Kindergarten in Early Days
In its early days the kindergarten was a holy cause, espoused by some of the leading thinkers of the time. Many names famous in literature and government, as well as in education, were associated with the movement. The first kindergarten in America was established in behalf of her own small daughter, in Watertown, Wis., in 1856, by Mrs. Carl Schurz, wife of the German refugee who later became minister to Spain.

About Our Faults
"Dar ain' many of us," said Uncle Eben, "so free from fault dat we can take a chance on de argument dat could start if we tell other peop 'bout their'n."

Founding Cleveland, Ohio
Cleveland, Ohio, was founded in July, 1796, by surveyors from Connecticut, who represented another company, which had bought a broad strip of land along Lake Erie. This land had been claimed by Connecticut by right of its old British charter, but it had relinquished rule over it to the federal government, and had sold the land to the Connecticut Land company. The company, in turn, resold farms and town lots to folk in Connecticut, New York, and elsewhere, and these settled the city and the region around it.

Wine Worth $20,000 a Drop!
The Rathskeller's celebrated "Rose Cellar" in Bremen has a wine that even millionaires could not afford to drink. A Rudesheimer from the year 1653. Originally the wine cost 300 gold talers. Adding to this the yearly charge for interest and leakage, statisticians reckon that the value of the wine is over $20,000 a drop or more than $20,000,000 a glass. Except as a curiosity, however, it is in practice not worth a cent, since the improvement of wine with age has its limits and after "maturing" for three hundred years, this Rudesheimer has completely lost its flavor.

Pekingese Dog Favorite of the Chinese Rulers
One of China's three contributions to the dog fancy is the haughty-looking little Pekingese. This waddling little "kou," as a dog is known in that land is one that has been 100 per cent pure-bred throughout the centuries, writes George Butz in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Pekes were the coveted court dogs in the regimes of Chinese emperors. They were once the pampered pets of the mandarins, and perhaps that is the reason of their aristocratic expression. Chows and pugs are the other two dogs which originated in China.

The Peke's luminous eyes, set far apart upon his broad skull, serve as a mask of his real disposition. He is a jolly fellow and faithful. Because of his diminutive size the Peke has sometimes been wrongly called delicate. However, he is not by many miles, because he is one of the sturdiest of toy dogs.

Pekes are active, they are strong for their size and would this dog be larger he would be fitted for police work. The Peke has a massive coat for a small dog. The frill of soft hair around his collar suggests a lion. In fact, in his native China, the dog has been called the little "lion dog." That was probably due to the fighting heart of the dog.

Pekingese were first imported to England from their native land.

Beagles "Singers" of Dogdom
Beagles are the "singers" of dogdom. These merry little dogs are virtually vest pocket editions of a foxhound. Their main forte is trailing and being equipped with a good scenting nose, they are used to seek the fast flying "Br'r Rabbit." Just as soon as a Beagle gets "on the line" of a cotton-tail, notes a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, he broadcasts his joy of the hunt with a throaty call, which devoted admirers of the hound describe as "clear as a bell." The Beagle is built on compact lines. He is a durable little fellow and will hunt tirelessly over a long period. Although the Beagle is equipped with short running gear, his legs are strong. Due to his short coat of varied white, black and tan hues, he can penetrate thick brush in trailing a rabbit.

Piccolo, Old Instrument
A German invention, the piccolo is just about 400 years old. But its ancestry goes much further back. For, as the name indicates, it's a "little flute," and flutes were probably the first musical instruments. Flutes were popular in ancient Greece, where, legend has it, they were invented by Athena, goddess of wisdom. The story goes that Athena threw her creation away after seeing in a stream how her face was distorted while playing. But the flute came back when another god, Marsyas, found it and became proficient at it.

Luxuriously Furred Costumes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE big news about fall and winter fashions is that they bespeak a new high in elegance. When fashion goes opulent, goes sumptuous, goes luxurious, then what inevitably happens? Well for one thing it follows as the night the day that designers turn to handsome furs and fur trimmings as one way of conveying the message of elegance in the mode.

Which accounts for the fact that the new coats, suits and ensembles show an enrichment of fur that emphatically declares an era of luxurious dress. In consequence, women who are fashion-alert have taken their cue and are making it their chief concern to acquire a complete ensemble costume styled of high-grade material ranging from rugged colorful tweeds to refined duvetyns, broadcloths or velvets that are graced with precious fur—the sort that bespeaks a "lady of quality."

