish, dust the scallops with salt and pepper and dredge them with flour. Cover the scallops with a layer of sliced mushrooms which have been sauted lightly in butter; alternate layers of scallops and mushrooms until the dish is filled, having a layer of scallops on top. Add enough cream to moisten the mixture; cover the whole with a layer of grated cheese. Arrange strips of pimento lattice fashion above the cheese and bake in a hot oven twelve minutes. Garnish with sauted mushrooms caps.

"The Local Scout Exchange," published by the Program Division of the Boy Scouts of America in New York City, contains excerpts of Council Newsguides from all other the United States. In the publication of September, 1938, was an extract from the local publication of "The Del-Mar-Va Scouter", published by the Del-Mar-Va Council in Wilmington, Delaware. It read: "This Council has chosen one of its twelve counties, Kent County, for a special demonstration of Rural Scouting Extension. The county with a population of 14,242 has only one sizeable community, the county seat, Chestertown, Maryland, with 2,500 people. The towns range in size from 300 to 500 and the open country which must be reached by some form of Rural Scouting. In 1934 Kent County had but two troops with forty Scouts. Miss Ella Hicks 25 Years With Telephone Co.

Miss Ella Hicks completed twenty-five years service with the C & P Telephone Company at the Chestertown office.
Starting as a student operator on October 6, 1913, she was soon transferred to night operator which position she now holds.
During that period of time there has been many changes in telephone communication. In 1913 there were few telephones on this exchange in comparison to the present day. The night operator had a bed in the office and was awakened by a large gong when a night call was made. As a rule during that time night calls were made only in emergencies and the operator was only disturbed a few times each night.
At the present time Miss Hicks is on duty at the switch board during the night ready to put through a call at any time. During the period of years that she has been connected with the

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK TO START NEXT MONDAY

Inspection Of Premises For Fire Hazards Urged

With the designation by Governor Harry W. Nice of October 9th to 15th as Fire Prevention Week, fire departments throughout Maryland are busy making plans to participate in this annual campaign to protect life and preserve property.
Cooperation of the public is sought by J. Lloyd Hopkins, Annapolis, chairman of the Fire Prevention and Inspection Committee of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, in the following statement:
"Serious thought should be given to Fire Prevention Week. In Maryland we have 165 fire companies in the State Association, the majority of which are now making fire inspections. There is no more valuable service you can render yourself and your community than helping to prevent fires by cooperation with these inspections.
"Fire inspections are especially valuable because they lead to the removal of rubbish and materials often thought harmless by the public but which in reality are dangerous because they are readily susceptible to spontaneous ignition.
"Survey of localities where inspections are made clearly shows a noticeable reduction in fires, in many instances as much as 50 percent, while in communities where there are no inspections the rate of fires continue to mount each year. You can readily see the splendid results of inspections and should insist upon your fire department taking up this work.
"Cooperation with your fire department and a speedy corection of any existing hazards found will reduce the number of fires and decrease fire losses, wheih will be reflected in lower insurance premiums.
"The importance of individual fire inspections can be seen from the records that show that 62 percent of the lives lost from fires, are in dwellings, the greater part of which is among children, clearly demonstrates that our homes can stand more careful inspection.
"Preventable fires are more than a private misfortune; they are a public calamity, and it is of the utmost importance that every means possible be employed to prevent this wide-spread evil."

Fire Losses On Farms Heavy

All farm people are urged by Dr. T. B. Symons, director of the University of Maryland extension service to check their homes against the known causes of fires during Fire Prevention Week, October 9 to 15.
According to facts collected by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, 85 percent of all farm fire losses are the result of eight known causes. They are: Defective chimneys and flues; sparks on combustible roofs; lightning; spontaneous combustion; careless use of matches, smoking; careless use of gasoline and kerosene; defective and improperly installed stoves and furnaces; faulty wiring and misuse of electric appliances.
Practically one-third of the total fire loss in the United States in 1937 occurred on farms, he asserted, amounting to approximately $90,000,000 and 3,500 lives.
