

WITH THE HORSES

BY Paul P. Steel

IN THE SHOW RING

It seems that we are a bunch of sissys in these parts. The sporting events of the day as announced last Saturday morning on the radio included a horse show at the Boulder Brook Club in Scarsdale, Westchester County, New York. We assumed that it was an indoor affair until we saw pictures in the Sunday papers which were of the familiar outdoor show ring. Last Saturday was an ideal day for a show but just how did the good people of Scarsdale know it was going to be warm when they scheduled the event?

The Middle Kent Hunt Club has been invited to join the American Horse Show Association. This is the organization that governs the horse show business from Maine to California. They furnish a list of judges from which a recognized Senior Judge is to be taken. It also is the organization that determines which horses will be eligible to take part in the New York Horse Show each year.

Closer to home there is an effort being made to organize a show circuit on the Delmarva Peninsula. It would be the purpose of this latter organization to promote the local shows by giving championship awards at the end of the season in various classes. There have been fifteen letters sent out to as many shows. Five of these were in Kent County.

AT THE RACE TRACK

Walt Susini had the misfortune of losing his good 5 year old gelding Yale O'Nine, a sprinter, in the fire at Laurel last week. Susini, Yancy Christmas, Max Chabel and some others had about 40 thoroughbreds led to safety by stable boys and track employees.

Bran No. 2 was destroyed and part of barn 4 was damaged before the Laurel firemen and their aids from Ellicott City, Sandy Spring, Jessup, and Berwyn Heights brought it under control.

Jack Bonwill is getting ready to ship to Florida for the winter racing.

That brings to mind an item from the press saying that the annual blast at illegal gambling in Miami has been made but that there may be some teeth in it this year. Florida's Governor says he will keep investigators in the city thruout the season.

Carol Hadaway reports that he has had a grand season with "Grand Waltz" winning 10 out of 13 starts with her. We haven't heard but we suspect that he is campaigning now at Charlestown, W. Va.

IN THE NURSERY

December! The month of long cold nights to be spent with the books figuring blood lines and suitable sires for the mares. We have spent hours on this subject but we were just making "if bets."

Our idea (they are usually of the kind that make me eligible for the club started years ago by Paul Gallico when he was a sports writer—99% wrong) is to send mares by a sprinter to the court of a sire by a distance runner. We also have a weakness for the larger type of thoroughbred rather than the finely etched type that look like a picture but so fragile.

Kent County has three established nurseries but the only thoroughbred we know of is at Orchard Point where "First Flag" holds his court.

BILLY B SEZ:

The boss has been hunting but not my kind. He takes that longhaired black and white dog and his gun. I haven't found out what he hunts because he doesn't bring anything home.

Hard him talking about a horse show held last week and saying it was the wrong season. He's wrong. Why not give us a break and let you humans be a little cold?

My side kick "Lady Gardiner" missed her footing and sprained an ankle last Saturday. These young girls just don't know how to handle themselves. I never said a word when the boss brought "Lady Rock" home for me to take care of, but it is just too much to expect of an old man like me to be guardian of a pony colt. The blamed thing is so small it gets in my mane but I guess it is just one of my trials and tribulations.

SPORTS AT THE COLLEGE

BY CALVERT JONES

Basketball mentor, Fred W. Dum-schott has scheduled a home game to test the Sho'men quintet this year before they go on their three-day road trip into Pennsylvania on December 16. The match is with Salisbury State Teachers College in the local armory on December 13. The official season begins with the road trip.

Serious practice for the Pentagon began at the local armory this week. With the end of football and freshman-sophomore activities, the remaining candidates reported, though some of them were suffering bumps and bruises.

The play this year will be built around Franny McNiff and little

Frank Samele who are expected to bear the brunt of the battle for the Sho'men. Lou Yerkes and Jim Stevens, last year's starters probably will be in the starting lineup while lanky Bill Benjamin will probably get the opening nod to fill the shoes of Charlie Fetter who was lost to Sho'men through graduation.

Frank Gibe, back from last year's squad, will be one of the valuable men in this year's aggregation. Although he started slow, he ended last year's season as one of the outstanding players.

Among the newcomers to the Washington squad, Jerry Voith of Baltimore is the most outstanding in practice sessions to date.

Three Hundred Worship With Masons

The "Thomas H. Kiah Lodge" No. 101 A. F. and A. M., Elmer T. Hawkins, worshipful master, accompanied by the "Sarah E. Travers Chapter No. 50 O. E. S." Clara Anderson, Worthy Matron, held their annual Thanksgiving service November 30th at Mt. Zion Methodist Church, Still Pond, Md., under the sponsorship of William F. Stewart, Jr. There were 300 present.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Thaddeus Hackett, Text: 2 Timothy 2-15 "Study to show thyself approved unto God, A workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly divided the word of Truth."