The models pictured have been carefully selected from among a collection shown at a preview given by the Style Creators of Chicago in the wholesale district. These furred costumes were designed by members of their group to meet the demands of women that class as among the best dressed.

Perfect for crisp autumn days is the outfit to the left in the picture. The dress is of sheer black alpaca weave. Its novel metal chain and clasp closing showing between the fur on the coat gives it a military bearing. The free-swinging coronation red wool coat is a fascinating garment, and its tuxedo bands of marten fur make it more so.

Marten fur this season is a most significant event. It has been a long time since we have been seeing much marten in the style picture. Its return will be welcomed for it is not only as handsome as can be, but for dependable wear it has no superior.

When the smartly dressed woman steps out in a gorgeously furred costume as centered in the picture, she will be the cynosure of admiring eyes. This sheer wool model combines a tuxedo-front coat trimmed in a huge cross fox with a one-piece dress that is simply charming. Note the decorative quilted flowers outlined in gold thread at the neckline. The gold kid belt adds the finishing touch.

There is really no limit to the ingenuity displayed in the placement of fur. It is used for separate sleeves in cloth coats so much so that the fashion has become quite outstanding this season. The coat with a bolero top is ever so smart, too. The newest wrinkle is the bolero type that has the lower cloth part zipped on so that it can be removed at will thus providing a jaunty little fur jacket or full length coat. Among countless other fur arrangements novelties are to be seen such as a panel of fur extending down the back of the coat from neck to hemline as if it were a wattleu pleat. Frequently double borderings of fur occur about hemlines.

SUEDE FOURSOME

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Suede from head to foot is the next move, says fashion. Here is shown a suede foursome that answers to the call. The hat is a harvest rust off-the-face suede model with a right up-brim. It fits low in the back. The shoes are multi-toned open throat suede oxfords with bindings of coffee brown and Araby green on harvest rust. The bag is a large suede design in harvest rust with gold metal trim.

JEWELRY DESIGNERS GO ROMANTIC ALSO

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

With romanticism gaining such a headway in fashions for fall, small wonder that jewelry manufacturers have recognized it and are all set for a hey-dey. Jewelry, my good woman, is not only getting bigger and better, but practically all of it has been inspired. Some of the inspirations are modern, but most of them have been drawn from an era when romance was at its height and glamour stalked the world in high places.

Such romantic figures as Empress Carlotta, glamorous wife of the ill-fated Emperor Maximilian who reigned for such a short time, (1864-1887) over Mexico; Joan of Arc; grand duchesses whose jewels were of such splendor as to have been remembered; these, and lovely ladies of the gay nineties and the naughty naughts, are being immortalized, more or less, in smart pieces of costume jewelry designed by Alberta, one of America's leading costume jewelry designers.

The "Empress Carlotta" jewelry has been copied from some of her pieces of jewels found in a museum in Mexico. For evening it is the most elegant, for it is made of Kimberley gems which are cut and set like fine diamonds in 24 karat gold washed metal.

"Joan of Arc" jewelry is part of an all-metal group which Alberta believes will be a big success for fall. This line is made of a silvery metal studded like the doors of a medieval castle.

Costume Jewelry
The dog collar and the feather tiara are two revivals of the Gay Nineties period which are important this season.

Hats, Handbag Match
Knitted hats and handbags are designed to match hand-knit frocks and suits in dark, rich colors for winter wear.

What Women Want to Know About Fashions

Short boxy fur jackets vie with fur capes. Dresses and coats made entirely of suede are following the early autumn vogue.

Use your imagination in selecting accessories to make the dress look different each time you wear it. Draped handknit sweaters give an individual touch to sports costumes in the Mainbocher winter collection.

Ornate applique and hand-quilted design is extensively employed. Black is once more to the fore as the smartest color with the new deep shades next in importance.

Among the decorative motives for the coming winter, gold-thread embroidery is one of the richest. Quilted satin and bright blue broadcloth are among the fabrics chosen by Lanvin for wraps.

REMEMBER Your TELEPHONE and FORGET THE DISTANCE

It doesn't matter any more how far away people and places are. What does matter is how long it takes to reach them. But if you will just remember the telephone—you can forget the distance. For the out-of-town telephone call laughs at miles, and costs amazingly little, especially after 7 p. m. weekdays, and all day long on Sundays. You can solve any problem involving distance—by Long Distance.
